

MONSTER CITY PLANNERS PICTURE TUTORIAL: #1

Place the City card and Pass cards in the center of the table.
Shuffle and deal out the Monster City Planning Cards.

Draft starting hands by keeping one card and passing the rest to your left.

Continue to keep one and pass the rest, until all cards have been kept.

When choosing which cards to keep, consider the two uses of each card.

The top of each card describes how it can be used to affect the city plan.

The bottom of each card describes how it can be used to score points.

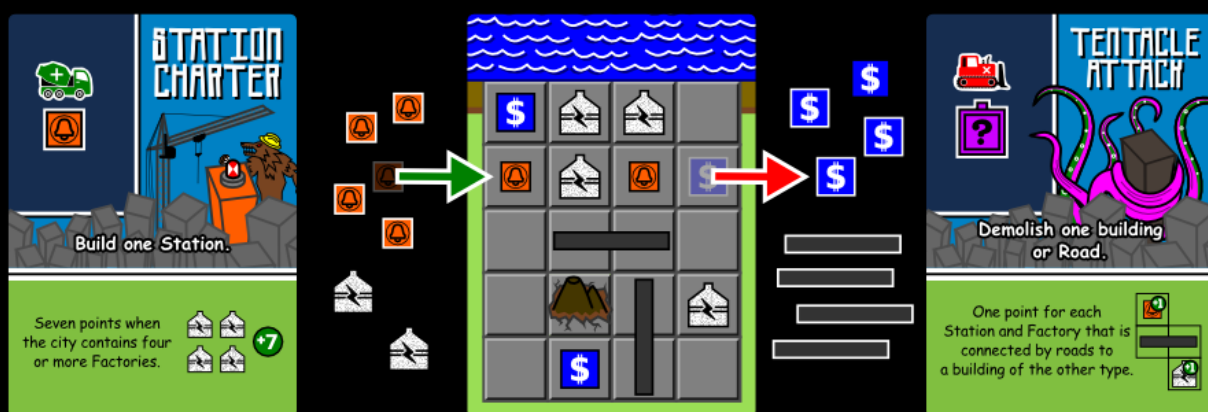

But you may only use each card for one of these two purposes.

After drafting, players take turns either playing cards or passing.

Cards are played to change the city, as described on the top of each card.

Take a pass card on the first turn that you pass instead of playing a card.

The round ends once every player has passed at least once.

After everyone has passed, players earn points for the cards left in their hand.

Make a note of each player's mid-game score before playing the second round.

Do not clear the buildings or roads from the city map between rounds.

The player with the most points after two rounds wins.
