FAQs: What is the difference between certification and registration?

Certification is the process by which each parish indicates their elected lay delegates to the Bishop's Office. Certification places the delegates and alternate delegates into the formal communication for Convention. Registration is the process by which each delegate and member of convention (clergy, retired clergy, spouses, seminarians, etc.) provides their individual information necessary to prepare for convention, such as preferred name, food allergies, etc.

Where will delegates and members of convention stay?

A limited number of hotel rooms have been secured at the Renaissance Montgomery, the Staybridge Suites Downtown, and the Doubletree Downtown. Information to book these hotels will be released to certified delegates and members of convention in late November. Please do not attempt to call the hotels to register in advance – they have been instructed not to open the room blocks until instructed by the convention team. You may also secure your own accommodation at other local hotels or rental homes or commute if within a reasonable distance.

Are meals provided to delegates?

Lunch and dinner will be provided at no cost to registrants on Friday, February 9. Light snacks will be offered during the business sessions; breakfast is on your own each day and convention will be dismissed by lunch time on Saturday.

Will childcare be provided?

At this time, childcare will not be provided, though the convention team continues to determine the feasibility and safety of providing a children's program.

Should alternate delegates register and book lodging?

We recommend that alternate delegates DO NOT REGISTER or book accommodations. Should a lay delegate not be able to attend, the registration and accommodations for the delegate can be transferred to the alternate.

Where should I park?

There is paid parking available at the Renaissance Montgomery.
