NOTES

My Story of Generosity

Our parents help us to think about helping our neighbors pick their fruit and do yard work for them. In Sunday School, we pass the offering plate and give money to help other people. We like to put together the Health Care Kits, make special projects to give to others, and help clean up the park. We are old enough now to light the candles in church. We use our hands and time to help.

Ringling the bell at Christmas for the Salvation Army bucket, giving stuff to fill the boxes sent to other children far away, and working at the Food Pantry are fun ways we use our time and energy to share with others. It makes us feel good that we can do these things.
