SANTA'S SLEIGH NOT EXPECTED TO MAKE IT TO MANY OF THE WORLD'S MAJOR TOURIST DESTINATIONS -- JOLLY OL' ELF OPTING TO ARRIVE BY ATLANTIS SUBMARINE INSTEAD

VANCOUVER, CANADA -- Rumor has it that Santa's sleigh may not make it to many of the world's most popular tourist destinations. No need for local or visiting children to fret, however, as the Jolly Ol' Elf can always load his holiday cheer aboard an Atlantis Submarine.

Atlantis Submarines launched the world's first passenger submarine in 1985. Today, its nine-vessel international fleet has carried more than 2 million passengers as far as 150 feet below the ocean's surface in exotic destinations around the globe.

The list of locations consists of Guam; Grand Cayman; St. Thomas; Aruba; Barbados; Maui and Kona, Hawaii; and Waikiki, where two of the 46-passenger subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. The Vancouver-based company is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 95-foot model, which will carry 64 passengers per dive.

SANTA'S SLEIGH NOT EXPECTED IN BARBADOS --
REINDEER LEFT BEHIND AS ST. NICK OPTS
TO ARRIVE VIA ATLANTIS SUBMARINE

BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOS -- Rumor has it that Santa's sleigh may not make it to Barbados. No need for local children to fret, however, as the Jolly Ol' Elf can always load his holiday cheer aboard the 28-passenger Atlantis Submarine.

Recently the site of a celebration honoring Atlantis' 2 millionth passenger worldwide, Barbados has served as an Atlantis destination since 1986. In that time, the battery-powered, high-tech vessel has carried more than 300,000 passengers on over 15,000 dives as far as 150 feet below the Caribbean waves.

In addition to Barbados, Atlantis Submarines currently operates in St. Thomas; Aruba; Grand Cayman; Guam; Maui and Kona, Hawaii; and Waikiki, where two 46-passenger subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. The Canadian company, based in Vancouver, British Columbia, is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 95-foot model, which will carry 64 passengers per dive.

SANTA DUMPS RUDOLPH AND THE OTHERS --
ARRIVES IN HAWAII VIA ATLANTIS SUBMARINES

KONA, HAWAII -- Much to the dismay of Rudolph and his fellow reindeer, Santa Claus has opted to forego his famous flying sleigh, deciding instead to arrive in Hawaii via the Atlantis Submarine.

At 9 a.m. on Saturday, December 12, Santa and his elves will make their annual holiday appearance at Kona's Kailua Pier via Atlantis Submarine. Jolly Ol' Saint Nick will then jump into his sleigh and lead the group to a "Christmas Fantasy Land" created in the King Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel.

VISIONS OF SANTA'S SUB DANCE THROUGH THE HEADS OF CHILDREN IN KONA

KAILUA-KONA, HAWAII -- As Santa's sub slowly emerges from the waters just off Kona, children will await the familiar Christmas "Ho, Ho, Ho" salute to kick off the fourth annual "Santa by Sub" holiday festival hosted by Atlantis Submarines and King Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel.

Saturday, December 12, the children of the West Hawaii community will receive a special holiday treat. At 9 a.m., Santa and his elves will make a grand entrance at Kona's Kailua Pier via the Atlantis Submarine. Jolly Ol' Saint Nick (aka Councilman Harry Ruddie) will then jump into his sleigh and lead the group to a "Christmas Fantasy" in King Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel. Here, Santa will begin visiting with the children, listening to their wishes and posing for photos as the crowd is musically welcomed with Christmas carols by Kahakai School's 4th and 5th grade choir. A holiday choo-choo train will circle through snowcapped mountains and around a frozen lake within the elaborately decorated hotel main mall, magically transforming it into an authentic Swiss village.

Serving as the master of ceremonies, Lyman Medeiros of Channel 6 will then invite the children to take part in the festival events, which will run from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Plans range from performances by "The Great Barusky" magician, The Clay Family Singers and Keiki Hula Dancers. Lollypop the clown and Fred the clown will provide festive face-painting, compliments of Encore Talent and the Kupunas will host a craft display booth. Several strolling, costumed characters will greet children awaiting a visit with Santa.

In addition, Atlantis Submarines will donate a submarine journey to a special group of children from the Family Support Services of West Hawaii. Approximately 50 feet below the waves, these special children will view Kona Reef Divers' imaginative, underwater Christmas scene. The undersea pageant features a sunken, decorated Christmas tree (provided by Hokulani Tree Farm), busy elves building toys and a scuba-diving Santa Claus. Other contributors to Atlantis' "Santa by Sub" celebration include: Signs By Jackie, Kona Photo Arts, Burger King, Longs Drugs, KAOY radio and Channel 6 TV.

Having carried more than 2 million passengers worldwide, Atlantis is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 96-foot model. The 64-passenger sub is slated to begin operation in Hawaiian waters in late 1993. Besides the Kona location, Atlantis Submarines are also found in Lahaina-Maui and Waikiki, where two subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. Other Atlantis sites include Barbados, Grand Cayman, St. Thomas, Guam and Aruba.

KOREA

Dear Mr. Choi:

Aloha from Hawaii! I am greatly looking forward to my upcoming visit to Seoul for the Korea Visit USA Fair. I will be in Seoul, Korea, Tuesday, October 13, through Thursday, October 22. I hope a meeting between us will be possible.

I would like to update you on our operations at Atlantis Submarines Hawaii, L.P. Currently, we have four 46-passenger subs touring the Hawaiian waters. You can find Atlantis in Kona, Lahaina-Maui, and off Waikiki, where two of the 65-foot vessels operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. I would appreciate the time to explain, in more detail, the history and operation of our vessels, our incredible safety record and to provide you with insights as to what a marvelous underwater journey this subsea adventure truly is.

I also would like to tell you about the commitment Atlantis is making to the Korean travel industry. In addition to attending fairs such as KOTFA and Korea Visit USA, we are also building a valued relationship with the Hawaii-based Korean agencies. All of these activities help us meet our goal of gaining an understanding of how to best serve your market.

I would be honored with the opportunity to meet with you while I am in Korea, and equally honored to be featured in your publication. I will be staying at the Hilton International Hotel throughout the Korea Visit USA Fair if you would like to contact me to set up a meeting time. Or you may reach me at the Hilton Convention Center during the Korea Visit USA Fair. Atlantis Submarines will be at booth number 14..

AFTERNOON TEA EXPRESS — In Victoria, British Columbia, the legendary Empress Hotel surpasses many British hotels in the most English of all institutions: afternoon tea. In fact, Victoria's landmark hotel serves more than 80,000 afternoon teas annually.

With Royal Sealink Express' (RSE) new downtown-to-downtown high-speed passenger ferry service between Vancouver and Victoria, visitors can now spend a weekend, a day, or even a few hours visiting British Columbia's charming provincial capital and partaking in afternoon tea at The Empress.

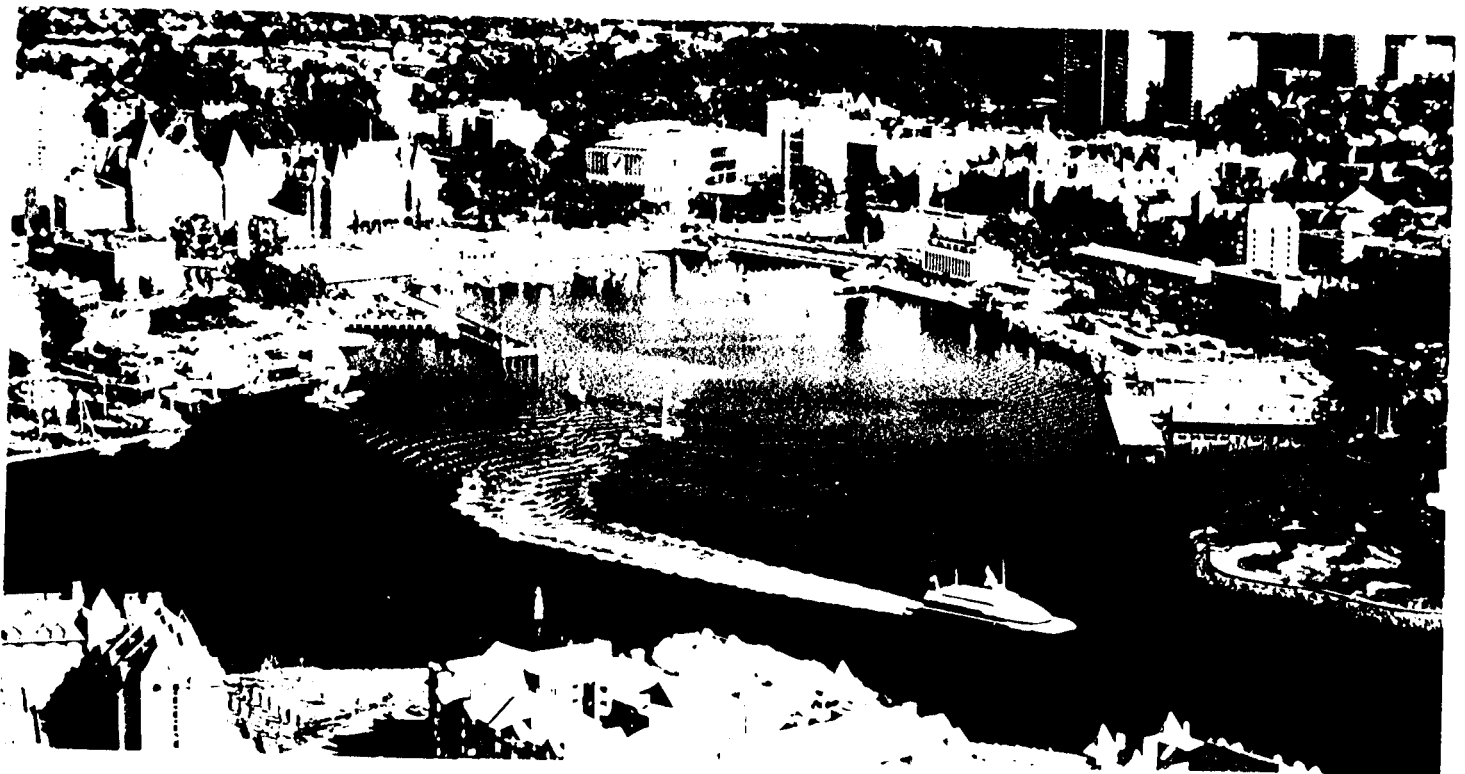

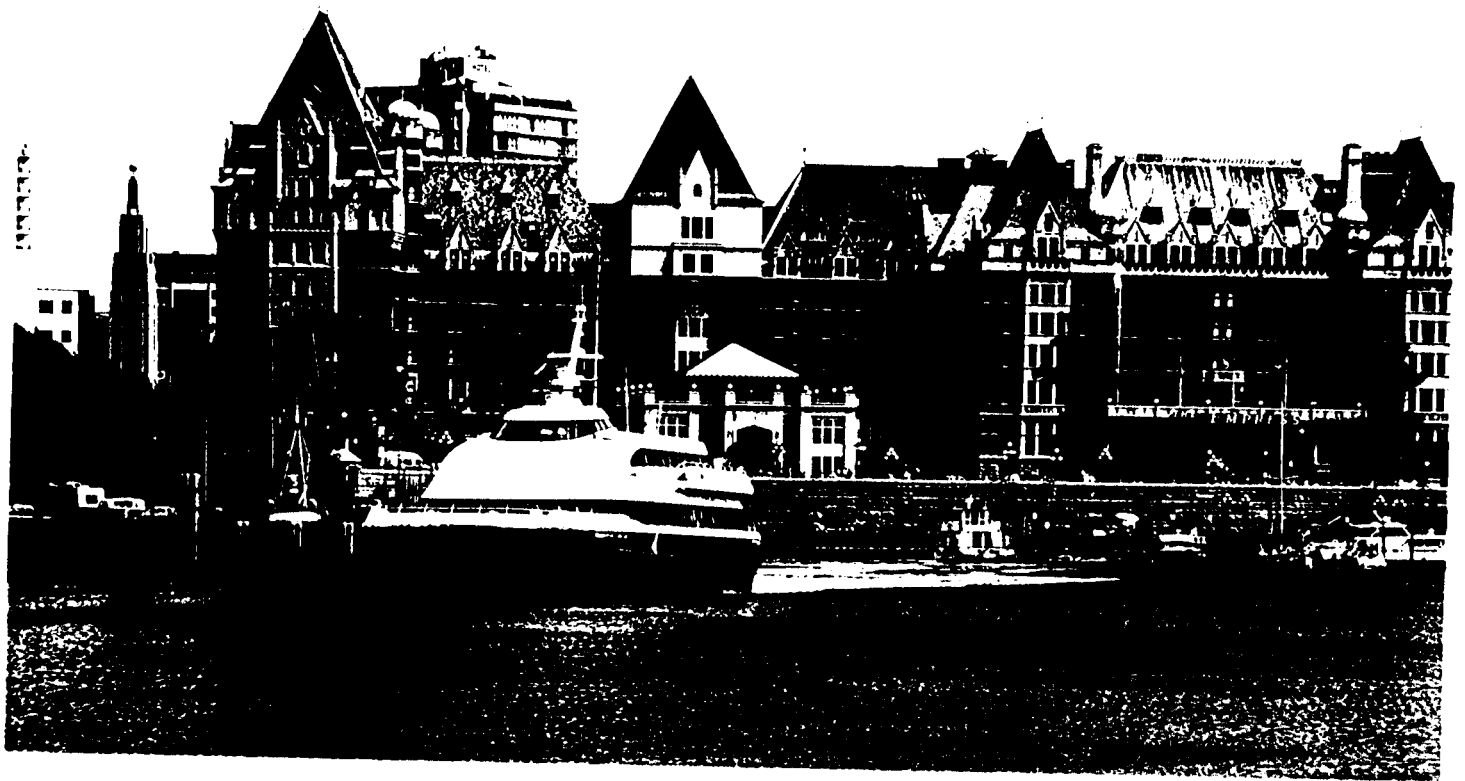

Charting an exhilarating two-and-a-half-hour, 85-mile passage across the Strait of Georgia and through the Southern Gulf Islands, Royal Sealink Express' two 302-passenger "Flying Cat" catamarans sail four times daily between downtown Vancouver's SeaBus/SkyTrain terminal and Victoria's Ship Point dock, located at the foot of The Empress, in the heart of Victoria's charming Inner Harbour.

Afternoon tea at The Empress Hotel is served daily from 12:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Reservations are advised and a dress code prohibits jeans, shorts or athletic wear. Reservations for Royal Sealink Express are also encouraged and can be made by calling RSE at (604) 687-6925 or faxing (604) 687-0984. For additional information regarding Royal Sealink Express, call (604) 687-1464. For additional information regarding afternoon tea at The Empress Hotel, call (604) 384-8111.

SPECIAL FARES AND DOWNTOWN-TO-DOWNTOWN CONVENIENCE MAKE FAMILY AND SENIOR TRAVEL TO VICTORIA AND NANAIMO EASY
ABOARD ROYAL SEALINK EXPRESS AND NANAIMO EXPRESS FAST FERRIES

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA — Providing travelers with practical and economical downtown-to-downtown passenger ferry service between Vancouver and the Vancouver Island cities of Victoria and Nanaimo, Royal Sealink Express (RSE) and Nanaimo Express are perfectly suited for families and senior travelers.

Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo are safe, clean and easily accessible on foot. In addition, with various forms of public transportation available, the need for a car is virtually unnecessary. Offering discounted rates for seniors 65 years and older, and a free children's ticket (ages 3 to 15) per each paying adult, Royal Sealink Express and Nanaimo Express fares make it easy for travelers to see British Columbia's three largest cities.

Vancouver's SeaBus/SkyTrain terminal, located just east of the Vancouver Trade and Convention Center, is the base for both fast-ferry services. The terminal is located five blocks from bustling Robson Street and even closer to many of Vancouver's popular hotels, museums, theaters, parks and other attractions. While Vancouver is the Canadian province's largest city, its SkyTrain transit system, just steps from the RSE/Nanaimo Express boarding area, makes extensive urban exploration very manageable.

RSE AND NANAIMO EXPRESS MAKE BC MORE ACCESSIBLE

Personal attention and service offered by both fast-ferry operations help take the guesswork and hassles out of sailing between Vancouver and Vancouver Island. A phone-in/fax-in reservation system gives travelers the option of making guaranteed reservations prior to sailing. In addition, RSE/Nanaimo Express' expertly trained crews are on hand at each terminal to assist in boarding seniors with heavy luggage and passengers with children.

Cruising at speeds of up to 40 mph, Royal Sealink Express' two $8 million, state-of-the-art "Flying Cat" catamarans are among the world's safest, most sophisticated passenger ferries. With a capacity of 302 passengers, each vessel features adjustable seating in a variety of single, group and table arrangements; special play areas for children; an outside upper level viewing deck and easily-accessible washrooms for passengers with disabilities.

While getting a firsthand view of British Columbia's trademark coastal scenery, RSE passengers can enjoy "in-flight" video entertainment or listen to music via their personal multi-channel audio system. On-board fax and phone services are available and food, beverages and reading materials can be purchased from upper and lower food galleys. In addition, crew members are at hand to take food and beverage orders from seated passengers.

A two-and-one-half-hour sailing from Vancouver lands RSE passengers at Ship Point dock in the heart of Victoria's picturesque Inner Harbour. From there, visitors can enjoy afternoon high tea at the legendary Empress Hotel, trace 12,000 years of regional history at the Royal British Columbia Museum, catch a double-decker bus or horse-and-carriage tour of the town or browse through the many unique shops located in Victoria's beautifully restored 19th-century Market Square.

The sailing between downtown Vancouver and Nanaimo is only 75 minutes aboard Nanaimo Express' 296-passenger "Orca Spirit." Despite Nanaimo's growth as a center for tourism and commerce, B.C.'s "Harbour City" is still a world away from the rush and crowds of urban life and is an ideal departure point for travelers wanting to explore Vancouver Island's vast interior. Within walking distance of the Nanaimo Express terminal are several historical attractions, including the city's historic Bastion, erected by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1853. Nanaimo also features fine malls, an eclectic mix of specialty boutiques and dozens of parks throughout the waterfront city.

Round-trip fares aboard Nanaimo Express are approximately $22.95 for seniors, $25.50 for adults, and $21.25 for children ages 3-15 and students with valid school identification. Royal Sealink Express' round-trip fares are approximately $40.80 for seniors, $46.71 for adults and $23.80 for children ages 3-15. (All fares are approximate U.S. dollar values based on a 15% currency conversion.)

ROYAL SEALINK EXPRESS AND NANAIMO EXPRESS HIGH-SPEED PASSENGER FERRY SERVICES ANNOUNCE WINTER SAILING SCHEDULES

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA — Providing state-of-the-art, high-speed passenger ferry travel between B.C.'s mainland city of Vancouver and Vancouver Island's two largest destinations, Victoria and Nanaimo, Royal Sealink Express (RSE) and Nanaimo Express announce winter schedules effective through February 28, 1993.

From downtown Vancouver's SeaBus terminal, Victoria-bound passengers sail an exhilarating two-and-a-half-hour cruise across the Strait of Georgia, through the Southern Gulf Islands' Active Pass and around the southern tip of Vancouver Island. RSE's 85-mile trek lands travelers at the foot of Victoria's landmark Empress Hotel, in the heart of the provincial capital's scenic Inner Harbour.

At speeds of up to 40 mph, Nanaimo Express' Orca Spirit, an $8 million "Flying Cat" catamaran, nearly identical to RSE's "Royal Vancouver" and "Royal Victoria," sails between downtown Vancouver and Nanaimo's sheltered harbor in just 65 minutes.

Both operations continue to offer four sailings daily from each city. (Off-season schedules and commissionable fares are detailed on the following pages.) Travelers can book passage by calling RSE/Nanaimo Express' phone-in reservation service at (604) 687-6925; or fax reservation requests to RSE/Nanaimo Express at (604) 685-7490.

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL AND CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE CELEBRATE THE FALL MOUNTAIN SCENERY WITH WINE AND FOOD

BANFF/LAKE LOUISE, CANADA -- Everything tastes better in the mountains; high altitudes just seem to rouse the taste buds. Combine this phenomenon with colorful autumn scenery and you have the recipe for two culinary extravaganzas hosted by Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts' Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise.

A weekend of pure pleasure awaits visitors at the Banff Springs Hotel Canadian Classic Wine & Food Festival on Saturday, October 17, and Sunday, October 18. Food and wine connoisseurs can enjoy award-winning Canadian wines and gourmet dining. Highlights of the weekend's festivities include tasting seminars and cooking demonstrations.

Guests can meet, mingle and taste with experts in Canadian wines and culinary industries. Robert W. Black, L.L.B., journalist and acclaimed wine taster, will serve as a mediator for the Banff Springs Wine & Food Festival. Chef Michael Stadlander of British Columbia will introduce guests to the rustic, elegant flavor of Canada's regional cuisine. He will also demonstrate the preparation of items featured on Saturday evening's magnificent menu. Rates for the weekend event start at $169 (U.S.). Prices include the Gala Reception and dinner, Vintner's Brunch, four seminars and Saturday night accommodation.

Lovers of Italian wine and cuisine can escape to Chateau Lake Louise for the 10th Annual Italian Vino Novello Festival on Saturday, November 21. Visitors may sample authentic dishes from Italy's famed northern and southern regions, areas known for their distinctive cuisine.

The event will feature performances by the Italian Choir A.N.A. and the Appeninni Dancers. Other plans include a wine tasting hosted by the Italian Consulate of Edmonton and cooking demonstrations of dishes such as Salmon al Pesce Spada, Beef Carpaccio, Marinated Tuna, Antipasto and Zabaglione.

Rates for the Chateau Lake Louise package start at $95 (U.S.) per person. Prices include Saturday night accommodation, wine tasting, Italian feast and dancing, Sunday brunch and an entry to win a trip for two to Italy. A special rate of $65 (U.S.) is available for a stayover on the Friday or Saturday night when booking on the Vino Novello package. Plus, early ski season begins in mid-November on the slopes of Lake Louise Ski Area. So skiers should plan to bring their skis as well as their appetites.

All prices quoted in U.S. currency are based on double occupancy at a 15 percent exchange rate. For more information on these great weekend packages or any of Canadian Pacific Hotels and Resorts' world-class resorts, please call your travel agent or (800) 828-7447.

HOTEL VANCOUVER IN THE WORLD'S SPOTLIGHT
AS HOST FOR THE VANCOUVER INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA -- Vancouver, British Columbia, will again be a center for the world's cultural community when it hosts the Eleventh Annual Vancouver International Film Festival October 2-18, 1992. As host hotel, the historic Hotel Vancouver will serve as the activity hub for this 17-day event featuring over 225 films.

The Festival will continue its tradition as a bridge between Pacific Rim nations with programs devoted to Canada and East Asia. "Canadian Images" consists of more than 50 new films extracted from over 250 Canadian entries, the largest number of entries in Festival history. Meanwhile, Tony Rayns' "Dragons and Tigers: The Cinemas of East Asia" provides an 11-film tribute to Hong Kong Cinema. Other presentations include "Devised and Directed by Mike Leigh" (Britain), "The Gulf War and Other Non-Fiction Features" (U.S.), and "Cinema of Our Time" (Canada).

Hotel Vancouver is located in the heart of Vancouver. This unique heritage hotel plays home to visiting film stars, and has also been used as a set location for several films and television series.

NANNIES AND GRANNIES GET ROYAL TREATMENT:
KIDS HOLD THE KEY TO GET THEM IN FREE!

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA -- Kids now hold the key for nannies and grannies to get free rooms at Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts in British Columbia. The "Nannies and Grannies" two-for-one package allows any nannies or grandparents accompanied by a child to get their own room -- free!

Within the castle-like elegance of Victoria's Empress Hotel, nannies can share the English traditions of their trade at the hotel's renowned afternoon tea. Even room service is a majestic adventure, as children exercise their royal imaginations, pretending to be princes and princesses as scrumptious meals are placed before them in their "chambers." Days in Victoria can be spent exploring on horse-drawn carriage rides, on double-decker bus tours through the charming streets, or the family can set forth to explore the ghostly legends of Craigdarroch Castle.

Across the channel, the exciting port city of Vancouver explodes with opportunities for fun and adventure. Family activities surround the landmark Hotel Vancouver and the luxurious new Waterfront Centre Hotel. Nannies or grannies can entertain children with a picnic in Stanley Park, a trip to the Vancouver Aquarium or Maplewood Farm petting zoo in North Vancouver. Granville Island bustles with excitement-filled markets, artisans' workshops and the "Kids Only" market and playground.

Hotel Vancouver's Sunday Brunch at Griffins Restaurant is a treat for all ages. Children wear chefs' hats and grill their own flapjacks at the special kids' brunch table. They even choose their own toppings, ensuring some very yummy creations.

Farther north, grannies are hosted in grand style in the beautiful surroundings of Chateau Whistler Resort. The Chateau's "adventure desk" will custom-design action-packed days, or if you prefer, relax in the hotel's health spa or outdoor jacuzzi. At the Wildflower Restaurant, special children's menus provide all the energy kids need to spend their day heli-hiking, horseback riding, mountain biking, fishing, playing tennis or having fun on the new children's play tree, "The Wild Thing," on the terrace of the hotel.

The "Grannies and Nannies" package runs from now until April 30, 1993, at The Empress for $133 (U.S.), the Hotel Vancouver for $117 (U.S.) and at the Waterfront Centre Hotel for $123 (U.S.). The package is also available at the Chateau Whistler Resort from October 9 to November 30, 1992, at a rate of $107 (U.S.). Rates are for two rooms (single or double occupancy), do not include tax, and are based on a 15 percent exchange rate. Special kids' menus at discounted prices and connecting rooms are available at most Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts in British Columbia. For more information, please call (800) 828-7447.

WORLD-CLASS GOLF COURSES MEET MOUNTAINOUS WILDERNESS ON THE FAIRWAYS OF CANADIAN PACIFIC HOTELS & RESORTS

ALBERTA, CANADA -- To play some of the world's most highly ranked golf courses, you must be prepared for obstacles, like an 800-pound bull elk. Wildlife and wilderness are just part of the fun when playing the courses surrounding Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts in Alberta.

Amid the mountainous splendor of the Canadian Rockies, Jasper, Banff and Kananaskis offer mountain golf at its best while immediately improving your game -- altitudes up to a mile high offer 10% more hang time on most shots. However, extra challenges are found by avoiding the many grazing elk or lumbering bears that call the courses home.

Tucked away in this back-country environment are the properties of Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts. Offering all the luxury expected from world-class properties, The Lodge and Hotel at Kananaskis, Jasper Park Lodge and the Banff Springs Hotel all cater to golfers with award-winning courses, and a myriad of social and recreational amenities.

Less than an hour from Calgary International Airport on the banks of the Kananaskis River, Robert Trent Jones Sr. designed two 18-hole courses: Mount Kidd and Mount Lorette. These 72-par courses offer a variety of playing conditions with water hazards on more than half the holes.

Farther north, Stanley Thompson laid out a pair of mountain gems when he developed the Jasper Park Lodge and Banff Springs golf courses in the 1920s. Medal winners in Golf Magazine's list of the world's best courses, these time-honored fairways continue to attract international recognition.

The 27 holes of the Banff Springs Golf Course cover over 10,000 yards of undulating fairways. While most play along rugged tree-lined landscapes, several closing holes play water games with the aggressive Bow River. Five hours northwest of Banff, the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course is on of the top rated public course in Canada. Each hole is aligned to a distant peak, while bunker contours emulate the surrounding terrain, staunchly defending the 6,598-yard back tees.

For a golf vacation with a twist, there's the Heli-Golf package offered by Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts' British Columbia properties. The 4-night, 4-course package whisks golfers between Vancouver, Victoria and Whistler via HeliJet Airways' sleek jet helicopters. Among the courses included is the Chateau Whistler Golf Club, a recently opened Robert Trent Jones Jr. creation.

HOLIDAY TRADITIONS FILL THE HALLS OF CANADIAN PACIFIC HOTELS & RESORTS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA -- Steeped in holiday traditions, Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts in British Columbia are celebrating the season's good cheer with special rates and packages that could make Ebenezer Scrooge burst into a chorus of "Joy to the World."

Combined with an incredibly favorable U.S. exchange rate, these deals make British Columbia an ideal getaway for the holidays. White Christmas days can be spent on Whistler's world-class ski slopes or exploring the quaint city of Victoria via horse-drawn carriage. Either way, families can enjoy the long-lived holiday traditions of these castle-like properties or take time for their own personal celebrations.

For more than 50 years, the Hotel Vancouver's green-gabled roof has lit up the heart of the city with the sparkle of more than 4,000 white bulbs. Inside the landmark hotel, the property's famous Dickens Buffet satisfies hungry Christmas appetites, while a host of seasonal festivities are found throughout.

Farther north, in the mountainous beauty of Whistler, the holidays magically transform Chateau Whistler Resort into a bustling Santa's Workshop. Children let their creative juices flow, building decorative gingerbread houses or creating the ideal Christmas cards for mom, dad, or new friends made during their stay. Evenings call for families to join together for caroling or to listen to the inspirational music of the Whistler Singers' Choir Service.

A hotel tradition since 1928, The Empress' Old English Yuletide Festival captures the spirit of the season with strolling carolers, an Elizabethan Christmas dinner, and the firing of the Yule Log. Legend says a Yule Log splinter, kept under a bed until next yuletide, protects the building from fire, crime and danger for the next twelve months.

Rates and packages vary by hotel. Prices, based on double occupancy at a 15 percent exchange rate, are as follows:

The Empress Hotel

Christmas Package (Dec. 23 - Dec. 27) -- Includes 4 nights' accommodation, a welcome reception, admission to The Royal British Columbia Museum and Gray Line Tour, breakfasts and dinners (including gratuities), and one afternoon Mid-Carol Tea -- prices start at $620 (U.S.) per person.

New Year's Eve -- A variety of dinner, dancing and New Year's festivities are available. Accommodations start at $55 (U.S.).

Hotel Vancouver (Dec. 1 - Jan. 5)

Holiday Festivities -- A full holiday program is available featuring the Dickens Buffet and Christmas Wonderland Buffet. Christmas accommodations start at $77 (U.S.).

Chateau Whistler Resort

Christmas and New Year's (Dec. 22 - Jan. 1) -- Besides Santa's Workshop activities, a variety of other festivities and holiday meals are available, including Christmas Eve, Christmas Day and New Year's Eve buffets. Accommodations start at $215 (U.S.).

Christmas reservations can be made by calling toll-free

BRITISH COLUMBIA & ALBERTA, CANADA -- Special holiday packages at Canadian Pacific Hotels and Resorts' Western Canadian properties offer guests the opportunity to experience a joyous white Christmas filled with exciting surprises for the whole family.

Other festive treats include horse-drawn carriage rides, skiing down glistening mountain slopes or relaxing over carol tea at The Empress in Victoria. The magic of the holidays fills each of these castle-like properties with gleeful traditions such as the ice-sculpture competition at Jasper Park Lodge or the Banff Springs Hotel's annual Christmas Pageant (pictured right).

Packages start at $300 (U.S) and, combined with a strong U.S. exchange rate, make for very affordable holiday getaways. Christmas and New Year's reservations for all Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts can be made by calling toll-free from the U.S. (800) 828-7447.

ST. THOMAS, UNITED STATES VIRGIN ISLANDS -- Atlantis Submarines in St. Thomas recently aided in the film production of "Weekend at Bernie's II." A sequel to the 1989 international hit movie, this story has a few more twists.

Pictured (top) is the movie's cast and crew atop the 46-passenger Atlantis as they prepare for the next scene entitled "Seahunt with Bernie Lomax." In this underwater sequence, Hummel, a suspicious insurance investigator played by actor Barry Bostwick, descends below the waves aboard the 65-foot Atlantis Submarine. He then spots Bernie, a very lively corpse, walking along the ocean floor. The sight of a man he believes is a dead insurance embezzler strolling underwater without a SCUBA tank drives Hummel into a hysteric fit. Having missed this sighting, the sub's passengers and crew simply believe he has gone mad, and Hummel is escorted out of the 80-ton Atlantis in a straightjacket. (bottom photo)

Atlantis vessels guide passengers through the oceanic world of brilliant coral reefs and exotic marine creatures in eight locations worldwide. In addition to St. Thomas, Atlantis sites are found in Aruba, Barbados, Grand Cayman, Guam, Kona, Maui and world-famous Waikiki, where two subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village.

SCENES FROM "WEEKEND AT BERNIES II" FILMED
ABOARD ATLANTIS SUBMARINES IN ST. THOMAS

ST. THOMAS, UNITED STATES VIRGIN ISLANDS -- Atlantis Submarines in St. Thomas recently took part in the filming of "Weekend at Bernies II," scheduled for release next spring. The movie, a sequel to 1989's international hit, will continue following the escapades of a pair of bumbling insurance executives (Andrew McCarthy and Jonathan Silverman) and their deceased boss (Terry Kiser).

So, Bernie's back and he's still dead. This off-the-wall comedy, written and directed by Robert Klane and produced by Victor Drai, has Bernie encountering a strange island ritual that not only raises him from the dead but also has him strolling on the ocean's floor.

Seeing Bernie walking underwater without a SCUBA tank comes as a big shock to actor Barry Bostwick, who plays Hummel, a stuffy insurance investigator. During this scene, "Seahunt with Bernie Lomax," Hummel is aboard the 46-passenger Atlantis Submarine where, in addition to tropical fish and colorful coral reefs, he finds his archenemies (Bernies) deep beneath the waves doing what has come to be called the "Bernie Shuffle."

The scene called for Bernie to remain underwater for over one minute without the benefit of SCUBA tanks or a breathing apparatus. Kiser performed this stunt, with the aid of diver masters, himself. He had to wear a tattered raincoat with 85 pounds of extra weight specially designed to keep him from floating upward. The result was that he "shuffled" across the ocean's bottom. This unusual walk, dubbed the "Bernie Shuffle," was so popular the movie crew would often imitate it at island hot spots.

Atlantis' 80-ton submarine in St. Thomas, launched in 1987, has carried more than 250,000 guests. St. Thomas passengers descend up to 90 feet below the waves to explore the undersea reefs of Buck Island National Wildlife Preserve. In addition to St. Thomas, Atlantis sites are found in Aruba, Barbados, Grand Cayman, Guam, Maui, Kona and world-famous Waikiki Beach, where two subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village.

ATLANTIS NAMES TERESA KASPERBAUER
AS ACCOUNT EXECUTIVE AT ITS HONOLULU LOCATION

HONOLULU, HAWAII -- Atlantis Submarines Hawaii L.P. recently named Teresa Kasperbauer as account executive for its passenger submarine operations in the state of Hawaii.

In her new position, Kasperbauer will oversee sales for Atlantis' Chinese, Korean and resident accounts. Additionally, she will be responsible for corporate and school group programs, and for special projects such as community fairs and trade shows.

A graduate of Arizona State University, Kasperbauer has a degree in international marketing and is working on a master's degree in travel industry management at Hawaii Pacific University. Before joining Atlantis, Kasperbauer was the marketing sales manager at Alupana Beach Club Marine Resort in Guam.

Offering Hawaii's only real submarines, Atlantis' three Hawaiian sites are found in Kona, Lahaina-Maui, and off world-famous Waikiki Beach, where two of the 46-passenger subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. Tickets can be purchased at Atlantis sales offices or by calling (800) 548-6262 or (808) 973-9811 in Honolulu.

DISCOVER HAWAII'S SECOND PARADISE
UNDER THE WAVES ABOARD ATLANTIS SUBMARINES

HONOLULU, HAWAII -- Deep, deep beneath the Hawaiian waves lies another paradise, an aquatic wonderland filled with colorful tropical fish and coral reefs thousands of years in age. Atlantis Submarines provide passage to this magical underwater world, allowing you to experience a fantastic subsea adventure without ever getting wet.

Aboard Atlantis, Hawaii visitors can descend up to 150 feet below the ocean's surface in the comfort and safety of an actual 46-passenger sub. The sleek 65-foot vessel moves gently above the Pacific Ocean's floor, where vistas from the 26 oversized viewports include sights of yawning moray eels and hundreds upon hundreds of multicolored fish.

The journey begins with a tour within a tour. Passengers board comfortable vessels for a scenic harbor cruise to the Atlantis dive site. An adventure in itself, the one-mile ride from world-famous Waikiki Beach aboard Hilton Hawaiian Village's Rainbow I catamaran boasts sweeping views of Diamond Head and the famed Waikiki coastline. Meanwhile, Maui vacationers traveling between December and May might sight migrating humpback whales during their 20-minute scenic ride to Atlantis' Lahaina dive site.

ATLANTIS -- KOREA

Then, the great white sub appears. Gracefully, it emerges from the ocean's depths, and the sub's previous passengers disembark. Their faces, filled with awe, give insight to those preparing for this mystical subsea adventure. Atlantis' crew provides a friendly greeting as new passengers climb down the hatch and find their seats.

After a brief description of the sub's safety features, the descent begins. Tiny bubbles cover the viewports and, when they clear, the ocean in all its vastness sets the scene from the 21-inch viewports and wide front viewing area. Dropping to 20 feet, passengers may sight a single jackfish or slender, stick-like trumpetfish. This is only a taste. The sub continues to depths of 50, 70, 90 feet and often far beyond. Here, at the ocean's floor, awaits a wondrous kaleidoscope of color, as swarms of tropical marine life swirl past a backdrop of swaying soft coral and a rainbow of reef formations.

Each of Atlantis' Hawaiian sites offers a completely different experience. In Waikiki, where two submarines operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village, passengers explore Atlantis Reef, a man-made reef found approximately one mile offshore. Reef highlights include "YO-257," a 174-foot World War II U.S. Navy tanker, two submerged airliners and several other structures designed in Japan for the specific purpose of attracting fish. One glance lets you know they're working.

ATLANTIS -- KOREA

Maui's fish population bursts with color and diversity, and the Atlantis tour allows firsthand views of the island's black coral in the reddish-brown color it maintains while alive and underwater. Kona is known for its abundant marine life and unusual collection of fish species. Of the fish seen in Hawaii, over 30 percent are not seen anywhere else on the planet; and off Kona, you CAN see many species that are rarely seen anywhere else in Hawaii.

Other attractions can offer you only a brief peek just below the ocean's surface -- glassbottom boats or snorkeling provide this shallow-water experience. But unless you are a diver or conduct scientific marine research, there isn't any other way to dive this far beneath the surface and explore the earth's last great frontier except aboard an actual Atlantis Submarine.

In addition to the Hawaiian sites in Kona, Maui and Waikiki, other Atlantis sites include Barbados, Grand Cayman, St. Thomas, Guam and Aruba.

ATLANTIS' "LIVING CLASSROOM" PROGRAM THRILLS STUDENTS ON AN UNDERSEA EDUCATIONAL EXPLORATION

Offered to both government and private schools, the Atlantis "Living Classroom Program" provides local children with complimentary seats aboard the battery-powered, 46-passenger submarine. To date, the Atlantis/Grand Cayman has hosted more than 400 children on its magical aquatic tour. Afterwards, students are asked to draw a picture or write a letter to Atlantis about their experience.

Atlantis Submarines is currently making plans to expand its "Living Classroom Program." The two-part learning experience would include having an Atlantis staff member visit the classrooms to give a brief presentation. Students and teachers will study the different types of tropical fish, ancient coral reefs and they will talk about the importance of respect for our oceans. The group would then take a submarine journey aboard Atlantis. In the near future, Atlantis will be meeting with teachers and students from several local schools to gain input on the "Living Classroom Program."

ATLANTIS IN ST. THOMAS CELEBRATES
FIVE YEARS OF DIVING TO THE OCEAN'S FLOOR

ST. THOMAS, UNITED STATES VIRGIN ISLANDS -- In 1987, a brand new idea in underwater adventure hit St. Thomas. Visitors and locals alike could now experience the intrigue of deep undersea exploration without the aid of a SCUBA tank.

Five years later, Atlantis/St. Thomas can celebrate a half decade of success, having introduced over 250,000 passengers to the unique marine environment found over 90 feet below the Caribbean waves. Featured in Time, National Geographic and on CNN, the 46-passenger St. Thomas sub has successfully completed more than 10,000 dives while maintaining an exemplary safety and efficiency record. Last year, the St. Thomas operation did not experience a single hour of down time.

"Atlantis' success stems from the fact that this is a one-of-a-kind experience," stated Pam Balash, marketing manager for the sub operation. "This is not a peek just below the water's surface. Atlantis is a deep-sea experience. Unless you are a diver or conduct scientific marine research, there isn't any other way to dive this far beneath the waves and explore the ocean's depths except aboard an actual Atlantis Submarine."

ATLANTIS SUBMARINES AND KONA HILTON RESORT INTRODUCE THE NEW HAWAIIAN LUAU AND SUBMARINE ADVENTURE DIVE PACKAGE

KONA, HAWAII -- Dive, dine and experience two of Kona's premier attractions -- it's all included in the new Submarine/Luau Adventure offered by Atlantis Submarines and Kona Hilton Resort.

A scenic boat cruise aboard the 60-foot Kalia leads guests along Kona's scenic coastline to the Atlantis dive site 10 minutes from shore. Then it's down the hatch and into the 46-passenger high-tech Atlantis Submarine for a one-hour aquatic adventure, traveling up to 100 feet below the waves. From oversized viewports visitors gaze into a world of multi-colored reef formations, swarms of tropical fish and curious marine creatures -- a world previously only seen by experienced SCUBA divers.

Then, it's back to shore for the Kona Hilton Resort's popular Luau and Polynesian Extravaganza. Greeted with festive cocktails and shell leis, guests immerse themselves in colorful island culture during the Polynesian Show and "all-you-can-eat" Hawaiian feast.

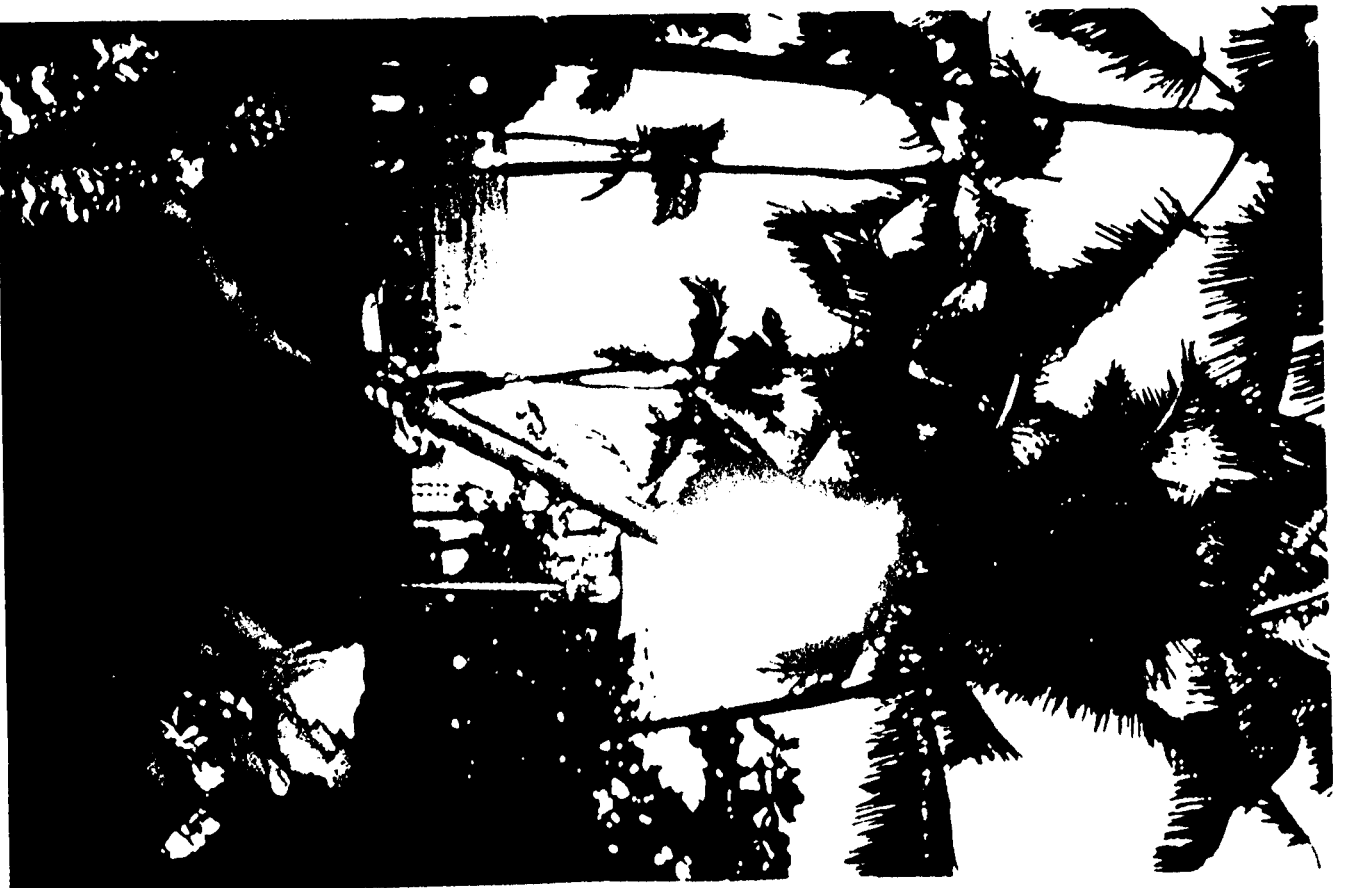

The combined package is available through December 31, 1992, and offers a 25 percent discount to visitors. Prices are $99 for adults and $39 for children. For more information, call the Atlantis ticket office at (808) 329-3177.

ATLANTIS PLANS WORLD'S LARGEST PASSENGER SUBMARINE AS PART OF MASSIVE HAWAIIAN EXPANSION PROGRAM

HONOLULU, HAWAII -- In a major move to expand its Hawaiian operations into the 21st century, Atlantis Submarines, Hawaii announced today that it will launch the world's largest passenger submersible into island waters in late 1993.

The new 64-passenger, 150-ton sub was designated by Rick Shafer, president of Atlantis Submarines Hawaii, L.P., as only one component in an expansion program dubbed "Project: Aloha 2000." According to Shafer, this plan to launch Atlantis into the 21st century represents a massive marketing and investment commitment made by Atlantis to its Hawaiian locations and the state's growth in tourism related businesses.

"The design and construction of the larger sub will be the first in a series of new product developments," said Shafer. "Additional Atlantis product and service enhancements will continue to support the company's growth and position as the leading innovator/operator in the submersible business."

ATLANTIS -- 64-PASSENGER SUB

Reaching 96 feet in length and 15 feet in width, the new sub will increase Hawaii's current fleet to five submarines and the daily passenger capacity to nearly 3,000 seats per day. These Atlantis Submarines, which dive as far as 150 feet below the ocean's surface, provide kamaainas and visitors alike with their only opportunity to dive aboard a real submarine. Although the exact site of the larger sub has yet to be determined, it has been established that it will operate out of one of the current island locations: Kona, Lahaina-Maui, or Waikiki's Hilton Hawaiian Village.

As the founder and leader of the passenger submersible industry, Atlantis recently entered the first phase of "Project: Aloha 2000" which applies the knowledge it has gained from operating subs globally for more than seven years. The greatly increased size of the new sub, which will be nearly 85 percent larger than the existing model, reflects not only increased capacity but also added spaciousness and comfort for those on board. From a design standpoint, it will appear more streamlined, high-tech and futuristic, and viewports will be greatly enlarged for a more panoramic experience.

Initial plans also call for a multi-language audio system and a video system connected to external cameras, which will offer passengers an even closer view of the area's diverse marine life.

"Atlantis is in a fortunate position to undertake this project," stated Shafer, "Not only do we have a strong relationship with Hawaii's travel industry, but as the industry leader, we are also able to draw from a strong international network of operations and experience."

Atlantis launched the world's first passenger submarine into the waters off Grand Cayman in 1985. Continually expanding its international base, Atlantis has grown to include not only Hawaii and Grand Cayman but also St. Thomas, Barbados, Aruba and Guam. To date, the worldwide fleet has carried more than 2 million passengers up to 150 feet below the waves on more than 65,000 dives, and plans for expansion include looking into sites in Saipan, the Bahamas, Caribbean and Mexico.

HONOLULU, HAWAII -- In late 1993, the largest passenger submersible in the world will be launched into Hawaiian waters. Spanning 96 feet in length (12 feet longer than a basketball court), the 64-passenger Atlantis Submarine will serve as a strategic element in a massive expansion program dubbed "Project: Aloha 2000."

Currently in its developmental phase, the 150-ton vessel will have a more futuristic design and high-tech appearance. Initial plans call for a multi-language audio system, a video system connected to external cameras, and greatly enlarged viewports, creating a more panoramic experience.

According to Rick Shafer, president of Atlantis Submarines Hawaii, L.P., the larger sub and the entire "Project: Aloha 2000" program represent a massive marketing and investment commitment made by Atlantis for the continued growth of its Hawaiian sites. The program, planned to expand Atlantis into the 21st century, consists of a series of new product developments designed to improve and enhance Atlantis' service in this market.

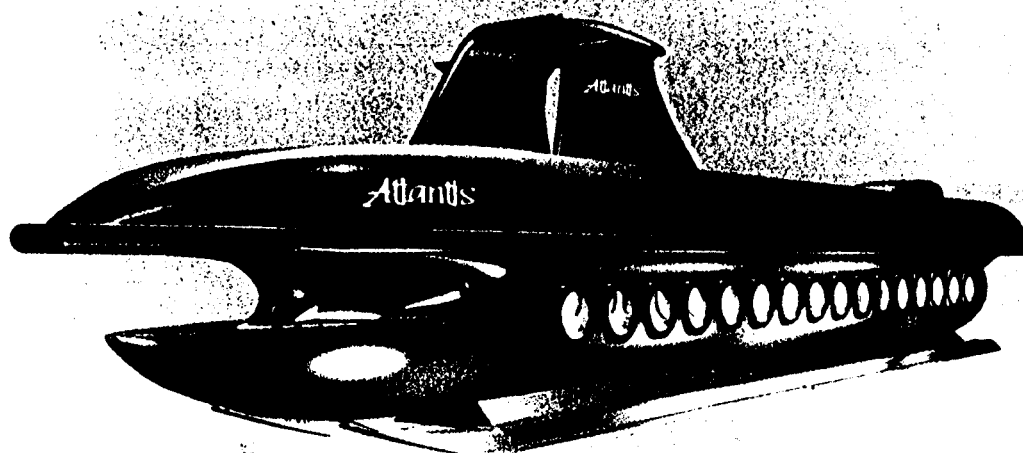

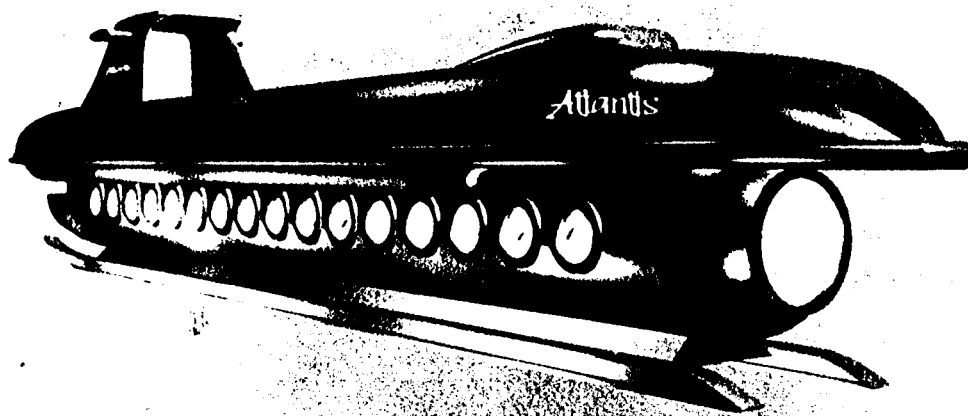

With the addition of the larger sub, Atlantis, operator of the only real passenger submarines in the state, will increase its current Hawaiian fleet to five subs and its daily passenger capacity to nearly 3,000 seats.

ATLANTIS SUBMARINES RELEASES NEW FULL-COLOR BROCHURE

HONOLULU, HAWAII -- Travelers who dream of living out fantasies shaped by "Hunt for Red October" and "The Abyss" can now explore the wonders the ocean world on Hawaii's only real submersibles in a new free brochure available by calling Atlantis Submarines' toll-free number, (800) 548-6262.

The full-color guide describes the adventure of diving as far as 150 feet below the waves aboard the 46-passenger subs found in Kona, Lahaina-Maui and Waikiki, where two of the 65-foot vessels operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. The brochure highlights unique features of each site, such as the sunken WWII Navy tanker and the remains of two submerged airliners spotted off Waikiki. Kona's giant barracudas and Maui's colorful natural coral gardens also receive special mention. Professional underwater photography reveals subsea panoramas seen from the subs' oversized viewports. Additionally, readers will find detailed maps and a statistics chart outlining important design and safety features.

Having carried more than 2 million passengers worldwide, Atlantis is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 96-foot model, which will carry 64 passengers per dive.

SANTA'S SLEIGH NOT EXPECTED IN GUAM --
REINDEER LEFT BEHIND AS ST. NICK OPTS
TO ARRIVE VIA ATLANTIS SUBMARINE

PITI, GUAM -- Rumor has it that Santa's sleigh may not make it to Guam. No need for local children to fret, however, as the Jolly Ol' Elf can always load his holiday cheer aboard the 46-passenger Atlantis Submarine.

Atlantis Submarines, which operates a nine-vessel international fleet, recently celebrated its 2 millionth passenger in Barbados, B.W.I. Guam has served as an Atlantis destination since 1988. In that time, the battery-powered, high-tech vessel has carried nearly 400,000 passengers on more than 12,500 dives as far as 150 feet below the waves.

In addition to Guam, Atlantis Submarines currently operates in St. Thomas; Aruba; Grand Cayman; Barbados; Maui and Kona, Hawaii; and Waikiki, where two 46-passenger subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. The Canadian company, based in Vancouver, British Columbia, is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 95-foot model, which will carry 64 passengers per dive.

ATLANTIS SUBMARINES INTERNATIONAL, INC.
CARRIES 2 MILLIONTH PASSENGER IN BARBADOS

BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOS, B.W.I. -- When Diane Nelson of Cambridge, Minnesota, left on her Thanksgiving holiday cruise of the Southern Caribbean, sinking below the waves was something she was hoping to avoid. Yet, her now-famous submergence as Atlantis Submarines' 2 millionth passenger worldwide is something she will always remember fondly.

During a 7-day holiday cruise aboard Princess Cruises' 70,000-ton Star Princess, Nelson purchased a very lucky ticket for a ride aboard Barbados' 28-passenger Atlantis Submarine. A tracking program implemented by Atlantis' eight global locations pinpointed Nelson as the eight-year-old company's 2 millionth passenger.

Before departing on their dive, Nelson and her family were honored at a ceremony aboard the Star Princess. Augusto Lagomarsini, the cruise ship's captain, presented Nelson with a $500 certificate for on-board goods and services, and Roseanne Myers, general manager for Atlantis/ Barbados, bestowed her with a special plaque. Other commemorative gifts were presented to the Nelsons and to all passengers aboard the historic excursion 150 feet below the waves.

The Atlantis ride in Barbados was just one adventure during their week-long Caribbean cruise. The Nelsons, along with the other 1,590 Star Princess passengers, also visited several other Southern Caribbean destinations such as Princess Bay on the island of Mayreau, St. Maarten and St. Thomas during their round-trip journey, which began and ended in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Sailing under a Liberian flag, Princess Cruises' 805-foot Star Princess boasts 735 staterooms and a host of on-board amenities.

Recognized as the leading shore excursion for the cruise ship industry, Atlantis' Barbados sub is one in a fleet of 9 subs worldwide. In addition to Grand Cayman's new 46-seat sub, 46-passenger vessels are also found in St. Thomas, Aruba, Guam, Lahaina-Maui, Kona and Waikiki, where two subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. Together this international fleet has made more than 85,500 dives with the Barbados' site alone carrying over 300,000 passengers on 15,000-plus dives. Atlantis is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 95-foot model that will carry 64 guests per dive.

ATLANTIS LAUNCHES SECOND DEEP-DIVING SUB IN GRAND CAYMAN
MINI-SUBS DIVE AS DEEP AS 900 FEET DOWN THE CAYMAN WALL

GEORGE TOWN, GRAND CAYMAN, B.W.I. -- Until last November, Atlantis Research Submersibles (ARS) in Grand Cayman operated the world's only deep-diving sub available to the general public. Now, Cayman is the world's only location operating two of these high-tech deep-sea vessels.

Diving as deep as 900 feet down the Cayman Wall, this one-hour underwater adventure requires no previous diving experience. The easily maneuverable crafts, known as Perry Class Submarines, hold two passengers and a highly skilled pilot, making for an incredibly personal experience.

Passengers aboard one of the ARS subs gaze out the 36-inch dome port as the sub descends well beyond maximum SCUBA depths (beyond 120 feet is not recommended for sport divers). Powerful floodlights illuminate the water as passengers explore the sheer face of the Cayman Wall and its diverse layers of life zones. From the bright, sunbathed reef, past the brilliant colors of the sponge belt on the vertical cliff to the dimmer portions of the wall, the sub reaches even farther into the haystack zone. This subsea area is frequented by porcelain corals; glass sponges; bizarre starfish; and stalked crinoids, an ancient member of the sea urchin family. Here, too, lies Kirk Pride, a wrecked freighter that sank to the ocean's floor in 1976.

GRAND CAYMAN -- DEEP-DIVING SUB

Totally intact, this 498-ton steel freighter is solidly wedged by several huge pinnacles on a shelf at a depth of 800 feet. Measuring 180 feet long with a 30-foot beam, the Kirk Pride was not found until 1986 when an ARS pilot happened upon it. Since that date, it has become one of the most popular dive sites for this incredible adventure into the deep, relatively unknown, recesses of the sea.

Because of the limited passenger capacity of these submersibles, early bookings are essential. The Atlantis Deep Dive costs $275 per person. As an added, but limited bonus, passengers going on the Deep Dive also receive a complimentary pass for a ride aboard the 46-passenger Atlantis XI, which dives to 150 feet (a $69 value).

In addition to the Grand Cayman site, 46-passenger Atlantis Submarines are found in St. Thomas, Aruba, Guam, Kona, Lahaina-Maui and Waikiki, where two subs operate out of Hilton Hawaiian Village. A 28-passenger vessel is found in Barbados. Together, this international fleet has made more than 85,000 dives carrying over 2 million passengers. Atlantis is currently in the developmental stages of building the world's largest passenger submarine, a 96-foot model that will carry 64 passengers per dive. Future plans include developing sites in Mexico and on the island of Nassau in the Bahamas.

ATLANTIS NAMES KANARA FEI BARBER AS SENIOR SALES MANAGER AT ITS MAUI LOCATION

MAUI, HAWAII -- Atlantis Submarines Hawaii, L.P. recently named Kanara Fei Barber as senior sales manager for its passenger submarine operation located in Maui, Hawaii.

In her new position Barber oversees sales and promotions for Atlantis with an emphasis on North American, Chinese, Korean and Japanese markets. She is also responsible for monitoring and interfacing with cruise ship blocks and is the liaison between Atlantis and cruise line personnel. Additionally, Barber promotes and organizes special projects for Atlantis in Maui's corporate market.

Barber began working with Atlantis Submarines in September 1991, where she held a Japanese/English narrator position aboard the company's 80-ton, battery-powered submersible in Maui, Hawaii. She then joined Atlantis' sales team as a sales representative in January 1992.

Barber graduated from the University of Hawaii with a degree in Asian studies.

ATLANTIS NAMES JEANINE G. TUJEEHUT AS SALES AND MARKETING DIRECTOR AT ITS ARUBA LOCATION

ORANJESTAD, ARUBA -- Atlantis Submarines recently named Jeanine G. Tujeehut as sales and marketing director of its passenger submarine operation in Oranjestad, Aruba.

In her new position, Tujeehut oversees sales, promotions and community relations projects for the 46-passenger, 80-ton submersible, which began operation in September, 1990. She is also responsible for monitoring and interfacing with cruise ship arrivals and is the liaison between Atlantis and cruise line personnel. Additionally, she continually maintains international contacts in the tourism market and promotes special, customized community programs and events.

A graduate of Florida International University, Tujeehut has a bachelor's degree in hospitality management. Before joining Atlantis, Tujeehut held the position of sales manager at the Holiday Inn Aruba Beach Resort & Casino.

Tickets for Atlantis Submarines can be purchased at its sales office located at Frankrijkstraat 9 in Oranjestad, by calling (800) 253-0493 or (297-8) 37077 in Aruba.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S WINNING TRAVEL AGENTS
AT WESTERN CANADA'S WINTER CARNIVAL

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. — Southern California travel agents recently explored the winter wonderland of Alberta and British Columbia during the Western Canada Winter Carnival. The moving trade show and marketplace celebrated the myriad of winter travel opportunities found within these two naturally spectacular provinces.

Coordinated by the Canadian Consulate General, Los Angeles, the four-day event was co-sponsored by Alberta Tourism, Parks & Recreation; Canadian Pacific Hotels & Resorts/Doubletree Hotels; Ski Banff/Lake Louise; Tourism British Columbia; and the Whistler Resort Association. The event, held exclusively in Doubletree Hotels, moved from Pasadena to Marina del Rey, then to San Diego and Orange. More than 20 Canadian tourism partners were represented at each location.

SKI THE ISLAND — CANADA'S TREASURE:
VANCOUVER ISLAND

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA — Skiing on an island in the Pacific? Vancouver Island in British Columbia, Canada, offers the ultimate vacation adventure for ski enthusiasts wanting to experience breathtaking scenery, mild climate and affordable downhill and cross-country ski rates.

Vancouver Island features world-class skiing at four unbeatable downhill areas. Mt. Washington and Forbidden Ski Resort are located in the Comox Valley which is three hours north of Victoria and one and one-half hours from Nanaimo (BC Ferries services both cities). Mt. Cain is located in the Nimpkish Valley and Mt. Arrowsmith is between Port Alberni and Parksville. Air connections are available out of Vancouver International Airport to all destinations.

Whichever way you travel to Mt. Washington, be prepared for steep slopes and great cruising terrain. It is the island's largest ski area and a favorite vacation spot for islanders and visitors alike. Modern and well-organized, this sophisticated resort boasts over 44 runs accessed by six chairlifts. At an elevation of 5,210 feet and a vertical drop of 1,575 feet, skiers can enjoy an additional 30 percent of intermediate terrain due to five new runs recently created on the mountain's east side. For cross-country skiers, the Mt. Washington Nordic Ski Center offers over 20 miles of groomed ski terrain including beautiful back-country trails through wide meadows and high alpine forests.

As Vancouver Island's second largest ski resort, Mt. Cain receives over 26 feet of snow each year and has served as host to three downhill races. At an elevation of 5,280 feet and a vertical drop of 1,500 feet, Mt. Cain features runs like "The Snake" and "Pete's Run," which are a challenge to even the most expert skier. Well-known for its magnificent mountain beauty, Mt. Arrowsmith is a skier's paradise. An excellent place for ski lessons, several ski school programs are available for children and adults who want to learn or brush up on their skiing technique. Mt. Arrowsmith also offers an equal mix of expert, intermediate and beginner runs which wind through breathtaking tree-lined and open-bowl trails.

Forbidden Ski Resort, home to Canada's last "no-holds-barred" downhill race, the Kandahar, has breathtaking views of the Strait of Georgia and the glacier-capped mountains of Strathcona Provincial Park. With over 15 runs accessed by a double chairlift, two T-bars and one rope-tow, the spacious lodge offers ski adventures for every experience level.

With the strong status of the U.S. dollar in Canada, skiing on Vancouver Island is an affordable vacation getaway. For more information or a free British Columbia Ski brochure, call toll-free (800) 663-6000.

BRITISH COLUMBIA OFFERS A WINTER
WONDERLAND OF OUTDOOR ACTIVITY

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA — Of course, British Columbia offers Super, Natural skiing, both downhill and cross-country. But that's only a peek at the range of activities to be found in this winter wonderland.

Pictured here, a winter enthusiast takes a step back in time, exploring British Columbia's backcountry with the aid of a team of Alaskan malamutes. The noiseless pace of dogsledding allows participants to experience the great outdoors while soaking in the scenic vistas experienced throughout the journey.

Snowshoeing, ice fishing, sleigh rides, skating — there's something for every age and interest level, whether it be relaxing over a steaming hot beverage in a quaint English-style pub or exploring the wintry backcountry via snowmobile. Anglers come to the province to spend time enjoying one of British Columbia's most popular winter sports — ice fishing. Others come for a vacation filled with family and memories of sledding, night skiing and hot chocolate around a blazing fire.

For information on winter and year-round vacations in British Columbia, call toll-free (800) 663-6000. Winter vacationers also can call this number to receive a free copy of the 64-page full-color "British Columbia Skiing" guide.

EXPERIENCE A SPECIAL BRAND OF CANADIAN HOSPITALITY AS BRITISH COLUMBIA HOSTS THE
SEVENTH ANNUAL CANADA SUMMER GAMES

KAMLOOPS, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA — Canada's premier amateur sporting event is coming to British Columbia this summer. As the historic city of Kamloops proudly celebrates its 100th birthday, it will also welcome over 4,000 of Canada's best young athletes and their coaches to the Seventh Annual Canada Summer Games running August 8 - 21, 1993.

This year the Canada Summer Games, which are held in alternating Provinces each year, will feature competitions in eighteen different sporting events ranging from bicycling to baseball.

There will be a few "firsts" in the 1993 Canada Games. This is the first Canada Summer Games to include physically challenged athletes. Over 60 disabled athletes will participate in scheduled events such as swimming and the 200 meter and 800 meter wheelchair races.

Additionally, the 1993 Games are the first to integrate native cultural participation. Activities planned include a powwow, rodeo, an authentic feast and traditional native sports. "Shinny" will be played, which is the original version of field hockey, as well as "earth ball," a game consisting of 100 players using their entire body to push a large, lightweight ball over the other team's goal line.

A NORTHERN VANCOUVER ISLAND ADVENTURE BEGINS ABOARD BC FERRIES

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA — Stretching north from the fishing town of Comox to the harbor village of Port Hardy, Vancouver Island's northeastern region is a wilderness lover's paradise, which can be easily accessed with BC Ferries.

To reach the northern Vancouver Island region, travelers can depart from BC Ferries' mainland Tsawwassen terminal, just south of Vancouver, or BC Ferries' Horseshoe Bay terminal, just north of Vancouver. Combined, both ports offer 16 daily sailings year-round to the mid-Vancouver Island city of Nanaimo. From Nanaimo, motorists can begin their Vancouver Island adventure by traveling north on Highway 19 toward Courtenay and Comox.

Travelers can also reach northern Vancouver Island by driving north from Vancouver through British Columbia's beautiful Sunshine Coast region. The Sunshine Coast route begins with a 45-minute BC Ferries' voyage from Horseshoe Bay to Langdale. From Langdale, motorists drive north through charming resort areas to Earls Cove, catching another ferry across Jervis Inlet to Saltery Bay, a 30-minute drive to Powell River.

Although the journey to Powell River can be made in a day, travelers are encouraged to break the trip into two days, spending a night en route and taking time to enjoy the beautiful landscapes and charming seaside hamlets of the Sunshine Coast. From Powell River, a 75-minute BC Ferry ride takes visitors 20 miles west across the Strait of Georgia to the Vancouver Island city of Comox.

Encompassing the neighboring cities of Courtenay and Comox, Comox Valley is rich with recreational and cultural diversity, offering visitors everything from skiing the slopes and meadows of Mt. Washington and exploring the deep pools and natural slides of nearby Nymph Falls, to visiting the nearby village of Cumberland, a turn-of-the-century coal mining town which once boasted one of the largest Asian populations north of San Francisco.

Heritage and modern influences meet in Courtenay, a city faithful to its farming and logging roots, but warm and hospitable to its growing number of year-round visitors. Courtenay's cultural life thrives with summer-stock theater, outdoor concerts, art festivals and galleries. The city also boasts the world's tallest vertical log cabin, now home to the Courtenay Museum.

Like Courtenay, the city of Comox is a bustling seaside community and a center for the rich farming areas within Comox Valley. During the summer months, visitors relax and swim in the shallows of Goose Spit Beach, or enjoy a variety of water sports, including wind surfing and water-skiing. Surrounded by stunning mountain ranges to the west and ocean views to the east, Comox is also replete with campsites, fishing spots and an 18-hole golf course. The city's charming Filberg Lodge welcomes visitors who stop by to leisurely wander its pathways through flower gardens and exhibits of local artisans.

Known for its salmon fishing, Campbell River, just north of Courtenay and Comox, offers both novice and experienced fishermen a chance to try their luck casting into Discovery Passage from the town's 160-foot-long pier. In addition, Campbell River offers both hikers and scuba divers an opportunity to discover lush wooded trails and the abundance of local marine life. Travelers can also visit nearby gold and copper mines, play a round of golf on one of three local links, or roam through an outdoor gallery of giant wood-carved totem poles.

Campbell River is the primary access point to Strathcona Park, B.C.'s oldest provincial park. With six of Vancouver Island's seven highest peaks within the 571,000-acre park, popular activities include hiking, backpacking, wilderness camping, alpine and cross-country skiing, ski mountaineering, and boating and canoeing on 20-mile long Buttle Lake.

A 10-minute ferry trip from Campbell River across Discovery Passage lands visitors on Quadra Island. Known mostly for its sport fishing, the island also features scenic coastal walking and horseback riding trails. In addition, those willing to hike Chinese Mountain, Quadra Island's highest peak, are rewarded with panoramic views of neighboring islands and distant mountain ranges.

Nearly 150 miles north of Campbell River lies the quiet forest community of Port McNeill, an ideal place for campers who desire wilderness surroundings and prime fishing opportunities.

On Cormorant Island, just north of Port McNeill, the town of Alert Bay is a stunning tribute to the region's native ancestry. Stately totem poles depicting Kwakiutl legends dot the landscape and are only shadowed by the giant cedars throughout the town. Aside from an abundance of native crafts and artwork, Alert Bay and the town of Sointula, located on nearby Malcolm Island, boast one of the world's premiere whale watching areas, allowing visitors to view migrating whales in their natural habitat.

EXTENSIVE ROUTES AND ONGOING FLEET AND SERVICE IMPROVEMENTS MAKE BC FERRIES A WORLD LEADER

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA — Operating a fleet of more than 40 vessels serving 42 ports, BC Ferries continues to be one of the world's largest ferry transportation systems and one of the best ways to enjoy British Columbia's spectacular coastal region.

In 1991, BC Ferries, the western Canadian province's marine transportation link, carried over 20 million passengers and nearly eight million vehicles, an increase of more than half a million passengers ferried during the previous year.

BC Ferries was established by British Columbia's provincial government on June 15, 1960. In the three decades since, a combination of B.C.'s trademark natural scenery, the exciting, international flavor of Vancouver and Victoria, and the small-town hospitality and diversity of the region's people have attributed to the increasing popularity of Canada's westernmost province and the ferry system which serves it.

BC Ferries' popular 15-hour summer sailings through British Columbia's legendary 274-mile Inside Passage ocean corridor continue to attract nature lovers and sightseers from around the world. As well, the ferry system takes passengers and their vehicles to British Columbia's Sunshine Coast, the northern and southern Gulf Islands, and the rugged northern frontiers of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The province's charming capital city of Victoria, coupled with the mild year-round climate and wide variety of attractions Vancouver Island offers, has also continually challenged BC Ferries to accommodate the growing transportation demands between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

Next summer, BC Ferries will debut the first of its two new "S" Class ferries. Currently under construction in Vancouver, the new "S" Class vessels are the largest ships to be built in British Columbia and the largest vessels of their class in the world. The new super ferries will each carry 470 vehicles and up to 2,100 passengers. This represents a 27 percent increase in vehicle capacity and a 54 percent increase in passenger capacity over the largest vessels in BC Ferries' present fleet.

While a wide variety of expansion and improvement projects have made ferry terminals more efficient for motorists and more passenger-friendly for walk-on travelers, BC Ferries has also taken significant steps to improve the efficiency and resourcefulness of its vessels.

Since 1990, BC Ferries' "New Wave" environmental programs have worked to reduce the amount of trash generated by packaged foods and throwaway cups. Expanded use of environmentally-friendly cleaning supplies, biodegradable paper products, water-based emulsion paints, and upgraded on-board sewage treatment plants is also contributing to preserve British Columbia's precious coastal environment.

Updated schedules or additional information on any of BC Ferries' routes are available by calling BC Ferries at (604) 386-3431; or by writing BC Ferries, 1112 Fort St., Dept. L&L, Victoria, British Columbia, Canada V8V 4V2.

BC FERRIES' EXPANSION PROJECT PREMIERS
FIRST "S" CLASS SUPER FERRY IN 1993

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA — As part of BC Ferries' ongoing fleet and ferry terminal expansion and improvement program, this summer British Columbia's main coastal transportation link will introduce its first "S" Class ferry on the popular Vancouver (Tsawwassen) - Victoria (Swartz Bay) route.

Built to accommodate the increasing number of visitors and commuters traveling between Vancouver on the mainland and Vancouver Island, the new "S" Class ferry is the largest vessel ever constructed in British Columbia shipyards and among the largest vessels of its class in the world. The "S" Class ferry will accommodate up to 470 cars and 2,100 passengers. This represents a 27 percent increase in vehicle capacity and a 54 percent increase in passenger capacity over the largest vessel currently operating in BC Ferries' fleet of 40 ships.

Spanning 550 feet in length, the ferry will also feature the newest in state-of-the-art electronic controls, monitoring systems and integrated navigational components.

BC Ferries' new ferry is the first of two "S" Class vessels being built through a cooperative effort by Integrated Ferry Constructors Ltd. (IFC), which is acting as prime contractor of the project. IFC subcontracted the construction of the vessel and has enlisted the expertise of three BC shipyards. More than 700 workers and 260 suppliers from all over Western Canada are participating in the project. The second "S" Class ferry is slated to go into service in the summer of 1994.

For more information about BC Ferries' new "S" Class ferries, or for free brochures and schedules for any of BC Ferries' 24 routes, call (604) 386-3431; or write BC Ferries, 1112 Fort Street, Dept. L&L, Victoria, British Columbia, Canada V8V 4V2.

BC FERRIES' FREE '93 INSIDE PASSAGE BROCHURE
PROVIDES TRAVELERS WITH UPDATED INFORMATION ON SAILING BRITISH COLUMBIA'S FAMED INLAND WATERWAY

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA — BC Ferries' free, full-color '93 Inside Passage brochure details one of the most exciting and economical ways to experience the wonder of British Columbia's breathtaking Inside Passage.

Navigating the same inland waterways once traveled by the native Haida, BC Ferries' flagship vessel, Queen of the North, guides travelers on a 274-mile voyage through British Columbia's famed inland ocean corridor and some of Western Canada's most scenic mountain wilderness.

Accommodating up to 800 passengers and 157 vehicles, the Queen of the North takes advantage of the region's extended summertime daylight hours, giving travelers uncompromising views of the region's impressive coastal landscapes during its one-way 15-hour sailings.

From May 25 through September 29, the Queen of the North will sail on alternate days between Port Hardy, located on the northern tip of Vancouver Island, and Prince Rupert, the ship's northern terminus, just south of the Alaska border. The ship departs everyday at 7:30 a.m. and arrives at the opposite terminal at 10:30 p.m.

BC FERRIES' '93 INSIDE PASSAGE BROCHURE NOW AVAILABLE

Providing travelers with comfort and a wide variety of amenities, the Queen of the North features a full buffet with delicious foods suited for all tastes, a licensed lounge with live entertainment, a newsstand and souvenir shop, and a children's playroom and video arcade.

Passengers can take in the region's pristine panoramic views from either the ship's sundecks or interior lounges. Those desiring added convenience and privacy can rent private dayrooms, and overnight cabins are available for round-trip passengers.

From Prince Rupert, travelers and motorists can either sail on the Queen of the North back to Port Hardy the following morning, or explore Western Canada's vast wilderness interior via Highway 16 or railway service to Vancouver. To provide ample time to enjoy British Columbia's beautiful interior, travelers with cars, campers or motorhomes should allow at least four days to drive the 1,000 miles from Prince Rupert back to Vancouver.

Travelers wishing to extend their Inside Passage adventure can embark on an additional 416-mile voyage through Alaska's Inside Passage via the Alaska Marine Highway ferry system. However, reservations for the Alaska ferry service, as well as hotel accommodations in Prince Rupert or Port Hardy and all connecting rail or motorcoach service, must be booked well in advance through their respective reservation bureaus.

Sample one-way fares for BC Ferries' Inside Passage voyage start at approximately $73, $31 for children ages 5 - 11. Children under 5 years old sail free. Vehicle fares begin at roughly $150. Dayroom rentals range from $20 to $40, and overnight cabins for return-trip passengers begin at $42. (All of the above fares are quoted in U.S. dollars, based on a 15 percent currency exchange rate.)

BC Ferries' '93 Inside Passage brochure comes with sailing schedules and detailed information on booking and transporting all types of vehicles (including campers, RVs and large motorhomes).

To receive a free copy of the '93 Inside Passage brochure, book an Inside Passage voyage or for additional information regarding any of BC Ferries' routes and services, call (604) 386-3431; or write BC Ferries, 1112 Fort St., Dept. L&L, Victoria, B.C., Canada, V8V 4V2.

Inside Passage reservations can also be made by faxing BC Ferries at (604) 381-5452; calling BC Ferries in Vancouver, B.C. at (604) 669-1211; or contacting your local travel agent.

NEWS RELEASE

FOR THE THIRD CONSECUTIVE YEAR, ROCKY MOUNTAINEER RAILTOURS ENDS ITS SEASON WITH AN INCREASE IN RIDERSHIP

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA -- Having just completed its 1992 season, Rocky Mountaineer Railtours recently announced an increase in ridership for the third consecutive year.

The Great Canadian Railtour Company, owner and operator of Rocky Mountaineer Railtours, 1992 passenger count shows nearly 20,500 travelers rode the two-day railtour during this past season, which ran from May to October. This marked a 20 percent increase over 1991's ridership of 17,000 passengers.

"Considering the global business and tourism environment, we are extremely pleased with the upward trend in ridership we have experienced since 1990 when we first began operating," stated Peter Armstrong, president of The Great Canadian Railtour Company. "In the beginning, few people realized train travel was available in Western Canada. Today's numbers show that we have overcome that obstacle, and based on our marketing research, we expect this substantial growth to continue into the 1993 season and over the next few years."

Armstrong attributes the tour's growth to word-of-mouth advertising and favorable media exposure from publications around the world. In 1992 alone, USA Today, The New York Times, Westways Magazine and newspapers from across the United States featured Rocky Mountaineer Railtours in their publications. Additionally, the two-day railtour appears in International Railway Traveler's list of the world's twenty top rail experiences.

"Combine this positive publicity with the fact that over 98 percent of our passengers say they would recommend the trip to their friends, and you can see why Rocky Mountaineer Railtours has continually surpassed itself in ridership," said Armstrong.

Eastbound or westbound, this two-day railtour connects the cosmopolitan city of Vancouver with the resort areas of Jasper and Banff, and the stampede city of Calgary, Alberta. Accommodations for the night between the two legs of the tour are found in the historic town of Kamloops, British Columbia.

Rocky Mountaineer Railtours, known as "the most spectacular train trip in the world," will begin its 1993 season Sunday, May 23, and will make 60 departures between that date and Thursday, Oct. 7, 1993. ROCKY MOUNTAINEER RAILTOURS '93 BROCHURE FEATURES EXPANDED TOUR OPTIONS

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA -- Rocky Mountaineer Railtours' new 1993 brochure details the panoramic wonder of exploring Western Canada's ever-changing landscape by rail. This year, in addition to the two-day, all-daylight tour between Vancouver and Jasper or Vancouver and Banff/Calgary, Californians will find a special package ideally created for those quick vacation getaways.

Specially designed for the California market, the Great Canadian Train Getaway is an affordable, convenient way to explore the majesty of the Canadian Rockies. The all-inclusive, five-day package features Canadian Airlines flights from either Los Angeles or San Francisco, hotel accommodations, and a Rocky Mountaineer Railtour from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Calgary, Alberta. Says Wade Harper, manager of leisure marketing for Canadian Airlines, "We recognize the trend in tourism is toward intermodal travel where passengers want maximum flexibility and may opt for planes, trains and cruise ships, all within one vacation. We view our partnership with Rocky Mountaineer Railtours as a terrific addition to our own travel network."

For those wanting a longer vacation, the tour packages vary in length from three to 12 days and feature the two-day railtour as a centerpiece. The packages include transfers, lodging and sightseeing side trips at Rocky Mountaineer destination points of Vancouver, Banff, Jasper, and Calgary, as well as Victoria and Edmonton. For added flexibility, clients can also purchase city stopovers at any of the destination points.

Eastbound or westbound, Rocky Mountaineer's two-day railtour includes overnight accommodation in Kamloops, British Columbia, as well as breakfast and lunch on-board, complimentary snacks and non-alcoholic beverages, and transfers to and from the Kamloops hotel. Route commentary is provided by on-board staff.

Rocky Mountaineer Railtours' 1993 schedule runs May 23 through October 7, with 60 departures being offered. Those interested in obtaining a brochure, more information or making a reservation may call (800) 665-7245 or contact their travel agent.

Guna Bite Dickson
Travel Editor
NEW YORK DAILY NEWS
220 East 42nd Street
New York, NY 10017

Dear Guna:

Please find enclosed a press kit for Royal Sealink Express (RSE) and Nanaimo Express, two high-speed passenger ferry services; which are setting a new standard for ferry travel in British Columbia's scenic coastal region.

Complementing B.C.'s extensive network of automobile transport ferries, Royal Sealink Express (RSE) and Nanaimo Express services now offer travelers without vehicles a new, carefree way to travel directly between mainland Vancouver and the Vancouver Island cities of Victoria and Nanaimo.

At speeds of up to 45 mph, the Royal Sealink Express' "Flying Cat" twin-hull catamarans whisk passengers from downtown Vancouver's SeaBus/SkyTrain terminal to the foot of Victoria's legendary Empress Hotel in just two-and-a-half hours. The similar Nanaimo Express operation offers downtown-to-downtown service between Vancouver and the mid-Vancouver Island city of Nanaimo in just 75 minutes.

Leaving behind the hassles of driving or catching connecting ferry terminal-to-downtown transportation, "Flying Cat" passengers relax in first-class comfort, enjoying "in-flight" video entertainment or listening to music on their personal multi-channel music system. The spacious climate-controlled vessels also feature an upper and lower food galley/newsstand, telephones and fax service -- even special play areas for children and work areas for business travelers. All this at a fraction of the cost of flying.

Guna, I encourage you to review the enclosed materials on these two new fast-ferry services. If I can provide you with any additional information or complimentary passes, please don't hesitate to call me at (714) 493-7988.

Regards,

Arley Baker
