

Filming Protocols in Action

To understand how the Filming Protocols work to guide you through the storytelling process, you will rewatch the short documentary as a production group and respond to the following prompts which reflect the questions you will answer as you complete your short documentary.

1. Create a logline for the short documentary you just viewed.
2. Identify the central message of the story.
3. Identify a compelling shot from the short documentary. Note the shot size and scale, in addition to any other visual notes.
4. Identify the transition into Act II and Act III of the short documentary.
5. Create a one-day production schedule that features all the components of the short documentary you saw featured (Ex. Interviews, B-Roll, Scenes, etc.)

6. Based on the interviews in the story, create a question the interviewer would have asked.
7. Attempt to catalog how many characters are introduced during the short documentary.
8. Name one area of improvement in the editing of this short documentary.