West Virginia
EXPLORE THE EASTERN PANHANDLE

EXPLORE COUNTRY ROADS
Get off the beaten path

SCENIC MOUNTAIN VISTAS
Views that go on forever

OUTDOOR LOVERS PARADISE
Endless recreation all year long

WVtourism.com
#AlmostHeaven
Located in historic Shepherdstown, WV, the Bavarian Inn Resort & Brewing Company offers the best of European luxury and cuisine on a 12-acre estate overlooking the Potomac River. With 72 elegantly appointed state rooms, four distinct dining rooms, an award-winning wine list, infinity pool, tennis courts and golf, the Bavarian Inn makes for a perfect getaway. The latest addition, Bavarian Brothers Brewing, is a casual dining brew pub and lounge celebrating the family’s German heritage. The beers are a representation of their European roots and West Virginia location.
Explore
The Eastern Panhandle

features

4 Panhandle of Paradise
Just a short one-hour drive from Washington, D.C., discover West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle.

6 Morgan County Berkeley Springs
The arts spring to life.

12 Berkeley County Martinsburg
Rich in history and culture.

20 Jefferson County Harpers Ferry
Confluence of history.

24 Charles Town
A sure bet.

26 Ranson
Authentic small town charm.

Explore the Eastern Panhandle is sponsored by the Jefferson County Convention & Visitors Bureau, Ranson Convention & Visitors Bureau, Martinsburg-Berkeley County Convention & Visitors Bureau, Travel Berkeley Springs, and the West Virginia Tourism Office.

The three counties of the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia—Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson—make up the Washington Heritage Trail. Experience a rich timeline of American history that includes a colonial spa town, sites of early industries, railroad landmarks and Civil War locations. The footsteps of America’s first president are particularly prominent, along this 127-mile driving trail named for George Washington and approved as a National Scenic Byway and West Virginia Scenic Byway.

on the cover
Harpers Ferry. Photographed by Buddy Secor
The Mountain State is easily accessible by six major interstates: I-64, I-79, I-77, I-70, I-68, and I-81. The state’s only toll road is a southern portion of I-77. Welcome Centers are located along these points of entry.

Take Interstate 70 and U.S. Route 2 through the Northern Panhandle region to explore historic Wheeling and Ohio River towns. Prabhupada’s Palace of Gold is one of the most unique attractions in the state.

Interstate 64 takes you from Huntington to Charleston to Lewisburg for urban culture and small-town charm, from the rural Appalachian history of Heritage Farms in Huntington to the opulent luxury of The Greenbrier Resort in White Sulphur Springs and everything in between.
Famous for the New River Gorge and world-class whitewater rafting, U.S Route 19 in southern West Virginia leads to adventure. It is also home to West Virginia’s largest single day festival Bridge Day which is held on the New River Gorge Bridge and attracts base jumpers form all over the world.

From the Ohio River to the Virginia border, Interstate 77 travels through some of West Virginia’s greatest cities and attractions. You’ll discover some of the state’s most vibrant arts and cultural destinations, including Blennerhassett Historical State Park, where a plot to overthrow our nation was conceived.

The I-79 corridor snakes through Morgantown and the Mountain Lakes region, ending at the state capital of Charleston. The capital city is known for its music and entertainment venues including the Clay Center in the heart of downtown. You will also discover endless outdoor recreation opportunities, wonderful dining venues, and comfortable small towns.

Interstate 81 and the scenic Route 55 connect the Eastern Panhandle to the Potomac Highlands region of the state. Highlighted by incredible scenic beauty and endless outdoor recreation opportunities all year long. Iconic Seneca Rocks is one of the most photographed locations in all of West Virginia.

Travel Responsibly

West Virginia's country roads are made for exploration, and our mountains provide a wealth of socially-distant getaways for you and your loved ones as you gear up to hit the road.

Throughout your time in West Virginia, please travel responsibly. Stay up-to-date on state health guidelines. Wear a mask, if required. And maintain proper social distance to keep you and your fellow travelers safe.

The health and safety of our residents and visitors is our top priority. As you plan your trip, explore socially-distant vacation ideas and the latest statewide guidelines at www.coronavirus.wv.gov or call the WV DHHR at 1-800-887-4304.

Don’t forget to post pictures from your responsible road trip with #AlmostHeaven.

Safe travels!
We hope to see you soon.
PANHANDLE OF PARADISE
Just a short one-hour drive from the Washington, D.C. area, discover West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle.

The mountain state’s most vibrant region is rich in history and scenic beauty. If you don’t feel like driving, take Amtrak’s “Capitol Limited” route, which operates daily between Washington, D.C. and Chicago and passes through the Eastern Panhandle with stops in Harpers Ferry and Martinsburg. Or you can take the Maryland Rail Commuter (MARC), which operates Monday through Friday between Martinsburg and Washington, D.C. and has a stop in Harpers Ferry as well.

However you get here, you will quickly find out the Eastern Panhandle is a place you will want to return again and again. Five 18th century towns—Berkeley Springs, Charles Town, Harpers Ferry, Martinsburg, and Shepherdstown—all surrounded by gorgeous countryside serve as the backdrop for modern life offering world-class lodging, dining, shopping, and cultural activities in Berkeley, Jefferson, and Morgan counties.

The influence of the Washington family can be felt throughout the eastern panhandle. The Washington Heritage Trail was established to follow the footsteps of George Washington and loops through all three counties in the panhandle. This National Scenic Byway highlights various museums, historic districts, parks, and other sites of historic significance in the area.

History comes alive when you visit Harpers Ferry National Historical Park. Tour the U.S. Armory and Arsenal held by John Brown and his army for three days in 1859. Browse through unique shops and then head across the bridge and hike up to Maryland Heights for the most spectacular view of Harpers Ferry and the Shenandoah Valley.

Visit the gorgeous town of Berkeley Springs, which was incorporated in 1776 as Bath in honor of England’s spa city of Bath. Be sure to visit Berkeley Springs State Park, home to a historic mineral spa that has been used since colonial times. The park is renowned for its warm spring water, which flows at a constant temperature of 74.3 degrees.

If the outdoors is more your thing, visit the scenic town of Ranson. It is the perfect place to hike, with its close proximity to the Appalachian Trail, or fish and kayak the beautiful Potomac and Shenandoah rivers. If you like a little more action, Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races is just down the road and offers live thoroughbred racing, table games, and slots.

The home of Civil War spy and femme fatale Belle Boyd is in Martinsburg and open to the public. Visit that, then explore the Martinsburg Roundhouse, once burned by General Stonewall Jackson and tour a secret tunnel in the home of a Revolutionary War general.

The Eastern Panhandle is known for its wonderful selection of dining venues offering contemporary cuisine in fun, eclectic settings, many with spectacular views and outdoor dining options. Don’t miss the endless wine selection at Brix 27 in downtown Martinsburg, a casually sophisticated atmosphere where every seat feels like a cozy corner for reconnecting with friends. Take in views of the beautiful Potomac River as you enjoy delicious German and American cuisine prepared by master chefs at the Bavarian Inn & Brewing Company in Shepherdstown.

The craft beer movement is also alive and well in the panhandle. Highlighted by Abolitionist Ale in Charles Town, Bavarian Brothers Brewing located at the Bavarian Inn in Shepherdstown, Berkeley Springs Brewing Co. and the new Cacapon Mountain Brewing in Berkeley Springs, you can find the perfect brew for you in one of these unique brew pubs.

Discover more about this amazing place as you explore the following pages. Warm hospitality, endless adventure, and the finest in creature comforts await you just a short drive away in the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia. Come see us soon.
Natural warm springs gave this place just south of the Potomac River a hospitable start. The springs drew Native Americans, then colonists through the wilderness. It was still just a wet spot in the middle of the vast forest when a young George Washington arrived in 1748 as part of the party surveying Thomas Lord Fairfax’s land grant. But by 1776 it had become such a destination that the Virginia General Assembly created the town of Bath, named for the spa city in England.

A four days journey from the settled east coast, Bath became the new nation’s first spa town. It was a destination that offered hope to the afflicted and relaxation to Virginia’s social elite—George Washington and his brother Samuel bought lots for summer cottages, as did signers of the Declaration of Independence, Revolutionary War generals, and members of the Continental Congress. The community that grew up around the warm, healing mineral waters is unlike any other in the region, one centered in healing arts of all kinds. There’s even a public pump where water is available free. It also provides the town water supply and was voted runner up as “best local non-alcoholic beverage in the Blue Ridge.”

But the attractions in this lively little village—known for more than two centuries by its post office name, Berkeley Springs—go far beyond aromatherapy and hot stone massages. Its colonial and healing roots make it a first-class history stop. The entire downtown is an historic district listed on the National Register of Historic Places, making for gracious streetscapes and a picturesque town center. A longtime active arts council has made the town a hub for arts of all kinds. And, as a destination from its beginning, Berkeley Springs has deep roots in hospitality, with an outsize number of quality inns and eateries and three times as many massage therapists as lawyers.

A day in Berkeley Springs offers delicious meals, boutique shopping, and expert pampering. But stay awhile—make Berkeley Springs your jumping off point for day trips to the surrounding mountain and river attractions. Then return to enjoy the nightlife: from a vintage movie house to theater and dance performances and live music, you’re sure to be entertained.

THE ARTS ALIVE and WELL HERE

Explore These Shops

Unique finds await in Berkeley Springs’ shops and galleries, many within a pleasant stroll of each other. Browse distinctive gifts at Berkeley Springs Memories, Inspired Chaos, Jules, Mineral Springs Trading Company, Himalayan Handicrafts, Black Cat Music, Mountain Laurel Gallery. Delight in the area’s only year ‘round Christmas shop at Berkeley Springs Memories. Shop tasty treats at Fleur de Lis cheese shop and Naked Oil gourmet oils. Find health products in Portals and at Sage Moon Herb Shop. Or take home some local history and country touches from Appalachian Antiques, the Berkeley Springs Antique Mall, RAG Shop, Stop and Shop or Country Traditions.

One look at the painted parking meters on Independence Street and you know you’re in a place that’s creative, quirky, and proud of it. Recognized annually as a top arts destination, Berkeley Springs is a great find for lovers of the arts. The village traces its roots in the arts in part to famed 19th century sketch artist and travel writer David Hunter Strother, popularly known as Porte Crayon, who owned the 500-room Berkeley Springs Hotel and attracted a creative crowd to town. Today, working artists make up a significant part of Morgan County’s population, and Berkeley Springs is their hub. Studios and galleries across town display everything from photographs and paintings in all media to fiber, clay, glass, wood, and metal crafts, all from local artists.

The Ice House is your premier arts stop (138 Independence Street, 304.258.2300, macicehouse.org). A one-time apple warehouse gifted to the Morgan Arts Council (MAC) in the 1990s, the Ice House is the center of arts education, practice, and appreciation in Morgan County. Its Hall of Dreams, Carr-Kelly, and Special Exhibit galleries feature exhibits that rotate frequently. Looking to buy? The Ice House Artists’ Co-op serves as a place for its dozens of artist members to display and sell their works (icehousecoop.com).

The performing arts thrive in Berkeley Springs, too, with frequent dance, music, and theater performances. A summer concert series provides free live music at Berkeley Springs State Park every Saturday afternoon. Dance is a favorite local art form, especially bellydancing, with many classes and performances. And the active community theater produces everything from Shakespeare to musicals to locally written plays. Located near the Ice House, Black Cat Music and The Granary both feature local music venues and activities.

Anyone can get in on the art fun in Berkeley Springs—schedule a visit around a workshop, or join the annual October studio tour, when local artists invite the public into their creative processes.
TREAT YOURSELF

No visit to Berkeley Springs is complete without a little healing self-indulgence. Many forms of bodywork can be found at day spas across town—or try one of these full-service spas. There’s a reason why Berkeley Springs was voted “Best Spa Town in the Blue Ridge.”

Atasia Spa

Enjoy both old-fashioned West Virginia hospitality and cutting edge spa services. Atasia owner Frankie Tan has provided more than 25,000 massages in Berkeley Springs. Schedule your favorite type of massage, facial treatment or enhancement, or nail care—or pamper yourself with one of Atasia’s bath and body rituals such as sugar and salt scrubs, steam and herbal wraps, and mud treatments. atasiaspa.com

Berkeley Springs State Park

Combine relaxation and history with a visit to the spas at Berkeley Springs State Park. Have a soak in one of the large private bathing chambers in the newly renovated Old Roman Bath House in operation since 1820. Or choose the contemporary facilities at the 1929 Main Bathhouse. Here in addition to Roman bath you the option of whirlpool bath, massage, aquatic bodywork and dry sauna. Berkeley Springs Healing Center gathers several practitioners under one roof offering everything from acupuncture and reiki to cranio-sacral and Quantum Analysis. berkeleyspringssp.com

Renaissance Spa at The Country Inn

At this spa located in the historic Country Inn overlooking the springs and town, choose from Swedish, deep tissue, and hot stone massage as well as prenatal and couples experiences. Or try a Renaissance Spa signature skin care treatment like a Detoxifying Thai Body Wrap with creamy coconut and crisp lemongrass or a Moroccan Incense Body Ritual of a scrub, a body wrap, and a light massage with the scents of sandalwood and vanilla. renaiissancespa.com

---

Accolades

Berkeley Springs regularly earns state, regional, and national recognition.

Berkeley Springs was voted “best spa town in the Blue Ridge” in 2019
Springs Hospitality

Spend the night, weekend or longer—between historic inns, B&Bs, cottages, cabins, and camping, Berkeley Springs and Morgan County offer dozens of options. Here are just a few.

The Country Inn
The beloved 1933 Park View Inn adjacent to Berkeley Springs State Park on the historic site of the 19th century Berkeley Springs Hotel has taken on new life under the ownership of the local Omps family. Today’s updated Country Inn is an experience unparalleled in the region. The stately inn offers 70 unique guest rooms and suites, a full-service restaurant serving in several unique dining areas (see page 11), and the Renaissance Spa (see page 7). Combination packages available. thecountryinnwv.com

Highlawn Inn
Tim Miller and Sandra Kauffman bought the Highlawn Inn in 1984 and meticulously restored it to its original elegance. Now operated by Sandy’s daughter, Laura, the Victorian bed and breakfast offers 70 unique guest rooms and suites, a full-service restaurant serving in several unique dining areas (see page 11), and the Renaissance Spa (see page 7). Combination packages available. thecountryinnwv.com

White Pines Estate Bed and Breakfast
The charm of a southern mansion on 65 acres with wrap around porches to enjoy beautiful mountain views or walk along Sleepy Creek. Three distinctive bedrooms share the mansion with Ellen’s Tea Room serving a choice of more than 50 organic teas and homemade baked goods. Dubbed the most romantic location in the county. whitepinesestate.com

Berkeley Springs Cottage Rentals
For a one-stop shop that meets a range of lodging needs, check out the dozens of options offered by Berkeley Springs Cottage Rentals. Dreaming of an in-town suite convenient to everything? Fancy a rustic cabin getaway? Need a fully equipped vacation home for the whole gang? Find all this and more at locations across the county. berkeleyspringscottagerentals.com

Other options
Cabins and houses of all sizes are available to rent in town and out. Campgrounds including at the newly re-opened Coolfont Resort, offer tent and RV sites with canoeing, fishing, hiking, and other activities. And Cacapon Resort State Park offers everything from newly renovated rustic cabins, a 12-room former inn, and a resort with a restaurant and golf course. berkeleysprings.com
Premier Parks

WEST VIRGINIA’S STATE PARKS showcase some of the best scenic, cultural, and recreational attractions the state has to offer. Only two lie in the Eastern Panhandle—both in Morgan County, and both ready for anything from a romantic retreat to a relaxation getaway to a fun-filled weekend with the family.

We ultimately have Thomas Lord Fairfax to thank for the public springs at Berkeley Springs State Park. The site was already much visited by the afflicted in the mid-1700s when Fairfax granted the area to the colony of Virginia for establishment of a town—on the condition that the springs remain free and open to the public for the welfare of suffering humanity. The Commonwealth of Virginia honored Fairfax’s generous intention by placing four acres around the springs in a trust, and the state of West Virginia honors it today through maintenance of that trust as a state park.

Berkeley Springs State Park serves as a pleasant village green for residents and visitors, a great place to enjoy a sandwich or a Saturday afternoon concert in the summer. Kids love watching the springs bubble up through patches of sand, wading in the channels, and catching the minnows and crayfish that dart across several stone pools, and families enjoy the natural spring water in the lifeguarded outdoor pool Memorial Day through Labor Day. The old bathhouses offer the spring waters for private soaks and as the centerpiece of a full range of spa services (see page 7). Or stroll the grounds, taking in the fountain and stopping for a selfie at George Washington’s Bathtub—the nation’s only outdoor monument to presidential bathing. Then visit the Museum of the Berkeley Springs on the second floor of the Roman Bathhouse. Enjoy exhibits of natural and cultural significance, including springs geology and a 400-pound silica crystal, bygone bathing suit fashions, and the history of fires that have devastated the community more than once. Enjoy a new exhibit featuring David Hunter Strother/Porte Crayon, the most famous illustrator and travel writer of the 19th century. Museum admission is free.

Just 10 miles south of Berkeley Springs is Cacapon Resort State Park. Opened in 1937 on Cacapon Mountain slopes that had been clear-cut earlier in the century, this state park offers recreation, relaxation, and all the charm of a Civilian Conservation Corps setting. Attractions
UNIQUE PLACES

Berkeley Castle
You may glimpse this landmark on the hill above Berkeley Springs State Park. Whiskey distiller and railroad man Samuel Taylor Suit built the castle in the 1880s as a promise to his young bride. Privately owned; available for weddings and special events.

Give Purr’s a Chance
West Virginia’s only cat cafe, Give Purr’s a Chance has placed more than 400 rescued felines in permanent homes—a faster rate than any other cat cafe. Why shop when you can adopt? givepurrsachance.org

Paw Paw Tunnel
Largest manmade structure on the C&O Canal Historic Park, it can be accessed from Morgan County’s westernmost municipality, the historic railroad town of Paw Paw. Bike or walk through or walk on the trail over the tunnel. berkeleysprings.com

Star Theatre
There’s a new movie every weekend at this 1928 mom and pop movie house on the West Virginia Historic Theatre Trail. The Manley popcorn machine is 1949 vintage—don’t skip the real butter. startheatrewv.com

Farmers Market
The extensive Berkeley Springs Farmers Market sets up in the downtown square every Sunday 10am–2pm from April through December featuring local produce, meats, honey, baked goods and even gourmet street food from Lot 12. Folks wait patiently for Glascock’s sweet corn and Mock’s hydroponic lettuce and tomatoes, even green tomatoes at the end of the season.

include horseshoes, wobble clay shooting, a lake for boating and fishing and a sandy bathing beach with a snack bar, a nature center with a naturalist program, and guided horseback riding. Explore miles of hiking trails including a spectacular one along the top of Cacapon Mountain, scattered with impressive rock formations and ending with a view from Prospect Rock. Newest addition is nearly 20 miles of mountain biking trails with more to come.

A centerpiece of the 6,000-acre park is the newly enhanced 18-hole championship Robert Trent Jones golf course. Opened in 1974, the course includes a picturesque stone chimney on the putting green—the last remnant of the original farmhouse—and is known for a challenging double green that is over 100 yards wide. The course is staffed by professionals who can be booked for private lessons, and it offers a fully equipped clubhouse with a pro shop, a snack bar, locker rooms, and rental carts. Accommodations at the park include newly renovated rustic cabins and a new 80-room lodge with indoor swimming pool for a true resort experience. There’s a restaurant, lounge, and recreation room with arcade games, ping pong, and shuffleboard. wvstateparks.com

PHOTO OP!

Where the long northeast–southwest Appalachian ridge called Cacapon Mountain drops off at its northern end is an overlook that’s not to be missed—National Geographic called Panoramic Overlook one of the five best views in the eastern U.S. Take W.V. Route 9 west out of Berkeley Springs 3 miles to the pullout for a 180-degree view across Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia and the confluence of the Cacapon and Potomac rivers. Mentioned in George Washington’s diary, the view surely fueled his westward vision. The new Panorama Bar and Grill located in an historic building takes in the iconic view.
Warm Springs, Hot Food

There’s a meal for every taste in Berkeley Springs.

Whether you’re passing through or spending a week, Berkeley Springs hits the spot for taste buds. Even George Washington praised the food here. American or international, casual, upscale, or the perfect afternoon coffee stop, it’s all here.

A local favorite right downtown is Tari’s Premier Cafe (33 North Washington Street, 304.258.1196, tariscafe.com). Founded decades ago by a Berkeley Springs native and decorated throughout with local art, Tari’s serves distinctive dishes in three different atmospheres: choose the cafe, gallery, or tavern to meet your mood. Longtime chef Devin Lucas changes the menu up a few times each year, although the crab cakes stay on the menu by popular demand. You’ll find lots of local, seasonal products in Tari’s eclectic dishes. The restaurant features a separate barbecue menu and offers a full bar.

For fine dining in Berkeley Springs, you can’t do better than Lot 12 Public House (117 Warren Street, 304.258.6264, lot12.com). Named among the best chefs in the southeast year after year by the James Beard Foundation, Chef Damian Heath serves locally sourced foods in a beautiful historic home overlooking downtown. Heath’s culinary style reflects what he learned about life and food growing up in rural West Virginia. “Somethings are just better slow,” he says, an approach that shows up in dishes like braised lamb shank with a savory tomato rosemary broth and garlic mashed potatoes or crisp-roasted duck with rosemary potato cake and pear chutney. Lot 12’s seasonal, lovingly crafted menu presented in a white-tablecloth setting plus outstanding wine selection and bar has attracted attention from Southern Living and The Washington Post, among other publications.

Open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner every day is the restaurant at The Country Inn (110 South Washington Street, 304.258.1200, thecountryinnwv.com). Breakfast, made with local eggs, includes all of the favorites, and Sundays feature a breakfast buffet. Everyone in the family will find something on the wide-ranging lunch and dinner menu, and desserts are made fresh daily. Enjoy your meal in the dining room, tavern, or lounge, or on the patio seasonally.

If you look for the local brewpub when you travel, you’ll find Berkeley Springs Brewing Company just a few miles outside town (110 Michigan Lane, 304.258.3369, berkeleyspringsbrewingcompany.com). The brewery’s eight flagship brews include its signature Cacapon Kolsch—or ask for the Mountain Man Marzen or Apple Butter Ale, in season. The best pancakes around are served all day at the Southern Belle. Tops on every insider local list is breakfast, lunch and homemade pies from Betty Lou’s Cafe at Roy’s Service Station.

Eat Like a Local

For a real Berkeley Springs experience, go for American classics in a sports bar setting—or on the deck to enjoy the view—at Canary Grill (canarygrill.com), or vegetarian treats from Sage Moon (sagemoonherbshop.com). For steak, BBQ, or seafood, try Angus and Ale (angusandale.com). The best pancakes around are served all day at the Southern Belle. Tops on every insider local list is breakfast, lunch and homemade pies from Betty Lou’s Cafe at Roy’s Service Station. See a more complete list of dining options at berkeleysprings.com.
Nestled at the gateway of the stunning Shenandoah Valley, Martinsburg offers access to big city amenities while maintaining the charm of small-town living. The heart of downtown lies just off of Interstate 81, making it a bedroom community for the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. Martinsburg, the largest city in the Eastern Panhandle, serves as the seat of Berkeley County. Visitors will discover modern entertainment, lively festivals, and contemporary dining along the picturesque avenues. Yet, with historical architecture tucked amongst the bustle, a journey back in time is only steps away.

Martinsburg was home to the state’s first post office. In the 1840s, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad laid tracks that ignited the region’s industry. Conflicts during the Civil War solidified the town’s place in history as the Union and Confederacy contended for this geographically important location. Confederate spy Belle Boyd was later arrested here in 1863 and imprisoned.

Following the war, water and electricity revitalized Martinsburg and transformed it into a textile factory hub. Beautiful orchards blossomed in the countryside outside of town, and Berkeley County became a leading apple producer. A cultural landmark constructed in 1913, the Apollo Civic Theatre continues to host stage productions and community events.

The area boasts several stops along the Washington Heritage Trail driving tour, which identifies unique historical sites. Check out these shopping spots:

- Take a stroll around North Queen Street for unique finds. Pick a one-of-a-kind masterpiece from the vintage posters, African tribal art, and original artwork at Queen Street Gallery (queenstreetgallery.com). Open seven days a week, the West Virginia Glass Outlet (@westvirginiaglassoutlet on Facebook) marvels shoppers with its rainbow array of hand-blown glass. Stop and smell the roses at Flowers Unlimited (flowersunlimitedwv.com). Specializing in home décor and floral arrangements for special events or bouquets for those “just because” moments.

- Along 127 miles of the Eastern Panhandle. Berkeley County’s must-visit locations include the Morgan Cabin, Green Hill Cemetery, and Mills Gap which offers a panoramic view of farmlands.

The wilderness leaves lots of room for play. Hike the more than 20,000 acres of Sleepy Creek Wildlife Management Area. Launch a kayak or canoe for a weekend float down the Potomac River.

With endless opportunities for outdoor recreation, impeccable historical landmarks, and vibrant shopping and dining, Martinsburg is a town of rich traditions and stunning new discoveries.
WAR STORIES

➢ HISTORY COURSES DEEP through the streets of Martinsburg. General Adam Stephen, the town’s founder, fought alongside George Washington as his second in command during the French and Indian War. He also served during the Revolutionary War. General Adam Stephen's house at 309 East John Street (304.267.4434, orgsites.com/wv/adam-stephen, @adamstephenhouse on Facebook) is a national landmark. Made from locally quarried limestone, the building even has a basement entrance to the natural underground tunnel system that snakes below town. The neighboring Triple Brick Museum, built in the 1870s to house railroad workers, also showcases historical memorabilia.

Martinsburg’s prominence as a transportation center led to its importance to both sides during the Civil War. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad first crisscrossed the town with tracks in 1841. These tracks later became a prime route for hauling troops and supplies, which made it a target for attacks. By the Civil War’s conclusion, the besieged town had changed hands 50 times, and the railroad was left in ruins. In 1866, the B&O Railroad rebuilt the Martinsburg Roundhouse (304.260.4141, themartinsburgroundhouse.com, @themartinsburgroundhouse on Facebook) which had a turntable to service locomotives. An architectural marvel, it’s the only remaining roundhouse worldwide with a cast iron frame and was the site of the first labor strike in America in 1877. Seasonal Saturday tours of the Roundhouse Center at 100 East Liberty Street are available.

Espionage also marks a chapter in Martinsburg’s storied past, courtesy of Civil War spy Belle Boyd. This spirited young lady relayed messages about Union activities to Stonewall Jackson. Her reconnaissance career led to imprisonments, but she ultimately secured release and went on to write and act. The Belle Boyd House at 126 East Race Street where she grew up now serves as a museum about Berkeley County's history (304.267.4713, bchs.org). Next door is the Berkeley County Historical Society Archives Center, which contains a treasure trove of family records, photographs, maps, and microfiche.

GEOCACHING

Navigate Berkeley County with nothing but a GPS.

GO ON A REAL LIFE TREASURE HUNT this summer with geocaching. At any age and any time activity, geocaching’s sole requirements are a GPS or smartphone and a love for the outdoors. Participants find “caches,” or hidden containers, using GPS coordinates. Once you locate the cache, sign the logbook to record your success. You can also bring along a small knick-knack and swap it out for another souvenir left by a previous geocacher.

The Martinsburg-Berkeley County Convention and Visitors Bureau has partnered with geocaching expert Tim Eggleston, otherwise known as WVTim, to design unique geotrails like “Smart Caches of Berkeley County” and “Berkeley Gadgets Geotrail and Geo Tour.” Solve the caches along the trail to collect a unique, trackable coin. Berkeley County is a favorite site for geocachers country-wide, so charge your phone, round up your friends, and go hunting for your next adventure. travelwv.com
Escape to The Woods
The Woods offers endless recreation and pampering for your next getaway.

A short drive beyond the hubbub of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., The Woods is a peaceful oasis sprawling across 1,800 acres. Tee off either of the 18-hole golf courses, one mid-length course ideal for recreational golfers and another championship course for those seeking more of a challenge. Even if you don’t make par, walking or riding a golf cart across the fairways lined with trees is enough to make for a pleasant day. Youngsters can enjoy playing FootGolf, which is golf played with a soccer ball.

Swing by the courts to pick up a game of tennis or volleyball or hit the field for a few innings of softball. Don’t worry about rainy days, the indoor sports center includes a heated swimming pool, multi-purpose court, and exercise room.

If the mountains are calling, toss a line in with catch-and-release fishing. Walkers and joggers often hit the pavement along the quiet country roads winding around the resort. Or lace up your boots and check out the adjoining Sleepy Creek Wildlife Management Area, which offers miles of hiking trails to explore.

Once you’ve worked up an appetite, dine at the Clubhouse Grille & Pub overlooking the greens. Saturday evenings feature live music from an array of talented performers. Treat yourself at The Sleepy Creek Spa with a soothing facial or much-needed massage.

Tired souls can hit the hay at any of the rental cottages and cabins. Privately owned villas also available for rental border the golf courses or dot wooded lots. Some visitors find their home at The Woods and purchase one of the many properties in the friendly community.

Whether staying for a weekend or a lifetime, you will want to get lost at The Woods. 1630 The Woods Road, 304.754.7977, thewoods.com

Spa Day

Energize
At The Sleepy Creek Spa, ladies and gents can unwind. Sip herbal tea or take a dip in the whirlpool before beginning your pampering session. To rejuvenate your skin, try one of the seaweed or yogurt body wraps. Or soak in a heated mud treatment, followed by a shower and massage.

Harmonize
Freshen up your nails with a manicure or pedicure, complete with a hand or foot massage and your choice of polish. Especially for the guys, the sports pedicure soaks your aching feet, smooths away calluses, and grooms your nails—sans the polish. Don’t forget the kids too. Those ages 7 to 12 can get pampered with a princess manicure or pedicure.

Relax
Several massage packages mean relief is at hand, no matter the ache. From deep tissue to aromatherapy and Swedish to stone massages, the most stressful part is choosing just one. Need a date idea for you and your significant other? Schedule the couple’s massage.

Renew
Try out a fresh new ‘do with a style and cut at the salon. Prepping for a special event? Professional makeup application and spray tanning can get you picture-perfect. The spa also does deep cleansing and exfoliating facials for soothed, hydrated skin. 1630 The Woods Road, 304.754.7977, @sleepycreekspa on Facebook

» When You Go
The Mountain State Apple Harvest Festival celebrates the apple industry, which is a valued part of the heritage of the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia. Held every third weekend in October, it has become a treasured homecoming with festivities spanning over four days. msahf.com
Stein, Wine, and Dine
Find good eats and good times in downtown Martinsburg.

Whether grabbing a quick bite to eat while shopping or planning an elegant date night, Martinsburg has restaurants to satisfy any craving. Since 1958, Blue White Grill (101 North Queen Street, 304.263.3607, bluewhitegrill.com) has dished up hearty, old-fashioned diner meals for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. The omelets alone are a feast, packed with anything from hickory-smoked ham and cheddar cheese to grilled mushrooms and sweet onions. For a classic dish, opt for a juicy burger with a side of coleslaw. Save room for homemade pies. Decadent flavors include chocolate peanut butter and coconut cream. Hand-dipped milkshakes and malts come topped with whipped cream and a cherry.

Take another step back in time at Patterson’s Drug Store (134 South Queen Street, 304.267.8903, @pattersonsdrugstore on Facebook). This retro eatery is heavy on the charm with its authentic soda fountain, creamy milkshakes, and friendly service. A crowd favorite is the Jojo, a concoction that’s part root beer float, part banana split, and all delicious.

-break out your chopsticks for New Peking Restaurant (139 South Queen Street, 304.263.6544, newpekingmartinsburg.com). Pique your appetite with pillowy dumplings or crispy egg rolls. Then grab a main dish like noodles and fried rice. Continue your international cuisine travels with Thai food at Thai Martinsburg (200 West Burke Street, 304.901.5779, thaimartinsburg.com). Thai Martinsburg provides a wide array of authentic Thai food and drinks. One of the keys to the preparation of their wonderful food is the use of fresh herbs and spices such as lemon grass, basil, mint, galanga, cilantro and kaffir lime leaves, high quality vegetable oil.

Hankering for more of a southern fare? Habanero Mexican Grill (100 North Queen Street, 304.596.5667, habanerowv.com) serves fresh-from-scratch burritos, quesadillas, tacos, and nachos. The brick-and-mortar location is in a Gothic revival building that once was Martinsburg’s marketplace, but they also run a food truck dubbed the “Habster.” With four

DeFluri’s
Everything’s better with chocolate, and that includes a day in Martinsburg. In 1998, the family-run DeFluri’s Fine Chocolates relocated its factory and showroom to a 1930s-era building on North Queen Street. The chocolatiers have been satisfying the town’s sweet tooth ever since.

Classics include sea salt caramels, toffee, cherries jubilee, and chocolate-covered peanut butter morsels. But don’t be surprised if you find a new favorite like candied orange peel dipped in dark chocolate. Truffles come in exotic flavors like blackberry, passion fruit, and amaretto. The wine truffles are even crafted from locally grown West Virginia grapes. Made from real butter and fresh whipping cream, these chocolates are ones that will turn anyone into a connoisseur.
130 North Queen Street, 304.264.3698, defluris.com
BLACK DRAFT DISTILLERY
Raise your glass at this local moonshine distillery.

What once began as a family horse farm is now serving up good times with moonshine. Opened in December 2013, Black Draft Distillery is the first distillery in Berkeley County since prohibition. When the Prices’ beloved draft horse Biscuit passed, they searched for a new activity to fill their empty barn. The result? Moonshine.

Moonshine is unaged corn whiskey, and Black Draft’s is made from grains grown in-state. You can’t go wrong with their classic First Harvest moonshine, but the White Julep also makes for a refreshing summer cocktail. Can’t decide between coffee or whiskey? With Rise & Shine Coffee moonshine—made with Black Dog Coffee—you don’t have to choose. Black Draft also brews up small-batch straight bourbon, and recently added vodka to its brands. Tours are available by appointment. 1140 Kelly Island Road, 540.686.0100, blackdraftdistillery.com.

kinds of salsa ranging from mild to extra hot, spice-adverse and spice-lovers alike can find a type to suit them.

The wine connoisseur needs to plan an evening at Brix27 (131 North Queen Street, 304.616.1628, brix27.com). This cozy wine bar dishes up small plates with locally sourced ingredients, and features an extensive array of spirits, brews, and wine.

Sweet Hut Café (220 North Queen Street, 304.263.8880) an eat-in or take-out café offer a variety of unique creations, specializing in poke bowls, bubble tea and a crowd favorite rolled ice cream.

Vegans and vegetarians—or even just the health-conscious foodie—should stop by Good Natured (209 South Raleigh Street, 304.262.9978, goodnaturedllc.com). Grab a coffee, and then choose breakfast or lunch from the café’s scrumptious selections. Non-meat sandwich options include a lentil breakfast burger, ginger-baked tofu reuben, and marinated tempeh BLT. Salads come loaded with organic greens, veggies, and unique extra toppings like sriracha almonds, curry cashews, or figs. The health food market stocks groceries like dried beans and grains, local eggs, and dairy alternatives.

Don’t forget dessert. Everything Cheesecake (324 West Stephen Street, 304.350.1567, @everythingcheesecake on Facebook) whips up fresh cheesecakes every day, and featured flavors can be purchased by the slice. Whether a classic vanilla or orange dreamsicle, each is topped with a generous dollop of icing. The cupcakery also brews a variety of espresso drinks with local Black Dog Coffee.

No matter your food hankering, it’s no question that Martinsburg delivers on the flavors. The only question left is: Where are you going to eat next?
Orr’s Farm Market

Right outside of Martinsburg is a picturesque farm with magnificent orchards that’s one of the region’s hidden gems.

Whether on the quest for fresh crops or simply a refreshing afternoon outdoors, Orr’s Farm Market has all the best pickings. They sell produce, host festivals, and lead educational tours.

Customers at Orr’s Farm Market can browse fresh produce, jams, sauces, and pancake and soup mixes. The bakery’s range of baked goods are delightfully enticing—pies, cookies, muffins, breads, and fruit turnovers. If you’re lucky, you might even spot apple cider doughnuts. For those willing to take their shopping experience to the next level, they can pick their own fruits in the orchards during various harvest dates throughout the spring and summer, or pumpkins in the pumpkin patch come autumn.

Of course, Orr’s Farm Market makes for a great family outing any time. From seasonal activities and crafts to berry-plucking and pumpkin-picking, this is one farm that seems to grow memories.

Pick Your Own

EVERY COOK KNOWS that having the freshest ingredients makes for the most mouthwatering dishes. A quick jaunt off Interstate 81, Taylor’s Farm Market in Inwood offers a wide selection of West Virginia crops, foods, home decor, and gear six days a week. Whether tart Granny Smiths or juicy honeycrisps, the rainbow selection of local apples are perfect for baking and snacking. Farms from around the state provide meats from uncured bacon and pork chops to chicken and lamb. Trickling Springs Creamery sells organic milk, rich butter, and luscious ice cream flavors.

Stop by the market’s Cider Press Deli & Grill (ciderpressdeliandgrill.com, @ciderpressdeliandgrill on Facebook) for delectable dishes made from scratch, which feature ingredients from the market when possible. The half-pound burgers come from locally raised, hormone-free beef, and the paninis use locally sourced bread. Other offerings include homemade soups, salads, and crab cakes. Follow their Facebook page for an up-to-date list of seasonal festivals and specialty dinners.

Wonderment Puppet Theater

Whether you’re young or just young-at-heart, this charming theater provides a slice of magic and a lot of laughter with its one-of-a-kind puppet shows. In 2007, puppeteer Joe Santoro and his wife Jane purchased an 1880s Victorian house to start the Wonderment Puppet Theater, the region’s only year-round interactive puppet theater.

Six original shows each year provide creative spins on classic fairy tales including The Frog Prince, Peter Rabbit, and The Elves and the Shoemaker. Joe writes and runs the show, orchestrating the sound effects and scenery. After every weekend performance—Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m.—visitors can explore the play area’s hands-on activities, wishing well, and very own play theater.

For groups passing through town, the theater can even arrange a weekday show.

Top Festivals

Circa Blue Fest transforms the downtown square into a bluegrass blowout. The first weekend of June, groove to concerts, and chow down on unique eats provided by an assortment of hip food trucks. Visitors can also dine in our downtown restaurants. circabluefest.com

For avid geocachers, search for your next treasure with the Geocaching Trail and GeoTour held annually in June.

Mark your calendar for August’s Berkeley County Youth Fair. The Miss Youth Fair contest kicks off this week-long schedule of livestock competitions, entertainment, and carnival rides.

Fall Farm Fun Days in September at Orr’s Farm Market (682 Orr Drive, 304.263.1168, orrsfarmmarket.com) include hayrides and a pumpkin patch.

In October, enjoy apple-themed contests and cuisines at the annual Mountain State Apple Harvest Festival.

Almost Heaven
WHERE

Almost Heaven
begins

New journeys and experiences in life begin with that all important first step. Your first step on a winding trail, down an historic sidewalk, through the door of an amazing restaurant, or into a beautiful mountain stream. Jefferson County is your first step into West Virginia. Take it and you will quickly discover why it is called Almost Heaven.

Learn more at DiscoverItAllWV.com
LIFE IS ABOUT FAMILY
GIVE THEM A NEW ADVENTURE

Located in the beautiful eastern panhandle of West Virginia, River Riders Family Adventure Resort has been guiding families on river and aerial adventures for over thirty years. Nothing creates lifetime connections like conquering a rapid or zipping through a beautiful forest together. Let us share our love for the outdoors with your family soon.

river riders
Family Adventure Resort
RiverRiders.com | 304.535.2663

ADVENTURE PASSES
Full day adventure passes that include one guided activity and one self-guided activity at a special packaged rate.
JEFFERSON COUNTY

Located where the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers meet the Blue Ridge Mountains, Jefferson County is a gateway into Almost Heaven West Virginia. The charming and culturally rich towns of Harpers Ferry, Shepherdstown, Charles Town, Bolivar, and Ranson have made this area a popular escape. Highlighted by the world-famous Appalachian Trail, Jefferson County offers miles of scenic hiking and biking trails to explore.

For those who love water sports, the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers flow through Jefferson County and make for fabulous fishing, kayaking, whitewater rafting, and tubing. Or hike rugged ridgelines that give way to breathtaking bluffs, or just go for a leisurely stroll and take in the spectacular beauty of Harpers Ferry National Historical Park.

STEEPED IN HISTORY

The area has deep ties to George Washington and his family. In fact, Charles, George’s youngest brother, founded the city of Charles Town and the county, which is home to six Washington family homes. Take a tour on page 28.

Thomas Jefferson selected Meriwether Lewis to command an army expedition—known as the Corps of Discovery—documenting the newly acquired territory stretching to the Pacific Ocean. In the spring of 1803, Lewis arrived at the U.S. Armory and Arsenal at Harpers Ferry to gather supplies for the trek, including bullet molds and gun parts. He also worked with armory officials here to design and build a collapsible boat.

Located on the border between the United States and the fledgling Confederacy, Jefferson County was trapped between two nations at war. Famous for John Brown’s historic raid in Harpers Ferry, Jefferson County’s strategic location at the gateway into the Shenandoah Valley made it a target for both North and South during the Civil War. Follow in the footsteps of this famous abolitionist and visit the arsenal, hanging site, trial site, museum, and even a reading room where future Lincoln assassin John Wilkes Booth performed Shakespearean readings to entertain attendees of the John Brown trial.

During the Civil War, thousands of former enslaved persons sought refuge behind Union lines at Harpers Ferry. As the war ended, the Freewill Baptists of Maine sent missionary teachers into the South to promote the education of former slaves. The Lockwood House in Harpers Ferry became the first schoolhouse in Jefferson County, and it then grew into Storer College—the first institution of higher learning in the state of West Virginia for African Americans.

In the tip of West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle, where the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers meet, the picturesque little town of Harpers Ferry hugs the steep hills and ravines at the water's edge.

Heralded for its significant role in the construction of the U.S. railroad system and is the location of Storer College that educated former slaves, Harpers Ferry is best known as the place in which abolitionist John Brown led his infamous raid on the federal armory, an event that is said to have been a catalyst of the Civil War. Brown’s plan was to arm the slaves of Northern Virginia and start an uprising that would have been devastating to the Confederacy. Three key battles of the Civil War were fought in Harpers Ferry, leading up to the bloody Battle of Antietam in nearby Sharpsburg, Maryland.

By the early 1900s, Harpers Ferry had become an upscale resort town popular with society folk who arrived by rail from Baltimore and Washington, D.C. Today, throngs of people still arrive by train—it’s just an hour trip from Washington, D.C.’s Union Station.

Shopping

Looking for the perfect memento? A diverse collection of shops line High Street. The Vintage Lady is the place to go for unique jewelry, accessories, home goods, and collectibles. For something sweet, visit True Treats Historic Candy, the only historic candy shop in the nation. On the brick-lined Potomac Street facing the train depot, you’ll find even more restaurants and shops. Looking for a souvenir t-shirt or hiking gear? Check out Harpers Ferry Outfitters, and for one-of-a-kind artisan-made products check out the galleries and shops on West Washington Street, including Snallygaster’s General Store in Bolivar.

The area’s historical significance is so great that almost the entire town of Harpers Ferry is designated a historic district. Harpers Ferry National Historical Park was established in 1944 and is administered by the National Park Service, which does a wonderful job of recreating the feel of antebellum history. Amazingly, a third of the original town is intact, providing a rare and authentic stage for reenactors. On weekends, volunteers from the Division of Living History dress in period costumes, reprising for visitors the sights and sounds of the town’s storied past.

You don’t have to be a history buff to enjoy the town. With two rivers converging upon it, there is no shortage of water-based recreation in Harpers Ferry. Outdoor enthusiasts take pleasure in the breathtaking scenery of the region and the many ways to access it. The nearby C&O Canal towpath, once trod by mule teams, is a smooth, level trail, perfect for hiking or biking. Hikers can also follow part of the 2,200-mile-long Appalachian Trail, with its midpoint at Harpers Ferry. And after you’ve worked up an appetite, a plethora of area restaurants will help you refuel and hydrate.
Take Me to the River

Looking to enjoy the scenic outdoors? River Riders Family Adventure Resort in Harpers Ferry offers something for everyone—from kayaking, paddleboarding, fishing, canoeing, and rafting to ziplining, aerial adventures, and biking.

Tubing is one of their most popular activities in the summer—and it isn’t your typical tubing experience. At River Riders, exploration is the main ingredient, whether you choose a flatwater or whitewater trip. As most tubing excursions at River Riders are unguided, groups are able to stop and go as they please. See a perfect picnic spot along one bend in the Shenandoah? Want to pull over and snap a photo—with your waterproof camera—of mom as she heads into Class III rapids? These sorts of self-guided, self-paced adventures are rare in the whitewater industry.

There’s a trip for everyone, from doggy-paddlers to whitewater enthusiasts. For families with young children or older adults, flatwater is a great way to spend an afternoon—chatting, eating a picnic lunch, and seeing the sights. Flatwater courses take place on the Shenandoah, where the water is glassy and calm with no rapids and a light current. River Riders provides tubes, flotation devices, free shuttle transportation, and parking for all trips.

Whitewater tubing on the Potomac is another story. These adventure trips include Class I to III rapids and are only open to families with children age 10 and up who are strong swimmers and at least five feet tall. This trip is best for the adrenaline-seeking vacationer. Guests pass through the famous Harpers Ferry gap and get an up-close view of the area’s well-known rock formations. A single course lasts about two hours, but can take up to three depending on water levels. Like the flatwater tour, this trip is self-guided, River Riders also offers a guided whitewater option.

If you’d like to explore by air instead, you can glide on a network of eight family-friendly ziplines, and at heights of up to 800 feet enjoy breathtaking views of Harpers Ferry. Or rent a bike and experience the C&O Canal National Historical Park. No matter what sort of experience you’re looking for, you’re bound to discover something new to love about the area. 408 Alstads Hill Road, Harpers Ferry, 304.535.2663, riverriders.com

---

LET’S DO SOMETHING

EPIC HIKES
Discover a stunning view of Harpers Ferry and the Shenandoah Valley from the Bolivar Heights Trail overlook or journey along the world-famous Appalachian Trail. Jefferson County is a hikers’ paradise with trails suited for all skill and fitness levels.

WET A LINE
Let the professionals at White Fly Outfitters in Harpers Ferry take you to the best spots on the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers to catch small-mouth bass. Experienced guides can help anglers of varying experience all have a great day on the river!

HIT THE TRAIL
In the heart of West Virginia’s oldest town, Shepherdstown Pedal & Paddle rents equipment and runs guided excursions. Try a guided historic cycling tour to neighboring Harpers Ferry. Want to explore on your own? Rent a bike and grab a trail map for miles of adventure.
SHEPHERDSTOWN

Shepherdstown’s charm is unmistakable—and irresistible. The town has a way of wrapping its arms around you. The historic structures, dining destinations, one-of-a-kind shops, and bucolic scenery draw vacationers from around the country. In fact, many people who visit or attend college at Shepherd University don’t ever want to leave and end up making the town their home.

Shepherdstown is the oldest town in West Virginia, established in the 1730s by landowner Thomas Shepherd as Mecklenberg. Early on, the area’s steady supply of water attracted artisans—millers, tanners, and potters who built houses along Town Creek and the Potomac River. By the end of the 18th century, the plentiful supply of clay had spawned brickyards. Many of the homes and businesses built more than 300 years ago of local stone and brick remain today, repurposed as shops, restaurants, and lodging.

For Civil War buffs, Shepherdstown is hallowed ground—the kind that raises the hairs on the back of your neck. On September 17, 1862, residents of Shepherdstown heard the incessant boom of cannons five miles away on Antietam Creek, near Sharpsburg, Maryland. The Battle of Antietam was the first Civil War conflict on Union soil and the single bloodiest day in American history, with nearly 23,000 dead, wounded, and missing on both sides. As Robert E. Lee retreated across the Potomac just south of Shepherdstown, 5,000 to 8,000 wounded Confederate soldiers sought comfort from the townspeople. Every house, business, and church was overflowing with the injured, and bodies lined the streets and alleys. Many of the soldiers are buried at Elmwood Cemetery on the outskirts of town.

Despite its somber history, the Shepherdstown of today (population 2,000) is young in spirit, bolstered by students from Shepherd University, which is located in the center of town and boasts year-round concerts, plays, sporting events, and other entertainment open to the public. An influx of academics, artists, and retirees have contributed to the rich cultural mix. Residents are also passionate about active pursuits like hiking, biking, and canoeing or kayaking on the Potomac. German Street is lined with an eclectic mix of shops—you’ll find everything from clothing, jewelry, toys, and homegoods to gourmet food, books, and artisan-made products. For area information on lodging and attractions, check out the Shepherdstown Visitors Center located downtown.

DINING IN SHE TOWN

The Press Room
In this historic red brick building, you’ll find amazing dishes with a Mediterranean flair that draw locals and visitors alike. 129 West German Street, 304.876.8777

The Shepherdstown Sweet Shop Bakery
The place to go for gourmet coffee, soups, and sandwiches on fresh bread along with fine baked goods. 100 West German Street, 304.876.2432, 800.922.5379, wvbakery.com

Maria’s Taqueria
Enjoy a new spin on burritos and tacos made with the freshest ingredients. Try the out-of-this-world Maria’s Chimi. 108 East German Street, 304.876.3333

Blue Moon Café
The outdoor seating at Blue Moon Café is the perfect place to enjoy delectable sandwiches, soups, and salads. 200 East High Street, 304.876.1920, @bluemoonwv on Facebook

Lilah
Located in historic downtown Shepherdstown, Lilah is a new American International Fusion restaurant featuring a wood fired oven. 115 East German Street, 304.870.4038, lilah-restaurant.com
UNIQUE FESTIVALS & EVENTS

Contemporary American Theater Festival
July
CATF’s commitment to new work is an annual festival of new plays by American playwrights, most often premieres or second or third productions. Held in July on the campus of Shepherd University.

Mountain Heritage Arts & Crafts Festival
Last weekend in September
Meet approximately 180–200 artisans and crafts persons carefully selected and prejudged, demonstrating and showcasing their work at this nationally acclaimed festival. Live bluegrass music, local wines, WV Craft Beer and a variety of foods.

Freedom’s Run
October
The entire marathon course is encased in National Park Land, with some brief detours through the country roads and preserved history towns that connect them. Half-marathon, 10K and 5K events as well.

Harpers Ferry/Bolivar Olde Tyme Christmas
Held in early December
Shops and restaurants with extended hours and special sales; Horse-drawn wagon rides; Historic candy-making demonstration and class; Santa and Mrs. Claus strolling through town; Live performances by musicians and historians.

Bavarian Inn
Located on a spectacular bluff overlooking the Potomac River, the Bavarian Inn Resort and Brewing Company is a European-inspired boutique resort famous for incredible food, warm hospitality, and the finest in guest comforts. For over 40 years, the Asam family has hosted friends and neighbors on their 11-acre property and treated them to world-class cuisine and service. From its beginnings as a single restaurant, the resort has grown to include 72 luxury rooms, multiple restaurants, a stunning infinity pool, and a brewery.

Bavarian Inn is locally renowned for its European Sunday Brunch Buffet, with eight food stations featuring breakfast favorites, seafood, European cuisine, pasta, salads, and delectable desserts.

The new brewpub and lounge offers guests beautiful seating areas to relax and enjoy conversation, craft brews, fine wines, and delicious food in the afternoon and evening.

The Bavarian Inn is locally renowned for its European Sunday Brunch Buffet, with eight food stations featuring breakfast favorites, seafood, European cuisine, pasta, salads, and delectable desserts.

Four Alpine-style chalets overlook the Potomac River and offer guests large, luxuriously finished staterooms graced with classical furnishings and all the modern amenities. Private balconies overlooking the scenic Potomac are the perfect spot for a morning coffee or an evening nightcap.

Manor-view rooms feature private balconies overlooking the Greystone Manor and grounds and feature gas fireplaces and relaxing whirlpool tubs to soak away your busy day of exploring.

Possibly the most beautiful spot at the resort is the Infinity 101 Pool, which overlooks the Potomac River. Poolside or from the balcony above the pool bar, spectacular views of the river and stunning surroundings are all around you. Cool off, try a specialty cocktail, and take a quick nap in paradise.

BAVARIAN BROTHERS BREWING
The newest addition to the resort is Bavarian Brothers Brewing offering high-quality microbrews in the new brewpub, lounge, or outdoor beer garden. The brewpub is a casual dining concept offering small bites, sandwiches, and lighter options and is a great space to relax and enjoy conversation with friends. In the morning, discover fresh roasts by Black Dog Coffee paired with pastries and breakfast bites. The Brewery’s logo is a tribute to the families rich, German heritage, so be sure to ask about the story behind the logo. And all the beers pay homage to the history of the inn and the local area. Try an Erwin’s Angry Ale, a playful tribute to the “fine German engineering” of the inn’s founder Erwin Asam.
Charles Town, named for George Washington’s youngest brother, was home to several members of the Washington family for many years. Charles laid out his namesake town in 1787 on 80 acres of land adjoining his estate, Happy Retreat, naming streets after his brothers and his wife, Mildred. You can visit Zion Episcopal Church Cemetery, where numerous Washington family members are buried.

Today, the streets of Charles Town are lined with 18th century homes and historic structures, like the Jefferson County Courthouse, the only courthouse in America to have held two treason trials—the trial of abolitionist John Brown and the Battle of Blair Mountain labor rebellion trial. You can also view the exact spot where John Brown was hanged on December 2, 1859—at the Gibson-Todd House at 515 South Samuel Street. The Jefferson County Museum at Washington and Samuel streets houses a collection of Native American and Civil War memorabilia, including the cot from Brown’s jail cell and the wagon that took him to his hanging.

The community is home to the Old Opera House at 204 North George Street, built in 1910, and several eclectic restaurants and shops that keep the town buzzing with people. But Charles Town is perhaps best known for the Charles Town Races, one of the country’s oldest thoroughbred racetracks, opened in 1933 on the outskirts of town. In 2010, the complex became the Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races—a destination that draws thousands to the area.

Bushel & Peck
Bushel & Peck was opened in October of 2017 with the idea of providing local and regional small farms and businesses a unique retail opportunity and to give the community an option for healthy and fresh veggies, meats and other products. bushelandpeck.jeffersongap.org

Hillbrook Inn
With its elegant guestrooms, relaxing spa, and acclaimed restaurant, you’ll never want to leave this historic estate property, which includes luxury rooms in the Main House, Gatehouse Suites, and Cottage Suites plus two additional homes, The Hawthorne House and Farmhouse Suites. Recently named “The Most Romantic Hotel in West Virginia” by Reader’s Digest. hillbrookinn.com

Abolitionist Ale Works
Looking for a place to quench your thirst? Specializing in flavorful, creative craft beers with natural ingredients, Abolitionist Ale Works has created a following. While most of the flavors rotate, a few favorites are kept on tap. Alpha Mayle IPA, the brewery’s top seller, is made with Citra and Simcoe hops, and Blue & Gold n’ Delicious & Tart is fermented with blueberries and apples. The brewpub also serves up artisan pizzas. 129 West Washington Street, 681.252.1548, abolitionistaleworks.com

Arts Community
The Magic Mosaic by artist Isiah Zagar and the local artists featured at the Washington Street Artists Cooperative Gallery enliven Charles Town with culture and sophistication. The mosaic is on the corner of George and Washington Streets. The Artists Gallery is on North George Street.
OFF-TRACK FUN

9 DRAGONS
For some of the best Asian cuisine this side of the Pacific, 9 Dragons has made a name for itself with its fresh sushi and creative Hong Kong-style cuisine. If sushi isn’t your thing, try perennial favorite Peking Duck or choose from one of the several chef specialty noodle dishes. The ambiance is as exotic as the food—not what you’d expect to find in a casino—and the wait staff is exceptional.

FINAL CUT STEAKHOUSE
It isn’t a gamble to eat at Final Cut, a contemporary American steakhouse, open Wednesday through Sunday. In addition to the highest quality cuts of beef, you’ll also find free-range chicken, cold-water lobster, sushi-grade ahi tuna, shellfish, and incredible side dishes on the menu. Not to mention a 400 bottle wine list.

EVENT CENTER AND H LOUNGE
National artists like Trace Adkins, Sinbad, and Dwight Yoakam, as well as a long list of popular stand-up comedians, have headlined at the casino’s 1,200-seat music and comedy venue. For an exciting night out, The H Lounge is the place to go. Regional musicians and DJs provide entertainment, while mixologists keep the good times rollin’.

Side Bets

THE HOLLYWOOD CASINO AT CHARLES TOWN RACES is a renowned Mountain State destination that offers a Vegas-themed gaming atmosphere with 1930s art deco flair. With roots in horse racing, Hollywood Casino was a thoroughbred track long before it was an upscale destination. Built in 1933 by Albert and Joseph Boyle, the track was first known as Charles Town Races. Opening shortly after the State Legislature legalized racing and betting, it was West Virginia’s first horse racing venue and, at the time, was the only track in the country to operate all year. Upon opening, the track had 22 buildings, 12 stables, a clubhouse, 44 betting windows, a 3,000-seat grandstand, and a restaurant.

The casino, resort, and track added video lottery machines in 1996, and now have nearly 2,500 machines as well as 75 table games. Choose from hundreds of the latest multi-line, multi-coin machines and dollar games galore. Experience big-time jackpots in the high-limit area on $5, $10, $25, and even $100 machines. If you’re looking for no-limit action, you’ll find it at the Hollywood Casino poker room, open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

New to the casino is sport betting—and it has never been easier. You can place wagers on football, basketball, hockey, soccer, baseball, golf, tennis, auto racing, rugby, cycling, boxing and MMA, and cricket. Professional and collegiate betting options will also be available. Hollywood’s Sportsbook features high-top table seating—with individual viewing stations and lounge seating coming soon—with 24 odds-display monitors and 50 feet of wall space dedicated to 80-inch TVs for viewing the best games. And no matter where in the casino you choose to play, you’ll enjoy complimentary beverages including beer, wine, and cocktails.

Hit the Hay

Hollywood Casino has a 153-room The Inn at Charles Town with 18 spacious and luxury suites overlooking the racetrack. While the scenery of the neighboring Blue Ridge Mountains and Hollywood Casino’s activities are sure to wow visitors, customer service is what brings people back. Free shuttle service is available for guests.
Located less than three hours away from big-city hubs like Washington, D.C. and Richmond, Virginia, Ranson offers authentic small-town life and charm. Whether you’re looking for a relaxing weekend getaway or a home base for your outdoor adventure, Ranson is your dream destination!

The Ranson of Yesterday

Although the town of Ranson is just over a century old, the history of the area goes back centuries. Members of George Washington’s family had homes here (read more on page 28). Both Union and Confederate troops passed through the area during the American Civil War.

As a municipality, the town of Ranson traces its origins to the late 1800s. Back then, it was part of its next-door neighbor, Charles Town. The Charles Town Mining, Manufacturing & Improvement Company purchased 850 acres in the northwestern part of the city in May 1890. Much of the property came from the Ranson family.

The company started developing the land, which was soon filling up with factories, schools, businesses, and family homes. The town still boasts many homes from the era—one-and two-story single-family dwellings that make it easy to imagine the people who lived here at the turn of the 20th century.

In 1910, residents of this section of town voted 69–2 to form their own town. They chose to name their new municipality after the family who once owned the land. Specifically, the town is named for local farmer and dentist Dr. James Ranson.

The Ranson of Today

STAY

Home 2 Suites was awarded the Connie Award, which means #1 in the brand globally. The Hampton Inn & Suites is just a mile away, and has been ranked in the top 5% of all Hampton Inn & Suites globally based on guest surveys and inspections. Holiday Inn Express offers clean, comfortable rooms, and continental breakfast for reasonable prices.

DINE

Whether you’re looking for a quick snack or a full meal, you’ll find delicious options in Ranson. Stop by Rossy’s place for a mouthwatering steak. El Ranchero and Mi Degollado serves up authentic Mexican cuisine or stop by Pizza City for traditional favorites like meat lovers and veggie pizza and specialties like cheesesteak and taco pizza.

EXPLORE

Ranson also offers plenty of recreation options—from musicals to motorsports—and plenty of locally-owned shops and restaurants. You can learn the history of the region at the Jefferson County Museum or see the running of the thoroughbreds at nearby Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races. Interested in a different kind of racing? Take a quick drive to the Summit Point Motorsports Park for one of their races or action-packed programs.

SHOP

Ready for some shopping? Two Crows Antique Mall’s unique set up allows them to display the antiques they gather from their 50+ dealers to their best advantage and ensures that you’ll find the perfect piece of artwork, furniture or decor for your home. If you’re more of an outdoor enthusiast, Two Rivers Treads offers hiking and trail shoes galore. It’s also the nation’s first minimalist shoe store.

The following pages contain some of the best Ranson has to offer, but don’t just take our word for it. Our eight square miles are packed with hidden treasures to discover! Stop by the Ranson Convention and Visitors Bureau to learn about other local attractions and make the most out of your stay!

For more information about Ranson, contact the Ranson CVB ransonwv.us; 304.724.3862

Center Stage

The Old Opera House remains a vibrant performing arts hub.

When the Old Opera House opened in 1911, locals referred to it as the “new” opera house. That moniker has long since worn off, but this 328-seat theater remains as important to the arts scene as ever.

The theater puts on six stage productions, a summer youth production, and a one-act play festival each year, plus a ballet every other year. 204 North George Street, Charles Town, 304.725.4420, oldoperahouse.org, @oohcharlestown on Facebook
Ever since Albert J. Boyle opened the Charles Town Races in 1933, the racetrack has been a source of entertainment and profit for the tri-state region. And although West Virginia’s oldest horse racing track is now surrounded by a state-of-the-art casino, a luxury hotel, and gourmet restaurants, horse racing remains a prime attraction. Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races remains one of the busiest thoroughbred courses in the country.

While the casino is reserved for visitors 21 and older, the track is open to families—so fans of all ages can witness the power and majesty of the “sport of kings.” 750 Hollywood Drive, Charles Town, 800.795.7001, hollywoodcasinocharlestown.com, @hollywoodcctr on Facebook

The Home Stretch

See thundering thoroughbreds at Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races.
Washingtons Slept Here
West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle is home to several historic houses with ties to our founding father.

In 1752, George Washington’s brother Lawrence wrote him from his deathbed of their shared hopes for backcountry Virginia: “I agree that the Shenandoah Valley is one of the most pristine areas and likely to advance your fortune quite nicely.” When Lawrence died, he left his Shenandoah Valley acreage to their younger brothers, Samuel, John, and Charles.

This is how the Washington family came to what is now West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle. On that early legacy, the brothers and their descendants built sturdy homes that still stand.

Harewood
Samuel Washington was prominent in his own right before George became commander-in-chief of the Continental Army in 1775 and long before George was president. “In 1766, while he still lived in King George, Virginia, Samuel was one of the first signatories, along with brothers Charles and John, of the Leedstown Resolves, protesting the treatment of the colony by Parliament,” says Samuel’s great-great-great-great-grandson Walter Washington, who lives at Harewood today. Soon after, Samuel and family were the first Washingtons to move to the Shenandoah Valley. Their Harewood dazzled. As the only home still in Washington hands a quarter-millennium later, Harewood, just west of Charles Town, is arguably the gem.

Happy Retreat
Charles Washington moved to the Shenandoah Valley a decade after Samuel, in 1780. He built his home, Happy Retreat, just a few miles from Harewood and set aside an adjacent 80 acres to form Charles Town. When Jefferson County split off from Berkeley County in 1801, Charles Town became the county seat.

Happy Retreat changed hands a number of times and, by the time of the real estate boom of the early 2000s, its 12 acres were in danger of subdivision and development. The nonprofit Friends of Happy Retreat (FOHR) bought the house in July 2015 to preserve it. In a commitment to seeing Happy Retreat a living part of the community, FOHR has turned it into a cultural center for concerts, plays, and art exhibits.

Blakeley
Blakeley and the facing Claymont Court were built by brothers John Augustine and Bushrod Corbin Washington, grandsons of the president’s younger brother John Augustine, between 1815 and 1820. The family story is that John Augustine built Blakeley smaller because he knew he would inherit Mount Vernon. “But even when they lived at Mount Vernon, Blakeley is where they came to get away from the August heat,” says Walter Washington. Blakeley is in private ownership and closed to the public.

Claymont Court
The grandest home in the region, Bushrod Corbin’s Claymont encompasses some 16,000 square feet. “There probably were homes in Virginia that were that big but certainly nothing in the Shenandoah Valley that even came close to that big,” says local architectural historian John Allen. The current Georgian structure, dating to about 1840, replaced the original after it was destroyed by fire. It is owned today by the Claymont Society for Continuous Education.

Cedar Lawn
Built about 1825 by Samuel’s grandson John Thornton Augustine on a portion of the original Harewood estate, Cedar Lawn was bought in the 1940s by the industrialist R.J. Funkhouser, who at one time also owned Claymont Court and Blakeley. It has been restored by the current owners, Taylor and Marjorie Fithian, and is not open to the public.

Beallair (not pictured)
The original structure was built by Thomas Beall in the late 1700s. Beall passed the home to his daughter Eliza and son-in-law George Corbin Washington, the grandson of President George Washington’s older half-brother Augustine and a two-time U.S. congressman. The large main Classical Revival portion was built by George Corbin’s son, Lewis. The home is owned today by a developer and stands behind a fence in a gated community.
Zero to 50

The Summit Point Motorsports Park has been providing the Panhandle with high-octane thrills for five decades.

Racing has been a popular attraction in West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle since the 1930’s, when thoroughbreds came thundering into the area. But the horsepower increased significantly in 1969 with the opening of Summit Point Raceway.

The track immediately began hosting Sports Car Club of America-sanctioned events. Actor-turned-driver Paul Newman even ran a few of his early races here. What began as just one track has since expanded to four. Now, you can find racecars, go-karts, and motorcycles tearing up the asphalt almost every weekend from February through November.

Each May, the park offers a throwback to its early days with the Jefferson 500. The event, one of the largest vintage car races in the northeast, regularly draws more than 200 vintage race cars for three days of racing. You can see the motorsports superstars of tomorrow at the park’s Shenandoah Circuit, a track dedicated to kart racing, regularly hosting events with The Woodbridge Kart Club, the self-described “oldest, largest, and friendliest kart club” in the nation.

Spectators will enjoy the concession stand and its menu of breakfast, lunch, and dinner options—including the famous 100 MPH Chili. For those staying the whole weekend, there are electric hook-ups for RVs and two bath houses.

The track provides opportunities for regular joes and janies to get in on the action. During Friday at the Track, drivers can put their street cars on the track and try them out. Beginner and intermediate drivers receive classroom instruction, then get four sessions on the track with a ride-along instructor, while advanced drivers go solo.

For an even bigger thrill, the park’s Drift Nirvana program teaches drivers how to “drift,” that controlled tire-screeching skidding that’s usually seen in The Fast and the Furious movies and Gran Torino video games.

The speedway hosts driver education classes for beginning drivers, who learn the basics of automobile operation, and more advanced drivers, who learn how to handle highway emergencies. It also serves as a training facility for military and law enforcement personnel.

201 Motorsports Circle, Summit Point, 304.725.8444, summitpoint-raceway.com, @summitpoint on Facebook

Fuel Up

Time for a pitstop? El Ranchero offers burritos, quesadillas and authentic street style tacos. Cheesy slices are the marquee feature at Andy’s Pizza or discover a casual American bistro at Rossy’s Place. Billie’s Café is a cozy diner with stick-to-your-ribs home cooking. Satisfy your sweet tooth with M Street Bakery or Scoop Dawgs.
Bring the Past Back to Life
The Jefferson County Museum is filled with not-so-hidden treasures.

For more than 50 years, the Jefferson County Museum has been providing an up-close look at the history of the region through its collection of more than 2,200 historic artifacts. The collection includes paintings by local artists, handmade quilts, children’s toys, common household objects from the 1700s to today, and uniforms and weapons from the Civil War and both World Wars.

The facility, which shares a building with the Charles Town Library, also has an extensive collection of original documents, including personal correspondence and maps, and photographs dating from the invention of photography through the 21st century.

100 Years of Dolls
See how the construction of children’s toys changed over time, from fabric to papier mache and porcelain to plastic. At the end, kids can make their own dolls from clothespins.

Jefferson County in Photos: Then & Now
A photo display in the museum entry hall illustrates both the changing nature of the county over time as well as its enduring heritage through vintage images of county buildings and places alongside with 21st century images of the same sites.

John Brown Raid
Radical abolitionist John Brown intended his infamous raid on the U.S. arsenal to start a slave uprising. Instead, he sparked the powder keg of the Civil War. Get an up-close look at the raid through artifacts—including the wagon that transported Brown to the gallows.

The Washington Family
Although George Washington did not live in the Eastern Panhandle, plenty of his family did. This exhibit contains artifacts, documents, and photographs that provide a glimpse into the private life of the most famous family in American politics.

The Jefferson County Museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $4 for adults but is free for children under 18, students with ID, and patrons of the Charles Town Library. 200 East Washington Street, Charles Town, 304.725.8628, jeffcomuseumwv.org, @jeffersoncountymuseum on Facebook

To a Tee
Looking to work on your handicap while also enjoying the scenic beauty of West Virginia’s Eastern Panhandle? Look no farther than Locust Hill Golf Course. This challenging 18-hole course features rolling greens, 35 acres of water features, and hidden bunkers, all against the backdrop of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Call Ranson Convention and Visitors Bureau to book a “Stay and Play” package. 278 St. Andrews Drive, Charles Town, 304.728.7300, @locusthillgolf on Facebook

TREAD LIGHTLY
The nation’s first minimalist shoe store wants to get you moving.

Whether you’re running your first 5K, running the trails at Harpers Ferry Historical State Park, or just running some errands, you can find the shoes that will get you to the finish line at Two Rivers Treads.

This shop was founded by Mark Cucuzzella—a family doctor, Air Force Reserves lieutenant colonel, and accomplished marathoner—as the nation’s first minimalist shoe store. Compared to heavily padded athletic shoes, minimalist shoes put less distance between your foot and the ground. This might sound dangerous, but it actually retrains your body to move the way nature intended, preventing injuries.

Two Rivers Treads’ employees, all of whom are runners, are knowledgeable about the store’s inventory, since they try out every shoe they sell. They can help pick the perfect shoe for your stride and experience level. Try out your new shoes in the Ranson Mile held on May 9th at 11am and sponsored by Two Rivers Treads. 400 South Mildred Street, Ranson, 304.885.8843, tworiverstreads.com, @tworiverstreads on Facebook
ROLLIN’ IN DOUGH

This local favorite serves up a West Virginia delicacy—Mama Jo’s Pepperoni Rolls.

Terry Wilson started A Step in Time Bake Shop on February 14, 2017 in a small house in Harpers Ferry. Locals soon fell in love with everything that emerged from the shop’s ovens, especially Mama Jo’s Pepperoni Rolls and Cliffside Rum Rolls.

The pepperoni rolls are based on a Generation old family bread recipe, which gets wrapped around slices of Rum Rolls are a revival of a favorite, made using a recipe from the long gone Cliffside Motel and Restaurant.

By fall off 2018, A Step In Time had outgrown its original location and relocated to the Ranson Civic Center, where the bakery now offers an expanded catering menu, baked goods, and Mama Jo’s Pepperoni Rolls for a daily pickup. The shop also ships pepperoni rolls and rum rolls anywhere in the United States.

Visit the website to place an order: wvpepperonirolls.com; A Step In Time Bake Shop on Facebook; 877.949.ROLL

Center of Attention

There is always something happening at the Ranson Civic Center.

There are plenty of civic centers in the world, but few live up to their name. The Ranson Civic Center does. On any given day, the facility might host a regional sports tournament or a trade show or a banquet or a professional ticketed event. Day to day you might see the community walking laps around the center with the Ranson Walks program, sports teams practicing or hungry lunchgoers grabbing an award-winning Mama Jo’s Pepperoni Roll from A Step In Time Bake Shop.

It’s strange to think that not long ago, this vibrant community hub was an abandoned industrial site. It used to be a paint shop for a soft drink machine factory but sat vacant after the company left town in the 80’s. It eventually came under the ownership of the Maytag Corporation which, after eight years, donated the building to the City of Ranson in 2009.

With the transition complete, the city began working to rehabilitate the nearly 40,000 square-foot facility. The City of Ranson made their dream of creating a space that connects the community through recreation and special events a reality. The facility boasts upgraded flooring, HVAC system, lighting and can accommodate events for up to 1200 people. The versatile space includes four regulation volleyball courts, two regulation basketball courts and space for up to seven pickleball courts.

The talented team at the Ranson Civic Center are at the ready to assist you with making your private party or large event a success. www.cityofransonwv.us
MAYBE IT'S NOT YOUR GPS APP.

For some, the road to paradise might be the one less traveled. And blissfully far from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. West Virginia invites you to navigate your own path to transcendence, when you’re ready. Plan ahead and set out for the trip of a lifetime. Where every country road gets you to that higher place.
Serenity

- Spas
- Historic healing waters
- Tasty dining

- Distinctive shops
- Lively art scene
- Splendid wilderness

BerkeleySprings.com    800-447-8797