

Nursing Research Day Innovations in Clinical Inquiry

SATURDAY, MAY 19, 2018

Clinical inquiry is the process of questioning and evaluating practice, providing informed practice based upon available data and innovating practice through research.

(Curley, M., 2012)

This conference provides a unique opportunity for nurses take their careers to the next level. The goal is to inspire nurses to pursue their clinical questions through scholarship, clinical inquiry, research, innovation, pediatric evidence-based practice and translational science (SCRIPTS). Nurses will have the opportunity to network with nurse scientists and be inspired to develop their ideas into new research studies. This is a great opportunity to earn continuing education hours..

COURSE TOPICS INCLUDE:

- Understanding why EBP and research are important for bedside nurses
- Knowing the difference between QI, EBP and research
- Learning about research projects being done by Lurie Children's staff and other pediatric nurse researchers

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Understand the continuum of quality improvement, evidence-based practice and research
- Provide a forum for exchange of ideas regarding nursing research
- Provide new knowledge and resources to promote EBP and nursing research
