

Copenhagen on Two Wheels

Did you know Denmark's capital is one of the most bike-friendly cities in the world? Take a look at how tourists can explore it on a bicycle.

TEXT AMRITA DAS

In the Danish capital, 62 per cent of Copenhageners cycle around to work, study or play. There are bike rental docks and repair shops every few metres. In fact, Copenhagen has 375 km of cycle tracks and nine out of ten Danes own a bike! In such a scenario, it would be criminal not to explore a city so well-designed for cyclists on two wheels.
