

CLINICAL OVERVIEW OF ATTR-CM

Join your colleagues for a discussion on the cardiomyopathy of transthyretin-mediated amyloidosis (ATTR-CM), sponsored by Alnylam Pharmaceuticals. The program will focus on clinical manifestations, red-flag signs and symptoms, diagnostic tools, and management in current practice.

PRESENTERS

Jennifer Keeley, DNP, CRNP
Nurse Practitioner
Allegheny Health Network

Gary, living with hATTR

DATE & TIME

Thursday, September 10, 2026 6:00 PM EDT

LOCATION

Off The Rak Restaurant
3047 New Germany Road
Ebensburg, PA

Dinner will be provided.

To comply with PhRMA Code guidance, alcohol is not provided at Alnylam programs.

REGISTER TODAY!

Sign up at: <https://alnylamevents.com/hcpevents?id=EM-05682>

or Call 1-833-223-2204

For questions, please contact:

Heather Lampard

at hlampard@alnylam.com and/or (814) 935-8533

This program is intended for US healthcare professionals only. Guests and spouses may not attend this program. Additionally, any meals offered in connection with this program may be reportable and publicly disclosed as required by the Physician Payments Sunshine Act and any applicable state laws. Per government ethics rules, federal employees may not accept a meal. US healthcare professionals must provide their NPI and/or State License Number to register for the program. This is not an accredited education program, and no CME credits are offered.

The speakers are consultants of Alnylam.

©2025 Alnylam Pharmaceuticals, Inc. All rights reserved. TTR-USA-00622-V2