The Prayers of the People
Lent

Deacon: With all our heart and all our mind, let us come before the Throne of Grace and ask God’s mercy for ourselves and for the whole world.

For the evil we do
For the good we fail to do
For the faith we lack
For the blessings we take for granted
For the grace to turn again and believe
For the light of the Gospel to guide our feet
For the example of the saints to strengthen our faith
For the glory of the Cross to shape our lives
For the Church in every place
For the faithful who suffer for Christ
For those who do not yet believe
For those who have lost their faith
For the nations and peoples of the world
For those who make war and those who make peace
For those driven from their homes by fear
For those blinded by greed and hatred
For our neighbors who go hungry
For our neighbors who are unemployed
For our neighbors who are lonely
For our neighbors who have no hope

Lord, have mercy
For

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

and all we love who are sick or in any kind of trouble  Lord, have mercy

For [churches in the diocesan and Anglican Communion cycles of prayer]  Lord, have mercy

For

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________

and all the faithful departed  Lord, have mercy

Holy God
Holy and mighty
Holy and immortal
Have mercy on us.