

Vehicle Access Challenges in Nebraska

In Nebraska there are tens of thousands of residents who do not have access to a vehicle. Due to preference, financial limitations, disability, or other reasons, they do not have a personal vehicle to transport them to their destination. Many households with access to a single vehicle also have more than one member, thus limiting mobility for the family unit. In some cases, these vehicles are not functioning or are too expensive for the household to maintain, thus, that while they have a single vehicle that does not guarantee they have access to use it on a regular basis.
