MOF could be used to define web services as well as OO concepts. Examples of classifiers include classes, interfaces, packages, components, use cases, actors, Meta Model is is language tool used in NLP to uncover deep-rooted structural problems held internally. Grinder and Bandler explained how people create defective mental maps the following examples were derived from therapeutic contexts. A meta-model defines concepts and their relationships through a class diagram. A meta-model defines only the structure (not semantic). A model is an instance of a meta-model if it respects the structure defined by the meta-model. The MOF 2.5 specification provides the basis for metamodel definition in the OMG family of An example of metadata is the diagram in a relational database. Metamodels. A metamodel is itself a model that is used to describe another model using a modeling language. The term éta (erre or u-dessu) is therefore relative - from the perspective, a model is either a model or a metamodel. A metamodel or substitution model is a model of a model, and metamodelage is the process of generating such metamodels. Thus, the analysis, construction and development of frameworks, rules, constraints, models and theories applicable and useful to model a class of predefined problems are metamodately or meta-modeling. what is a meta-model, its historical context, when it is needed and how it can be defined Introduction examples - what is a meta-model? 7.
