SESSION CHAIRPERSON(S)

Stanley A. Edlavitch, PhD, MA

Professor, Epidemiology and Director, Graduate Training, School of Medicine, University of Missouri-Kansas City

Melvyn Greberman, MD, MPH, MS, FACPM

President, Public Health Resources, LLC

On September 27, 2007, President Bush signed the Food and Drug Administration Amendments Act of 2007 (FDAAA) into law. The law includes over 200 provisions and represents a significant addition to FDA authority across the spectrum of products regulated by the agency. Included are the Prescription Drug User Fee Amendments of 2007, the Medical Device User Fee Amendments of 2007, the Pediatric Medical Device Safety and Improvement Act of 2007, the Pediatric Research Equity Act of 2007, and the Best Pharmaceuticals for Children Act of 2007. In addition, FDAAA addresses conflicts of interest and requires the establishment of expanded clinical trial databases by NIH in collaboration with FDA. It also permits FDA to require postapproval studies and clinical trials, risk evaluation and mitigation strategies (REMS) for certain products, and prereview of direct-to-consumer advertisements. The new law also expands the responsibilities of food manufacturers with regard to potential food safety problems and establishes quality standards and recall procedures for pet foods. It also establishes the Reagan-Udall Foundation to advance the mission of the Food and Drug Administration to modernize medical, veterinary, food, food ingredient, and cosmetic product development, accelerate innovation, and enhance product safety. This session will address the implementation of the drug safety aspects of the FDAAA. Speakers from US and European regulatory agencies, the Reagan-Udall Foundation, PHRMA, and other organizations will discuss their goals and experiences with implementation of this new legislation during its 9 months since passage and whether the legislation will help to meet the important goal of insuring that drugs remain safe throughout their life cycle.

Accelerating Research: Integrating Clinical Research with Clinical Care

SESSION CHAIRPERSON(S)
Michael Nourie, MBA
 President and Chief Technology Officer, Accelere, Inc.

Today's academic clinical research environment faces new challenges: competing for NIH funding for increasingly complex studies, evolving and changing environment around translational medicine, finding and enrolling patients given complex inclusion/exclusion criteria and complex timing constraints (ie, acute conditions), maintaining patient confidentiality in accordance with HIPAA guidelines while conducting research, and integrating care and research activities on the hospital floor.

This panel will focus on the proven strategies and implementations that radically improve the process of how clinical studies can be planned and conducted within an academic medical setting. The panel will focus specifically on evolving study design, investigator screening, real-time patient screening and recruitment, and research workflow in parallel with quality care.
