TRANSCRIPT

Welcome to a daily dose of greatness quest. I shoot today's episode in the Bahamas. If you're watching this on video you'll see a boat and a pink flamingo behind me. And in honor of that, today's show is called JUMP IN AND RIDE THE PINK FLAMINGO.

I know you're gonna love the show.

(INTRO - AUDIO)

So we're in grand great Exuma in the Bahamas. And my wife and daughter and I decided to go someplace for lunch. And we saw this gigantic pink flamingo and I don't know if you can get that close about how big that is, that's our Mondo that's in the thing that we just met but it's this huge pink flamingo on the back of this of this boat.

And we decided to have lunch out here because we came to Georgetown which is the town behind us. This is the biggest town in the Exuma. And we came here for lunch and met these guys and they invited us on the boat for a beer and hang out in the pink flamingo and different stuff.

Now, why is today about jumping in and riding the pink flamingo? Because I'm about to do that. I'm gonna jump in, jump on that pink flamingo. But it's also about where in your life do you need to jump in? Or is it time that you jump in with both feet?

So you can go ahead and Patty Cake right off of the deck there you know, or you can go ahead and stick your toe in the water and see how wet it is. You can try something out, you can buy a program and a course and an event and you can give it a good college try.

You know, I was at a seminar recently and we broke up into a little group. And one of the guys is talking about what he wanted to do. And he said, what I need to do are more affirmations. And it was really cute. And it was really nice. And I think he should. That sounds great. But he was just not making a definitive choice. And it certainly was not jumping all in on what was important to him.

When I went to my first Tony Robbins event, I didn't have enough money for the next event. When I went to my first Tony Robbins event. This was back in 2002. I had actually hoped to get a refund. I wanted to get a refund because I wanted to get my money back from Tony so that I could then have enough money to spend in New York City.

I wanted to basically steal from Tony saying you know what, this probably isn't that good at a seminar. I just want to get your experience half of it for free and they get my money back but at the end, I had drank the Kool Aid. I thought, oh my god, this is amazing content. This is amazing information. I wish someone told me some of these truths earlier in my life and I could have had a better quality of life.

And Tony gave me the invitation of joining him for two years. To go ahead and go to his master University and just to invest in myself and he didn't say Follow me. He said, walk with me. He said, join me He's like, Hey, you don't use me as a teacher. Find someone as a teacher.

And I chose to jump in. I chose to raise my hand I I lifted up my hand and I and I signed up for a $10,000 price tag that I did not have. I didn't have even $17 left on my credit card but I jumped in I went all in and now that I've done that that was a little bit ago I get to ride that Flamingo. That's what I'm going to do now.

My challenge for you (while I set up my camera here). My challenge to you is to think where in your life do you need to make a decision to just go all in and jump (I gotta secure this sucker) and jump in? And what does it mean for you to go all in, to fully commit? And then ride the pink flamingo in your life, whatever that is for you.

For me, what does it for next is committing to this daily podcast to start converting a lot of my podcast to video and making the commitment to go ahead and post and promote and publish them. I don't know what it is for you. But for me, it's going all in. And I'll put two really cool daily quotes in this for the show notes. Make sure you go to trevorcrane.com and check out the podcast. You can download that.

And if you liked today's episode, make sure that you share it with somebody else that you love and go to iTunes give us a positive compliment or what they call it.

All right. That's it. I said the quote of the day is that "Sometimes you just gotta jump in and ride the pink flamingo." You don't know what that means? It doesn't make any sense? Very very supportive. Honey. Not that creative but uh.
