

29 California Wines to Sip This Spring

April 15, 2026 - By Alison Bailin Batz

Spring in California rarely looks the same from one region to the next. In one direction, snow-capped mountains. In the other, lush inland valleys. And in another, dramatic desert landscapes. No matter what the setting, California wines are always in season. From crisp whites and refreshing rosés to elegant reds with vibrant fruit, as days grow longer and temperatures begin to rise, bottles like these taste better than ever.

Larkmead Vineyards 2022 Solari Estate Cabernet Sauvignon

Blackberry jam, plum, and violet shape this commanding Napa Cabernet. Velvety texture and warm spice linger through the finish. $200
