Today the Prime Minister spoke to President Vucic of Serbia about the situation in Ukraine.

Both the Prime Minister and President Vucic reaffirmed their unwavering support for Ukraine's territorial integrity, and the Prime Minister praised Serbia's decision to condemn Putin's war in the historic United Nations General Assembly vote earlier this week.

The UK would continue to support Serbia's efforts to promote stability in the wider region, the Prime Minister added.

The leaders agreed to continue to work together on a range of issues, including across the energy sector.

President Vucic thanked the Prime Minister for the UK's leading role during this time of crisis.

BELGRADE - Serbia is committed to respect of international public law, including respect of the territorial integrity of Ukraine and other internationally recognised states, Serbian President Aleksandar Vucic said during a conversation with Ukrainian Ambassador to Belgrade Oleksandr Aleksandrovyeh on Friday.

Vucic informed the ambassador of the positions of the Serbian government and the National Security Council, the presidential press office said in a statement.

Vucic said Serbia was prepared to provide all kinds of humanitarian aid to the endangered population of Ukraine.

He also said Serbia was ready to take in civilian refugees, and offered the best possible conditions and hotel accommodation to them, as well as full rights to residence and work permits in line with EU rules and at an even higher level, for which Alexandrovyeh thanked him, the statement also said.
