

Rihanna heats up American Airlines Arena on March 15.

Run This Town

must-see

RIHANNA ROCKS THE MAGIC CITY AS PART OF HER ANTI WORLD TOUR. BY LAUREN BROWN

It's RiRi's world, and we're just waiting in it. It's been three years since the pop star rocked the globe with her Diamonds World Tour, and now she's finally making her way back to the stage where she belongs for the Anti World Tour. Anti, Rihanna's hotly anticipated eighth studio album, dropped in late January, and its leading track, "Work," zoomed to the top of the charts, becoming the singer's 27th Top 10 hit. But that's just building the excitement over what she'll perform when she arrives at American Airlines Arena on March 15. Opening the show is Travis Scott, while sportswear brand Puma joins forces with the bad girl to create unique on-site activities and shopping experiences. 601 Biscayne Blvd., Miami; livenation.com

Dustin Johnson teeing off at last year's WGC-Cadillac Championship.

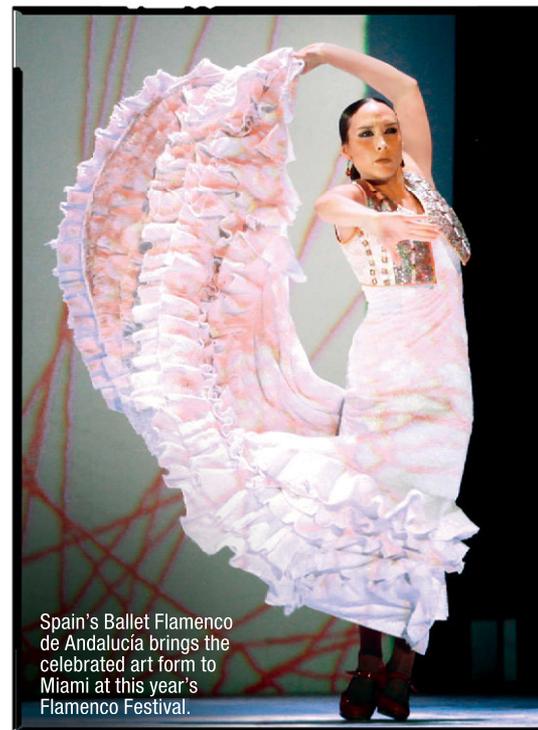

tee up

HOLE IN ONE

"This is going to be the most open-access event in Miami," promises Andres Gaviria, executive director of the World Golf Championships-Cadillac Championship, taking place March 2 through 6. "Fans can enjoy top venues, the best views, food, and entertainment alongside the world's best golfers—no matter what ticket they have." The four-day, 72-hole championship showcases the top 50 golfers in the world; excitement builds with events leading up to the final round and crowning of the 2016 champion, with practice rounds, live music in the Blue Monster Village, and much more. Says Gaviria, "This is the year to be a part of something incredible." 4400 NW 87th Ave., Miami, 305-592-2000; cadillacchampionship.com

bailamos! let's dance

The eighth annual Flamenco Festival, March 2 through 13, promises to be one of the biggest yet, with six can't-miss shows over two weekends. Says Liz Wallace, vice president of programming, "Flamenco Festival is a tradition that has been warmly embraced by thousands of Miamians who enjoy celebrating Spain's most popular art form." Adrienne Arsht Center for the Performing Arts, 1300 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, 305-949-6722; arshtcenter.org

Spain's Ballet Flamenco de Andalucía brings the celebrated art form to Miami at this year's Flamenco Festival.

// see & be scene // MIAMI IN MOTION

The 32nd annual Miami International Film Festival, March 4 through 13, will showcase the best in Ibero-American cinema, plus take on the hot-button issue of gender and racial gaps in Hollywood. "Women filmmakers will be in the spotlight at the 2016 festival in a big way, as we celebrate women's continuous and much-needed barrier-breaking in aspects of decision- and technical craftmaking roles," says Executive Director Jaie Laplante. The festival also partnered with Google to create a seminar series addressing gender and racial gaps in the film industry, including cinematographer Kirsten Johnson's discussion of her memoir, Cameraperson. miamifilmfestival.com OD

CALIFORNIA CLOSETS®

Every California Closets system is custom designed specifically for you and the way you live. Visit our showroom or call today to arrange for a complimentary in-home design consultation.

MIAMI 900 Park Centre Blvd. 305.623.8282 californiaclosets.com