Though born and raised in Houston, Sean Cronen's love for the Texas Hill Country shines through when you talk to him. A member of the local Texas Master Naturalists chapter, he is passionate about the preservation of the Hill Country so that residents can continue appreciating its natural beauty.

After moving to Austin in 2014, Sean began his career in real estate as a licensed leasing agent before starting his junior year at University of Texas at Austin. While cutting his teeth in leasing, Sean also dabbled in business management, operations, and sales for an online real estate education company.

It's this diverse experience and education that has enabled Sean to achieve so much in just five years in the real estate field.

"As a REALTOR®, I understand the importance of staying up to date on the subtleties of my market, which is why I make continuing education a priority," Sean says. "I am a certified Real Estate Negotiation Expert (RENE) and strive to win the best possible outcome for all of my clients."
