A Message from Just Katherine

I am, as I'm certain many others are, horrified at the college admissions scandal. It really hit close this morning as I read the paper and saw one of those charged is from Bardstown, KY. I don't know why that makes it worse for me, but it does. Clearly these people used their money and power to gain access to something the common man doesn't have access to. In a word—this is the abuse of privilege.

And it's making me itchy....

Because this is a gross abuse of privilege, but I have to acknowledge there are times, probably more than I want to admit, I too have used privilege—like this week.

I hurt my knee badly on Saturday—my already severely damaged knee. When I called my orthopedist office on Monday morning they couldn't get me in until Tuesday. That is until...

I knew someone who knew someone and texting between the three of us resulted in me being seen immediately. We can put lipstick on this pig and say anyone would do it if they could, but it's still a pig—may I introduce you to Privilege Pig.

Would I do it again? The truth is probably, or maybe not, now that I'm publicly admitting it. The harsher truth is many of us use our privilege and don't even think about it. And you know what they say, recognizing it is the first step—possibly even the hardest step.

It's about intentional living—it's about intentionally living out the Gospel, and it's about understanding it's not just for the big stuff like college acceptance scandals.

I have much on which to reflect....

Faithfully,
Just Katherine+

P.S. But will you please pray for peace as I await the results?

HAPPENING AT ST. THOMAS

COMMUNITY BUILDING CLEAN-UP VOLUNTEERS NEEDED Sunday March 17, 2019 - after coffee hour

Our mold removal contractor is ready to begin the final clean-up of the Community Building basement.

If we can discard or move upstairs the few remaining items in the basement we will be helping the contractor and eliminate additional charges to St. Thomas.

If you are highly sensitive to mold we have breathing masks and protective eye wear. You may not need them. The mold odor has been greatly reduced because the basement has been leak free for several weeks.

- No heavy lifting will be involved.
- You will need to climb stairs.

Please come help. Many hands make the work light.
