

Chuck Taylor All-Stars featuring The Who

Converse recently designed three versions of their classic hi-top shoes that are inspired by and dedicated to The Who.

Featuring classic All-Star styling, these Chuck Taylors are as much a tribute to the mod scene and British punk music as they are to The Who themselves. From the rag-style Union Jack that wraps around the hi-top heel on one version, to the infamous image of Pete Dinklage jumping in the air with his guitar superimposed on another, you can't go wrong.

All three versions have red-white-blue stitching detail and sole trim, along with The Who's target logo. Made of durable canvas, each shoe stands to the classic Converse standards of quality and comfort. You can buy a pair of The Who All-Stars for $55 (approximately £40).
