

Ireland – Clondalkin – Car Rental

Clondalkin car rentals from Expedia give you the freedom to explore the best cultural and natural attractions Ireland has to offer.

Clondalkin is on the outskirts of Dublin, 8.5 miles south of Dublin Airport, a 25-minute journey by car. It has a historic village, heritage sites, parks and several business centres. From there it's a short drive to Dublin's main attractions – national museums and galleries, the National Library, Guinness Storehouse and Botanical Gardens. Many have free parking for visitors and some hotels offer discount vouchers for families during the holidays.

Dublin Airport has a wide choice of car rental and parking facilities and you'll find several car rental desks in the Arrivals Hall of both terminals. Car rental can be expensive in Ireland compared to other destinations in Europe so it's best to book ahead to get a good deal.

The airport is well connected via the M50 orbital motorway, a gateway to surrounding towns and cities including Galway, Cork, Limerick and Belfast. Within two hours by car you can be in County Wicklow, which is known as the 'Garden of Ireland' with its villages, mountains, stately homes, heritage sites and sandy beaches. County Meath, just north of Dublin, is home to ancient burial tombs and a lovely coastline, and County Kilkenny, the former capital of Ireland, is now a centre for arts and crafts.

Whether you're in Clondalkin for a cultural mini break, seaside holiday or a business visit booking your car rental with Expedia gives you the choice to explore the city, countryside and coast.