Alwaleed Philanthropies joins UN Women's groundbreaking global initiative to close gender data gaps

[New York, 24 September] - Alwaleed Philanthropies today joined UN Women's groundbreaking public-private initiative, "Making Every Woman and Girl Count," which contributes to strengthening the monitoring and implementation of data on gender equality around the world. Through better production and use of data that record the realities of women and men, girls and boys, this flagship initiative supports a more timely and efficient implementation of the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), a universal roadmap adopted by world leaders in 2015 to achieve sustainable development by 2030.

What gets measured gets prioritized and what gets prioritized gets done. Statistics showing the differences in achievements between men and women and girls and boys – commonly referred to as gender statistics - have been marginalized in data production and usage. Today, less than a third of the data needed for monitoring the gender-specific commitments in the SDGs is currently available, with six of the SDGs having no indicators with explicit mentions of women and girls. The lack of timely and regular gender data hampers adequate monitoring and risks the loss of significant gains in terms of global commitments.

Launched in 2016, Making Every Woman and Girl Count aims to address this challenge by enabling a radical shift in the production, availability, accessibility and use of quality gender-relevant data and statistics.

By announcing a $2.5 million-dollar investment, Alwaleed Philanthropies' Secretary General, Her Royal Highness Princess Lamia bint Majed Al Saud, joins a committed group of gender data champions currently supporting the programme including the governments of Australia, Ireland, Mexico, the United Kingdom and the United States and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

Her Royal Highness Princess Lamia bint Majed Al Saud, Secretary General of Alwaleed Philanthropies said: "I am delighted to join this impressive group of global champions on gender data and we look forward to contributing to UN Women's Making Every Woman and Girl Count programme. Our new partnership means this exemplary initiative will help bring meaningful change to how we make and measure progress in advancing the rights of women and girls. At Alwaleed Philanthropies, we strongly believe that it is only through strong and effective collaboration, that we can build a more tolerant, prosperous, and accepting world."

Announcing the partnership, UN Women Executive Director Phumzile Mlambo-Ngcuka said: "It is unacceptable that a lack of data is often used as a pretext for lack of action. Making Every Woman and Girl Count provides a critical multi-stakeholder platform to ensure that all women and girls are counted and visible, so that there is no excuse for inaction. We are delighted that Alwaleed Philanthropies has decided to join in this urgent and important endeavor."

The five-year long UN Women programme provides support to 12 pathfinder countries to improve the production and use of gender statistics to monitor the implementation of gender equality commitments in the 2030 Agenda. Adequate monitoring frameworks will in turn inform policies and programmes that can spur meaningful and lasting changes in the lives of women and girls everywhere.

MEDIA ADVISORY
Friday, 27 April 2018

Education Above All Foundation and global leaders to mark milestone towards enrolling 10 million out of school children in quality primary education

WHAT: Education Above All Foundation (EAA) and its program Educate A Child (EAC) are bringing together development and education leaders to mark a major milestone – securing the final commitments needed to enroll 10 million hard to reach children in quality education. EAC has partnered with 42 organizations across 50 countries to reach children from the most marginalized communities across Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, in a concerted effort to enable 10 million out of school children to participate in primary education.

In addition to recognizing the achievement made, the event – co-organized with UNICEF – aims to shine a light on the global education crisis and the remaining work needed to provide every child a quality education. Key note speeches, a panel discussion, and an exhibition with augmented reality applications will take place at the event.

WHO:

- Her Highness Sheikha Moza bint Nasser, Founder and Chairperson of Education Above All Foundation and UN SDG Advocate
- United Nations Secretary-General, António Guterres
- President of Ghana and co-chair of Sustainable Development Goals Advocates, H. E. Nana Akufo-Addo
- UNICEF Executive Director, Henrietta H. Fore
- Founder, President and CEO of buildOn, Jim Ziolkowski

WHEN: 18:15 ET, 27 April 2018.

WHERE: The New York Public Library, New York City.

WHY: Globally, nearly quarter of a billion children and youth are missing out on education, 63 million of them are of primary school age.<sup>1</sup> International organizations, NGOs, and governments must work together to prioritize education so that every child can be reached. Every child must be given the chance to not only survive, but to thrive and reach their full potential.

About Educate A Child (EAC)

Launched in 2012, EAC aims to trigger significant breakthroughs in the provision of quality primary education to the 63 million children who currently have no access to schooling. Through EAC-supported programming, children overcome barriers to educational access and retention. With the overall goal of successfully completing an entire cycle of quality primary education, EAC strives to improve both individual and social outcomes for these children. For more information, visit www.educateachild.org

UNICEF

UNICEF works in some of the world's toughest places, to reach the world's most disadvantaged children. Across 190 countries and territories, we work for every child, everywhere, to build a better world for everyone.
