

Privacy Act Statement. Every registration statement, short form registration, supplemental statement exhibit, amendment, copy of informational materials or other document or information filed with the Attorney General under this Act is a public record open to public examination, inspection and copying during the posted business hours of the Registration Unit in Washington, D.C. One copy of every such document, other than informational materials, is automatically provided to the Secretary of State pursuant to Section 6(b) of the Act, and copies of any and all documents are routinely made available to other agencies, departments and Congress pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Act. The Attorney General also transmits a semi-annual report to Congress on the Administration of the Act which lists the names of all agents registered under the Act and the foreign principals they represent. This report is available to the public. Finally, the Attorney General intends, at the earliest possible opportunity, to make these public documents available on the Internet on the Department of Justice World Wide Web site.

Public Reporting Burden. Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 1.5 hours per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to Chief, Registration Unit, Criminal Division, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, DC 20530; and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503.

NICE AT A GLANCE

GEOGRAPHIC LOCATION

Located in the south of France in the heart of the Riviera, Nice is cradled in a mountain range which plunges down to the sea. It is one of the few cities in the world where you can enjoy sunbathing on the beach in the morning and mountain skiing in the afternoon.

Nice occupies over 28 square miles. It is on the Mediterranean Sea and Bay of Angels, and bordered by the Alps, Esterel mountains, and the Var River. It has almost five miles of beach on the Mediterranean coast.

CLIMATE

Nice has an almost ideal climate because of its physical location -- protected from winter winds by the mountains in the north and west, and cooled by summer sea breezes from the Mediterranean and Bay of Angels. Nice is famous for the amount and quality of its sunlight. Henri Matisse, the famous French painter who made his home in Nice, said that "Though the light is intense, it's also soft and tender." The city has, on average, 300 days of sunshine a year.

HISTORY

Nice traces its history back to 400,000 years ago, when it was a camp used by elephant hunters. This camp and its artifacts are recreated in Nice's Terra Amata Museum.

In the fourth century B.C., the Greeks established a trading post there that they called Nikaïa, which means "Victory." Three centuries later, the Romans, wanting to guard the Alpine route between Italy and Spain, established the seat of their military government for the region at this site. In the fifth century, A.D., early Christians built a baptistery and cathedral over the Roman ruins. This archeological site, and a museum devoted to it, are open to the public.

From the dawn of the Middle Ages to the present, Nice has been, and still is, a thriving and vibrant year-round city, with a diverse history and an abundant cultural life. In 1388, Nice was part of the State of Savoy. In 1706, it became part of France, but in 1713 was handed over to the King of Sicily. Finally, in 1860, Nice became part of France again.

For more than 130 years, Nice has been a major destination for visitors from all parts of the world. In the 19th century, Queen Victoria chose Nice as the place to spend her winters. And ever since, royalty, the wealthy, artists and intellectuals, businessmen, and ordinary travelers from all parts of the world have enjoyed the pleasures of this unique city in the heart of the French Riviera.

NICE TODAY

The Riviera's Authentic City. With a population of over 350,000 people, Nice today is the largest city on the French Riviera and one of France's most important cities, both as a business center and vacation playground. Six million passengers arrive every year at Nice's airport, the second largest in France, 42 percent coming from abroad.

Accommodations. Nice has ten thousand hotel rooms in every price category and the finest convention center in Europe. Wherever you are staying, the city offers a thousand delights and surprises, night and day, to those who discover its endless diversity.

Shopping. Nice is a shopper's paradise, from small boutiques featuring the area's famed pottery and ceramics, and well-known perfumes, to jewelry shops, the most fashionable and famous couturiers, shopping arcades, even department stores. The city's "pedestrian streets, " are closed to vehicular traffic and adjoin the beautiful public gardens, Le Jardin Albert I, making shopping there a truly extraordinary experience.

Sightseeing. A relaxing, picturesque way to begin your tour of Nice is to board the little white trains at the Albert I Esplanade opposite the Centenary Monument. The trains take visitors along the waterfront, through the Old Town, past the colorful flower market, and up to the Castle Hill gardens. The trains leave from the Esplanade every 30 minutes between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. during high season, and cost approximately $6.00 per person. The guided tour is given in English, French and German.

On foot, you can explore the outdoor markets of exotic flowers, fresh produce, and the local fish and seafood of the Mediterranean. Or you can stroll the Promenade des Anglais, a Victorian avenue that is the address of some of the finest hotels, cafes and restaurants in Nice. Or take nature hikes in the mountains and enjoy breath-taking views.

Old Town. Nice's Old Town (or Vieux Nice) is the place where the city taps into its ancient roots. It contains picturesque streets, architecture from centuries past, and exclusive boutiques. Parts of Vieux Nice are closed off from vehicular traffic.

A colorful section of Vieux Nice is the Cours Saleya, reminiscent of the Left Bank in Paris. Outdoor cafes abound for people watching and sampling informal "Cuisine Niçoise" specialties. Close by the Cours Saleya is Nice's lively flower and produce market, the Monday flea market, and many shops selling herbs, olive oil and assortments of edibles and crafts from around Nice.

Museums. Nice is a major cultural center. After Paris, it has the most museums of any city in France. Matisse chose Nice as his adopted home, and the city was a source of inspiration for Toulouse Lautrec, Modigliani, Utrillo, Dufy, Renoir, and Chagall, who all lived there for long periods of time. Its 16 museums contain art and artifacts that date back 400,000 years; Roman and early Christian ruins; illuminated manuscripts and art from the 13th to the 18th century; an international collection of primitive art; extensive collections of the works of Matisse, Chagall and Dufy; and contemporary American and French paintings. The collections are housed in villas, palaces, and 20th century architectural monuments.

The Rothschild Museum in St. Jean Cap Ferrat is only a short drive away. So is the unique Picasso sculpture museum in Antibes and the Maeght Foundation with its collection of modern art and sculpture.

Music. Theatre and Film Nice has an active musical and theatrical life. In addition to its theatre, opera and orchestra seasons, its Jazz Festival -- always in July -- attracts more than 200 noted musicians from all over the world. It also has a Festival of Church Music and one of contemporary music.

The Victorine Studios, founded in Nice in 1919, are an integral part of the history of cinema. The studios were home to such film pioneers as Léon Gaumont and Charles Pathe, and many stars of today work here on their latest movies. Currently, the Victorine has ten film studios and can accommodate any type of production, from feature films to TV, advertising, and multi-media.

Nice's cinémathèque shows over 400 films a year, and organizes regular previews of major film productions attended by actors, actresses, producers and directors.

Cuisine. Dining is an art in Nice, which has some of the finest restaurants and chefs in France. Distinctive Niçoise and Provençal cuisine can be found in elegant surroundings and sunny outdoor bistros throughout the city. Typical dishes include the famed "Salade Niçoise,"

"Pissaladière" (onion tart), "Socca" (savory pancakes made from chick pea flour), "Gnocchis" (made of flour and mashed potatoes) and "Beignets de Fleur de Courgette" (zucchini blossom fritters).

Sports. Because of its ideal climate and superb location, Nice is a natural for outdoor sports. Swim (part of the International Athletics Federation Grand Prix).

Nightlife. Nice at night offers a variety of diversions. Its nightlife is world famous for the glamour of its cafes, nightclubs, and discos. And, in the heart of Nice, is the famous Casino Ruhl.

EXCURSIONS

As the hub of the Côte d'Azur, Nice is within easy driving distance of the whole Riviera. For example, Monte Carlo, the world's smallest monarchy, and Cannes, famous for its annual film festival, are only 30 minutes away by car.

Only 15 to 20 minutes away, again by car, are Eze Village, an authentic medieval village, historic St. Paul de Vence, Vallauris, and Biot, well-known centers for French pottery and ceramics, and the fishing village of Villefranche an ancient town that still enjoys the pace of yesteryear.

Air. The Nice International Airport, the second largest in France, is served by 32 major airlines, with connections to 90 cities and direct non-stop service from and to the United States. Delta offers non-stop service from JFK. There are also frequent connections through Paris on Air France and several U.S. carriers. The airport is only a little more than four miles from the heart of Nice, about a ten-minute taxi ride.

Rail. Nice is served by all international trains. In France, the national railway, SNCF, runs along the coastline. For Alpine connections, the Nice-Coni line, via Breil, takes you through the mountains.

Road. The Esterel motorway links Nice directly to the rest of France, Italy, Spain, Germany, Switzerland, and Belgium. Bus service is available from France's main cities.

Cruise Ships Nice is a port city. Cruise ships make about 100 calls to Nice every year.

NICE'S TICKET TO THE ARTS

New "Passe-Musées" Allows Easy Access to the Museums of Nice

NICE, FRANCE -- September 18, 1997 -- With the use of a new seven-day museum pass, the "Passe-Musées," visitors to Nice can now enter the city's many museums without paying separate admission fees and without waiting in line. The pass is designed to make visits to Nice's museums considerably easier and less expensive, with unlimited entrances during the allotted time period.

The seven-day pass costs 40 French francs, or approximately $8.00, and can be purchased at any of the museums or at one of the Nice Tourist Information Offices located throughout the city. Museum entrance is always free to those under 18 and to the handicapped, and free to everyone on the first Sunday of every month.

Regarded by many as a leading art center of France, Nice is second only to Paris in its number of museums. Located in the heart of the French Riviera, Nice was the home of Matisse and a source of inspiration for Toulouse Lautrec, Modigliani, Utrillo, Dufy, Renoir and Chagall. Its more than 16 museums contain art and artifacts that date back 400,000 years; Roman and early Christian ruins; illuminated manuscripts and art from the 13th to the 18th century; an international collection of primitive art; extensive collections of the works of Matisse, Chagall and Dufy; and contemporary French and American paintings.

Among the most popular museums for visitors are the Matisse Museum, Chagall Museum, Dufy Museum, and the Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art.
