Florida Clinical Research Group

Fellow Healthcare Providers,

Women's Medical Research Group, LLC/ Florida Clinical Research Group is currently conducting clinical research in several therapeutic areas. As a fellow healthcare provider I am sure you are aware of the importance of clinical trials. Our office is reaching out to you to inform you and your staff of our current enrolling studies that may be of benefit to your patients. These studies are listed below. For more detailed information please contact my office directly. If a patient is referred to our office for a clinical study please be assured that the patient will return to your practice for ongoing care outside the study treatment plan and once the study is complete for their continued care.
