Scholz warns Moscow of 'wide-reaching' consequences, stays silent on Nord Stream 2

by Asami Terajima
Volodymyr Zelensky warned German Chancellor Olaf Scholz that Russia was wielding its Nord Stream 2 gas geopolitical weapon” to threaten energy security in Europe.

German relations with the controversial gas pipeline bypassing Ukraine have been a growing irritant in Washington and Kyiv.

Ukraine shared disagreements over security threats from Nord Stream 2,” said Zelensky at a joint news conference following his talks with Scholz in Kyiv on Feb. 14.

Scholz stayed vague on possible sanctions against Nord Stream 2, instead focusing on the Minsk agreements, Zelensky agreed to present a plan to introduce “special status” for Donbas, occupied by Russia since 2014.
Scholz warns Moscow of ‘wide-reaching’ consequences, stays silent on Nord Stream 2 an chancellor’s first meeting with Zelensky came amid mounting tensions over a possible further on of Ukraine. Russia has massed around 140,000 troops around Ukraine and in the Russian-occupied aine in recent weeks.

Officials have voiced their concern over Berlin’s light response to Kremlin’s ongoing military build-up.

been facing criticism in Ukraine and abroad for refusing to supply defensive weapons to Kyiv and taking t line on sanctions against Russia. The country has also been under fire for supporting the Nord Stream ich many see as yet another political tool in the hands of Russian President Vladimir Putin.

We use cookies to ensure that we give you the best experience on our website. If you continue to use this site we will assume that you are happy with it.
Scholz warned Moscow of “wide-reaching” consequences, stayed silent on Nord Stream 2

Scholz said that Germany has been Ukraine’s largest financial donor over the past eight years and will provide assistance. In addition to the $2 billion already invested in Ukraine, the chancellor announced a $70 million for Ukraine to become more resilient to what he called “foreign influences.”

“National and territorial integrity of Ukraine is not negotiable,” Scholz said. “We expect Russia to take clear action.”

Scholz refrained from disclosing more details about the sanctions that Germany would impose or Stream 2 would be blocked should Russia ramp up military aggression towards Ukraine. He said Berlin is preparing a package of sanctions with its Western allies.

As Kremlin-owned Gazprom’s largest foreign customer, importing more than 55 percent of its gas from Russia, Berlin made clear to Moscow next where he will meet Putin on Feb. 15. If Washington’s fears of an imminent attack escalated, Scholz could be the last Western leader to get the chance, in person, to persuade Putin against a large-scale attack on Ukraine.

Scholz said that Germany and its allies were ready for serious dialogue with Russia, though he added that it was very important to have direct negotiations between Kyiv and Moscow, something that Zelensky has so far refused to undertake.

Over 20 embassies have urged their citizens to immediately leave the country following the White House’s warnings that Russia could mount a major military assault on Ukraine “at any moment.”

Kyiv remains open for top-level diplomatic visits, with Italian Foreign Minister Luigi Di Maio set to visit on Feb. 12, while U.K. Foreign Secretary Liz Truss is expected in Ukraine on Feb. 17.

Author: Asami Terajima

Asami Terajima is a staff writer at the Kyiv Independent. She worked as a business reporter for the Kyiv Post until November 2021.

We use cookies to ensure that we give you the best experience on our website. If you continue to use this site we will assume that you are happy with it.

This material is distributed by Yorktown Solutions, LLC on behalf of the All-Ukrainian Industry Association “Federation of Employers of the Oil and Gas Industry.” Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, D.C.