

You'll Never Want to Leave This Las Vegas Sports Fan Cave

Ready to get your game on? We partnered with Caesars Entertainment to tell you everything you need to know about the most experiential and tech-savvy sportsbook on the Las Vegas Strip.

The sportsbook of the future is here. And while it doesn't involve hoverboards ushering you to the betting window, it does offer next-level augmented reality from your drink coaster...and so much more! Most importantly, it gives you a living room setup to watch the Big Game in February, an Xbox to play during interminable commercial breaks, a ridiculous amount of chicken wings, plus beer on tap. You can find it all in a Fan Cave at The Book inside The LINQ Hotel & Casino.

Why you need a Fan Cave

Instead of battling crowds at bars and sportsbooks, reserve space in a Fan Cave. Here's why: you can stretch out (there's room for 10 people) in a personal living room in the middle of the sportsbook! You control the three TVs, including two 49" screens and a 98" behemoth you can split into four sections, which is perfect if you have action on a couple games. If you reserve a Fan Cave during the Big Game in February you'll never miss a play, since you'll have a clear view of the huge TVs right from the comfort of your personal couch.

All the food, booze, and fun you can have in one place

You'll go to the Fan Cave because it's the best way to watch football, but you'll stay because there's plenty more fun stuff to do while you're there. You probably don't need to see that same insurance commercial 100 more times, so pick up a controller and challenge your pals to the latest sports and action games on your Fan Cave's personal Xbox.

See that drink coaster? It's where you can play five augmented reality games. And since you're in a sportsbook, you should absolutely bet on sports! When you walk into a Fan Cave, you'll be hooked up with a tablet where you can place bets through the Caesars Sports app. If you're thinking all that gaming and gambling will make you work up an appetite, The Book has you covered too.

Getting up to find food or booze in the middle of a game is a pain. What if you miss the play that changes everything? There's zero concern if you order your next meal or drink using that handy tablet. Wet your whistle with a Build Your Own Moscow Mule featuring multiple spirit and flavor options, and punch bowls full of sparkling wine, sangria or Patron. Or just jet over to the self-serve beer tap wall during a commercial to fill your cup with one of 24 stouts, IPAs, or lagers.

Even better: use the tablet to easily order enough grub to make a medieval king jealous from the Sticky Chicken food truck. We're talking six different chicken sandwiches, including The Gladiator with ricotta pesto, grilled mozzarella, and spicy Italian sausage, 12 different chicken wing options from Nashville - hot to bourbon barbecue, and other dishes like Steak & Eggs - a brunchified plate of fries with Philly cheesesteak, peppers and onions, cheese sauce, and a sunny-side up egg.

It's time to make plans for gameday. Huddle up with your squad and book a Vegas vacation that includes a center Strip hotel room at the newly renovated LINQ Hotel & Casino and a Fan Cave at The Book.
