Best Practices for Maintaining Confidentiality of Trade Secrets in Virtual Arbitration Proceedings

Clients who opt for the privacy of alternate dispute resolution to resolve business differences are sometimes chagrined to learn that designating an ADR does not by itself guarantee confidentiality of trade secrets. The usual challenge of guaranteeing confidentiality can be compounded by virtual arbitration proceedings.

Violate My Patents? See You in Texas

With an estimated 1,500 patent infringement lawsuits expected to be filed in 2020 in U.S. district courts in Texas, John Jackson spoke with The Texas Lawbook about COVID-19 and its impact on patent disputes as hearings have moved to an online forum. "Before, we had to go to East Texas or to Waco for court hearings and fly experts or witnesses into town from all over the country for depositions," John said. "Now, it is always by Zoom, and there is a significant cost savings for the clients and businesses."
