

Diagnostic Update and Treatment Optimization for Narcolepsy: A LIVE Online Education Opportunity

The Atlanta School is hosting an exciting new venture in continuing education for physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, physician assistants, and medical staff.

Join us for a complimentary LIVE one-hour Webinar hosted at your sleep medicine center or lab. Eligible staff members will review two challenging narcolepsy cases with Dr. Phyllis Zee.

Phyllis Zee, M.D., Ph.D., is a professor of Neurology, Neurobiology, and Physiology, and associate director for the Center for Sleep & Circadian Biology at Northwestern University Institute for Neuroscience.

After reviewing the cases, a question and answer session with Dr. Zee will be conducted. Don't miss out on this unique opportunity to join an experienced Atlanta School faculty member in a review of current narcolepsy diagnosis and treatment.

Learning objectives:

- Compare and contrast ICSD-2 edition diagnostic criteria for narcolepsy with ICSD-3 as well as DSM V criteria.
- Appropriately interpret symptomatology and laboratory parameters in making diagnosis of narcolepsy.
- Describe efficacy and safety of current options for narcolepsy.
- Institute and optimize appropriate management options for narcolepsy symptoms, including combination therapy, according to current management guidelines.
