New ethiopian music video

Like his people's fashion sense, everyone's music in Ethiopia reflects the distinct personality of the country's different ethnic groups. Traditional music incorporates African folk sounds, but is generally less rhythmic and based on strings and reeds than that of other African countries. Ethiopian music, similar to that of neighbouring Eritrea and Sudan, incorporates a number of traditional instruments, the most common of which are: Krar: a six-string edill, played with your fingers or with a plectrum, which is used to pluck or strum stringswashint: a simple fluteNegerit: a kettle drum played with sticksAtamo: a drum hit with fingers or palm Popular music leaked into the national consciousness in 1930, when the then emperor Haile Selassie I developed brass bands in the Western style. Three decades later, the roots of American jazz, pop and soul music began to take hold of these styles, as artists combined these styles with hints of traditional songs. The dictatorial regime after Selassie's deposition has led popular artists such as vocalist Aster Aweke to flee the country, but pop music has once again enjoyed a mass appeal in the country since the collapse of the dictatorship in 1991. Contemporary folk artists include Gigi, a singer who combines traditional and modern music; jazz sax player Abatte Barihun; and BBC World Music Award winner Mahmoud Ahmed [source: Pryor]. This, of course, is just a quick look at the flourishing traditions and culture of Ethiopia. See the links on the next page for more information. Keep up to date with the latest daily buzz with the BuzzFeed Daily newsletter! Instagram Stories lets you add your favorite songs to a video or photo directly from the app, but you can also use third-party apps to add music to Stories and feed posts. I found more to do his job. From Drake to Billie Eilish, you can now turn your Instagram account into your personal soundtrack. Here. Note: Most of these apps allow you to use only audio recordings or music files saved to your device. Therefore, if you only use streaming apps, consider finding a few music files first. Adding music to Stories and sending videos Adding great song to your stories is pretty easy. Record the video in the Stories section of the app, and then tap the icon at the top of the screen that looks like a smiley face inside a square. From there, tap the Music icon and choose a song from the list. Lyrics will appear on the screen, and you can choose which part of the song plays, the font type, and the color of the lyrics. If you don't want lyrics, you can also choose to show the album cover. Unfortunately, you can't add music to videos in your feed unless you create them through Stories, save them, and then upload the video to your feed. There are some third-party apps that can help you, though. Here are some. Lomotif Lomotif is a lot like Instagram Story — the interface is similar, and adding music to clips is painless. It even has a Boomerang-like feature called Scratch Editor. After you add music, you can upload and share your video on Instagram, Facebook, and Twitter. The app also lets you quickly add music to text, filters, and emoji. You can search for millions of songs and thousands of artists as well, or browse using a variety of unique themes. itunes Google Play Videoshop apt-titled Videoshop brings a lot of tricks to the table. You can flip videos horizontally, combine multiple clips into one, cut videos, add animated transitions, and make motion-stopping videos. You can also create copies of your videos and edit each clip individually. App even dozens of filters and text overlays that allow for extensive customization. itunes Google Play Vigo Video Vigo Video, officially Flipgram, is a full-time video editor that sets itself apart from being more than just one app – it is also a creative community. You can find inspired content from creators in the app and share their own videos to inspire others. Even if you prefer not to interact in its social space, Vigo Video lets you share on Instagram and other social media sites. It also has a built-in music library, making it easy to access your favorite songs. You can also sew multiple videos and add still photos, overlay text, and a host of other components. iTunes Google Play Quik by GoPro GoPro has revolutionized the world of action video, and now the company is looking to do the same for the world of mobile video editing. Quik automatically creates stories using images and videos — both those shot with your phone and a GoPro camera, if you have one. It also adds filters, music, and one of several unique video edits, such as stop-motion or silica, the latter cutting it on the screen in half and playing the video one at a time. The app also lets you change any of the video properties, giving you full control over the appearance of the video. You can also choose music from your own library or from the app's vast song collection. You can select or deselect the pictures and clips you want to include and choose the side effects you want to apply. So if you just want to add some songs to a quick video of yourself cooking food, you can do that. Or, if you want to create a full collage of records and pictures from a recent ski trip, one full of filters and effects, you can do that too. iTunes Google Play TikTok TikTok is not just an app; is a global video community powered by music. With TikTok, you can watch short videos and make your own fun and memorable moments that you want to share with the world. You can even spice up your videos with emoji stickers and facial filters, or add audio support using the app's wide range of music clips and sounds. Best of all, included playlists allow you to pull from each genre – including pop, rock, rap, electronic, R&B and country – so you're sure you'll find something that matches your current mood. itunes Google Play Reading further Recommendations to publishers YouTube Music Videos are fun to watch for a multitude of reasons, but if you ask us, we love watching them for design inspiration. Below, House Beautiful has rounded up a list of music videos showing some of the best homes I've ever seen. Whether you're in castles, villas, or castles, our list has something for everyone, including houses that acted as backgrounds for the likes of Taylor Swift, Drake, Jonas Brothers, and Del Rey. After they say, there's no place like home-and we really want that three clicks of a twinkle, red pair of shoes were the only thing that keeps us from being transported to these video music houses right now. Advertising - keep browsing Continue reading Taylor Swift, Blank Blank There's a reason Why Taylor Swift's video for Blank Space has over 2.5 billion views - his images are gorgeously on top and opulent in a way that completely matches Swift's captivating lyrics. This award-winning video was shot mainly at Oheka Castle, the second largest house in the U.S., built for financier and philanthropist Otto Hermann Kahn, 1919 Gold Coast estate was designed by Delano & Aldrich with gardens by the Olmsted Brothers (sons of Frederick Law Olmsted of Central Park fame). Oheka is now a wedding and venue event (and hotel), where celebrities like Kevin Jonas (who is also on this list) were married. If we ever have a chance to visit Oheka, we promise not to throw decoration in the fireplace, stab perfectly painted portraits in ruins, and have a dirty, mascara-ruining breakdown in front of a marble mantle. WATCH THE VIDEO Drake, Toosie Slide Drake's very own Toronto mansion takes the central scene in his video for Toosie Slide, and now we know why he kept singing just sit, going home in one of his other successful songs – we would rush home too if ours looked like this. If you're looking for design inspiration and more Drake after watching this video, he and his mansion are also featured on the cover of AD magazine's May 2020 show. WATCH THE VIDEO Jonas Brothers, Sucker If you make a surprise comeback years from the breakup of the successful band of brothers and you are not sure where to film the first video, a mansion of 75,000 square meters that is over 400 years should do the trick. The Sucker video begins with a photograph of the extraordinary exterior of Hatfield House, a Jacobite property near London. We think we can say that this house is the main attraction of this video jonas brothers. And we would like to scroll around a historic English country house in a tulle ball gown with a package of corgis, à la Queen Elizabeth II.WATCH VIDEO Bazzi, Myself You may have heard Bazzi Myself's song in various Tik Tok videos in recent months, given that it went viral two years after it was released , but we'd rather watch accompanying video for very handsome French-inspired furniture (and chic poodles that sit on said furniture), baroque mirrors, and detailed casting. As for the exterior of this house, it boasts timeless elements, such as Corinthian columns, arched windows and a Mediterranean-style roof composed of clay tiles. In the words of Bazzi himself, I think I'm losing my mind... over this house and its eye-catching design. WATCH THE VIDEO Iggy Azalea, Started Los Angeles featured in Iggy Azalea's Started is quite a feat of architecture and interior design, with its its matching entrance and railing, intricate white crown casting, and damask wallpaper. Not to mention this fantasy home comes with dream views of the lush landscapes that California is known for. And so Iggy Azalea herself sings in this song, she house is so big, [she] sits on acres and acres, [she never] saw [her] neighbors. We wish we could refer to this verse, but you will only have to live indirectly through this video for the time being. WATCH THE VIDEO Lana Del Rey, Born to Die Château de Fontainebleau, located in France, is probably the most spectacular house on this list, given its cathedral-esque grandeur, and the incorporation of Lana Del Rey's live tigers, her signature flower crown, and an ornate throne chair—as indeed fit her vision. This significant Renaissance-style work of architecture (included in the UNESCO World Heritage Site) was home to many French monarchs, including Napoleon III, grandson of Napoleon Bonaparte. There is one thing we know for sure - we will not have any sadness * summer * if this castle is in our attractions.
