

Letter of Recommendation

Christopher Tyler's stewardship of my campaign was, in a word, exceptional. Both Chris' written and oral communication skills are extremely strong and his capacity for organization is second to none. In addition to Christopher's solid communication skills, he has a remarkable ability to break down seemingly complex public policy issues so that they are understandable to even the most novice of public policy spectators. Therefore, I believe one of his stronger talents is in effectively imparting information to his target audience.

In getting to know Chris, I also came to find that he has selflessly dedicated a lot of his time to many human service organizations. It's this honest depth of caring regarding his strong desire to make a positive difference in the lives of others that I believe will allow Chris to be successful in any professional field in which he chooses to participate.

I value his judgment; have great respect for him as a person and strongly recommend him for any career field which he chooses to enter.

Sincerely,
