Video maker app for jio phone

Photo: Blake Barlow (Unsplash) No matter how long you manage to keep them, at some point, your kids will have their own electronic devices, and they'll use those devices to communicate with others. First with friends and family, but ultimately with strangers, too. Educating our kids about internet safety is an important and ongoing part of keeping them safe, but parents should also stay up to day on the latest apps they may be using. Because even if we don't, they're hunters. As parents, we are constantly asked to teach our kids about internet safety. That's what we need to... Read more Part of what they call operations interception, which focuses on protecting children from online predators and human trafficking, Sarasota County Sheriff's Office began compiling a list of programs that parents should be aware of. The list began with nine programs last year and was updated in July to include six other programs, which the sheriff's office says are often downloaded by children that can be used by hunters for exploitation purposes. They create these useful graphics for parents, detailing all 15 about apps:Here are the apps on the list:There's almost certainly more where this will come, but being aware of what apps their kids are using-and how they're using them is an important part of keeping them safe from predators. Meet the smartest parents on earth! Join our parenting Facebook group. The iPhone has been used by Hollywood directors to film feature films. Now, you too can use the Apple device to create your own professional video thanks to a new app from Roland. The app is all-in-one called 4XCamera Maker, and it features shooting, editing, and publishing right from your phone. But that's not even the coolest part. According to Roland, the 4XCamera Maker allows manufacturers to connect their iPhone or iPad to three additional iOS devices, allowing for fast and easy multi-angle videos. Once captured, it only takes a fauce to upload multi-angle footage to master devices. There is no need to export anything too expensive, sophisticated after producing apps from 4XCamera Maker includes simple to use and easy to apply editing tools. Creation can use split screen layouts, transfer combinations, fade in and out, and trim videos at any time, anywhere on the iPhone or iPad. Roland said 4XCamera Maker has 10 individual editing states, so you can easily edit multiple videos and review them later or publish them instantly. Roland is best known for combining musical instruments and professional video products, so the 4XCamera Maker fits right into its portfolio. If you're looking to shoot your masterpiece, the app may just be the best all-in-one solution on the market. To get the full editing feature of 4Camera Maker, a small purchase is required in the app. 4XCamera Maker is also connected to GO:MIXER FREE. You can find the 4XCamera Maker in the app store right now. Free - Download Now we may earn a commission to purchase using our links. learn more.
