

The DJ Fucker

(Part of a series of criticisms of trendy stereotypes in Singapore. Other stereotypes include; The DJ Fucker, The PR Fucker, The Norm Core Fucker, The Eat Clean Fucker, etc.)

DJs - modern day rockstars. So with that development, comes the evolution of “groupies”. Hence, The DJ Fucker, was born. I’m not talking about a DJ who is a fucker here, I’m literally talking about the DJ fucker in the most carnal of ways. An over the decks, under the sheets sort of scenario.

There’s a couple of girls I know who’ve supposedly paved their names in the circle by basically... doing the DJ. And conversations will sounds like; “Do you know Amidala is dating DJ Deathstar? Like OMFG.”

And suddenly she’s the droid everyone is looking for. Just by getting her kiap kiap probed by someone who raises the roof, or... makes fists pump (that’s a more modern way of saying raise the roof right?).

The funny thing is that these girls, I know some of them, and they are so much more than a DJ fucker. Smart, intelligent, talented girls who are somehow known as the chick dating DJ Vader. So this got me wondering whether there was something truly fucked up about them, or really fucked up about the people who zone in on the fact that Amidala is dating a DJ.

I was watching Scandal on TV the other day, and Abby, who’s the white house press secretary on the show, lamented that in every article written about her, they mention who she’s dating. Whereas her partner, a famous political fixer in the series, has articles written about him all the time with no mention of her at all.

Her rant went like this; “In order to mention my name they also have to report to the world that there's a man who wants me. My work, my accomplishments, my awards -- I stand at the most powerful podium in the world, but a story about me ain't a story unless they can report on the fact that I am the girlfriend of DC fixer Leo Bergen. Like it validates me, gives me an identity, a definition. They can't fathom the concept that my life doesn't revolve around you.”

Assuredly I say to you, this is a gender bias that spreads over different industries. The nightlife and creative scene is no different.

As I thought about this article, I thought it unfair to the DJ Fucker. It’s not her fault she fell in love with a DJ (insert link to Che’nelle’s “I Fell In Love With a DJ” YouTube). It’s our fault defining her that way. Don’t you think?