Good morning Ben,

I am working on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia. In recognition of Earth Day, I wanted to highlight several interesting initiatives from Saudi Arabia in their effort to build a greener tomorrow.

I am writing to see if you would like to interview Fahad Nazer, spokesperson for the Saudi Embassy, who recently guest lectured a class at Drake University focusing on climate change. He can speak to his guest lecture and on several other topics including the Kingdom's efforts in sustainability and Saudi Arabia's goal to generate 50 percent of their energy from renewable sources by 2030.

If you are interested in setting up an interview or would like additional information, please reach out.

Thank you,

Brooke Miller
