SUBJECT 4

A LIVESTOCK RESEARCH STATION FOR SIND WITH RESPECT TO
TO GENERAL CATTLE AND OTHER WORK IN ALL CLASSES OF LIVESTOCK LINE CATTLE, GOAT, SHEEP, POULTRY ETC.

NOTE BY THE LIVESTOCK OFFICER IN SIND.

A Livestock Research Station is the most urgent requirement for the Province.

Besides maintenance of herds of pedigree animals, progress should be directed towards conducting important experiments of practical utility in extension of similar work at the Central Livestock Institute at Izat Nagar. These experiments would comprise scientific breeding to produce the types of sire most useful to the province and eventually and to distribute its seed for artificial insemination work in the district. Other aspects of the activities of the Institute will include the economical feeding of milch cattle, draught cattle and other species with the local fodders, experiments, in disease control and the production of disease resistant strains, prevention of ticks, tick fevers, warble flies etc. It may be possible that with the co-operation of the Veterinary Department strains of animals immune to liverfluke which is now playing havoc in the Barrage zone might be evolved in course of time.

Research on cultivated fodders and domestication of wild fodders of economic value will be another line of work. There should also be flocks of sheep, goat and poultry pens for evolution of first class stock.

Experiments demonstrating economic values with respect to combination of milk, with fruit and vegetables and eggs for the benefit of the small grower are urgently necessary in order to educate public on this aspect of mixed farming.

The Animal Husbandry Commissioner to the Government of India who visited Sind very recently is of opinion that the location of livestock research station should be on the Willingdon Cattle Farm at Malir which is well suited for the development and is of sufficient size, is easy of access and can be developed
