

PAL X WOLFGANG'S STEAKHOUSE:

An upgraded dining experience

"The steaks kick ass - thick, juicy and perfectly charred."
 - TimeOut, "The best steakhouses in New York City"

THIS PAGE FROM LEFT
 USDA Prime Filet Mignon;
 Signature USDA Prime
 Dry-Aged Porterhouse Steak

LUXURIOUS DINING IN THE SKY

PAL collaborates with Wolfgang's Steakhouse to bring elegant, scrumptious New York steakhouse-style dining to its Business Class passengers

It's always a lavish feast in the clouds when you fly on PAL's Business Class. From October 29 to November 30 this year, and in the months of March, July and November in 2019, passengers flying to New York or Toronto will be treated to a dining experience that recreates the elegant atmosphere at Wolfgang's Steakhouse in New York.

The acclaimed restaurant was founded by Wolfgang Zwiener in 2004 after decades of working in another steakhouse. The first location was in the iconic early-20th-century Vanderbilt Hotel on Manhattan's ritzy Park Avenue, and it now has 20 locations globally, with currently an additional five locations under construction and slated to open by year's end.

Having first learned the dry-aging technique earlier in his career, Zwiener improved on this knowledge and was able to perfect it in his own restaurants. Only USDA Prime Black Angus beef is served at Zwiener's establishments, including his two Philippine outposts in Newport Mall and The Podium in Ortigas - a laudable feat as only 2% of all beef in the US market attains this rating.

The beef is dry-aged in its own specially designed aging room, under controlled temperature and humidity, for an average of 28 days, a process which greatly enhances the tenderness and flavor.

Now, PAL's Business Class passengers will get a taste of the Wolfgang's Steakhouse experience in flight.

The Manila to NY menu offers jumbo shrimp cocktail, French onion soup, USDA Prime Filet Mignon served with steamed broccoli and mashed potatoes, grilled salmon in tomato and olive sauce, a delicious NY cheesecake and Wolfgang's burger slider.

The flight from NY to Manila is just as delicious: Beverly Hills chopped salad, mushroom soup, striploin steak, grilled Chilean seabass, key lime pie and steak sandwich.