INDICATION FOR AREXVY

AREXVY is indicated for active immunization for the prevention of lower respiratory tract disease (LRTD) caused by respiratory syncytial virus in individuals 60 years of age and older.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION FOR AREXVY

- AREXVY is contraindicated in anyone with a history of a severe allergic reaction (eg, anaphylaxis) to any component of AREXVY
- Appropriate medical treatment and supervision must be available to manage possible anaphylactic reactions following administration of AREXVY
- Syncope (fainting) may occur in association with administration of injectable vaccines, including AREXVY. Procedures should be in place to avoid injury from fainting
- Immunocompromised persons, including those receiving immunosuppressive therapy, may have a diminished immune response to AREXVY
- The most commonly reported adverse reactions ($\geq 10\%$) were injection site pain (60.9%), fatigue (33.6%), myalgia (28.9%), headache (27.2%), and arthralgia (18.1%)
- Vaccination with AREXVY may not result in protection of all vaccine recipients

Please see accompanying full Prescribing Information.

Disclaimer for speaker events

Attendance at this promotional program sponsored by GlaxoSmithKline ("GSK") is limited to healthcare professionals (HCPs) only. Guests will not be accommodated. Please contact your GSK representative and RSVP by the date above if you would like to attend this program. Some state laws prohibit GSK from providing meals to qualified HCPs. In particular, Vermont state law prohibits GSK from providing meals at this event to HCPs who "regularly practice" in the state of Vermont, or to their employees or agents, even if they primarily practice in another state. Under Vermont law, whether an HCP "regularly practices" in Vermont does not depend on licensure or the amount of time an HCP spends in the state. Rather, it depends on whether an HCP practices in Vermont on some sort of regular basis. For example, if an HCP provides medical services or conducts research 1 week in Vermont every 3 years, that counts as "regularly practice." In addition, many employers (eg, hospitals, teaching institutions, the federal government, state and local governments) place restrictions on what their employees may accept from outside parties as a condition of employment. GSK respects these restrictions and asks that you limit your participation to those activities permitted by your employer.
