

Tweet

Afghan-US Democratic Peace and...

@Afghan_US_DPPC

Good analysis regarding the USG recognition of the #Taliban...one caveat tho... #panjshirprovince is not defeated and the Taliban do not have full control of several northern provinces

Scott R. Anderson @S_R_Anders · 3d

This is almost certainly correct. Mostly because we are a very nervous bunch.

That and this kind of reads like the Secretary of State just recognized the Taliban as Afgh...

Show this thread7:32 PM · 9/14/21 · Twitter for iPhone

2 Likes

Tweet your reply

Tweet

Afghan-US Democratic Peace and...
@Afghan_US_DPPC

As the darkness of the #Taliban descends over #Afghanistan, the Afghan people need European support and leadership from friends like @radeksikorski

Radek Sikorski MEP @radeksikor... · 3d

Lesson from the fiasco in Afghanistan: We must get serious about European defence.
@Europarl\_EN @EPPGroup

12:54 PM · 9/14/21 · Twitter for iPhone

2 Likes

Tweet your reply

Tweet

Afghan-US Democratic Peace and...

@Afghan_US_DPPC

thedppc.org

DPPC Statement about the 20th Anniversary of 9/11 Attacks

3:08 PM · 9/11/21 · Twitter for iPhone

1 Retweet 1 Like

Tweet your reply

The DPPC

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 11 at 2:45 PM ·

DPPC Statement about the 20th Anniversary of 9/11 Attacks

Twenty years ago on this day, the United States was attacked by al-Qaeda terrorists whom the Taliban gave safe harbor to in Afghanistan. The attack had many profound changes on life in America and even more so in Afghanistan. For America, it meant serving justice to the perpetrators of the attack and their supporters. For Afghanistan, a failed state in 2001, the U.S. intervention meant helping the country to become a safe, free, and stabilized nation. Washington and its allies' mission in Afghanistan witnessed significant progress on many fronts. An entire generation of Afghans experienced freedom, democracy, and prosperity for the first time. Afghans were able to vote, girls could go to school, and a vibrant civil society and independent media flourished. Afghanistan was improving in every single metric of human development: human rights, women's rights, life expectancy, and literacy.

Although the US mission in Afghanistan brought many positive changes, the mission ended abruptly and in such a way that nearly all of the positive changes were rolled back overnight by the Taliban. America and its allies were right to go to Afghanistan in 2001. They were right to stay and pave the way for peace, freedom, and democracy in the country. They were equally right that they should at some point leave and let Afghans take their country's future into their own hands. But the manner, timing, and method of the withdrawal were misguided, hasty, and poorly executed. As we commemorate 9/11 this year, many American veterans and their families, as well as Afghans, wonder what all the sacrifices in blood and treasure over the last two decades accomplished when the same Taliban is back in power and all the progress in the country is being reversed. What's more, is that America is no longer safer or same Taliban is back in power and all the progress in the country is being reversed. What's more, is that America is no longer safer or more secure from the threats of terrorism than it was in 2001. We should not and cannot simply afford to spurn the sacrifices of the U.S. troops by abandoning Afghanistan.

The post-2001 generation of Afghans, who comprise more than 65 percent of the population, have never lived or experienced the tyranny of the Taliban. The ongoing mass protests against Taliban rule by young Afghan women and men across the country is a symbol of the type of profound societal change that America and its allies helped to create in Afghanistan. The values of freedom, democracy, and human rights resonate with many Afghans. Indeed, I founded the DPPC in 2020 so that Americans could learn what their sacrifice, their blood, and treasure, had done for my people. Even after the 20-year American military presence has ended in Afghanistan, the U.S. and its partners can still help Afghans secure a better future.

First, the world's democracies should not recognize the Taliban regime. All sanctions should be maintained and even expanded so that the regime is isolated politically. Second, those political and military figures who resist the Taliban, particularly the National Resistance Front (NRF) of Afghanistan led by Ahmad Massoud, should be supported. The NRF is leading a heroic fight against the Taliban in the Panjshir Province and other parts of northern Afghanistan. Third, there is a strong need for the creation of an autonomous zone or a safe zone in the north of Afghanistan. A place where all Afghans can live without fear of Taliban violence. If those who oppose Taliban rule have equal opportunities and are allowed to embrace values such as human rights, women's rights, democracy, and free speech, they will not flee Afghanistan. This will not only help stem the tide of migration from the country but would also help monitor and check terrorism threats facing the west from Taliban-controlled areas.

Two decades after 9/11 and the end of America's longest war, the U.S. must continue NSD/FAR Commitment to prevent terrorist groups from

Edit Follow

Promote

تسورسی و ارتقای بین‌المللی سید، از سازمان تروریستی... این...
به مهار کردن موج مهاجرت از کشور کمک می‌کند بلکه بر نظارت و بررسی روی
تهدیدات تروریستی برخاسته از مناطق تحت کنترل طالبان متوجه به جانب غرب
نیز کمک می‌نماید.

دو دهه پس از حادثه ۱۱ سپتامبر و پایان طولانی‌ترین جنگ آمریکا، ایالات متحده
باید به تعهد خویش برای جلوگیری از فعالیت آزادانه گروه‌های تروریستی در
افغانستان ادامه داده و افغان‌ها را در مبارزه با این تروریست‌ها و در برابر حکومت
استبدادی‌شان کمک نماید.

مارتین امین رحمانی
رییس اجرایی

1,194
People Reached

73
Engagements

Boost Post

45

3 Comments 2 Shares

Like

Comment

Share

Edit Follow

Promote

Search and More icons

The DPPC

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 13 at 10:16 AM

On the heels of the 9/11 anniversary, DPPC Advisory Board Member Naheed Farid tells BBC News that she continues the fight for Afghanistan and stands for the freedom and rights of Afghan women. Ms. Farid says if she didn't leave Kabul the Taliban would have killed her and that would discourage many other women who stand up to demand their rights.

خانم ناهید فرید عضو هیئت مشورتی DPPC در آستانه سالگرد یازدهم سپتامبر، به بی بی سی میگوید که او به مبارزه خود بخاطر افغانستان ادامه... See More

BBC.COM

'The Taliban would've killed me if they found me'

Naheed Farid says she left Afghanistan over fears the Taliban co...

1,953

People Reached

167

Engagements

Boost Post

69

Received by NSD/FARA Registration Unit 09/27/2021 12:26:02 PM

Ferdous

Edit Follow

Promote

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 13 at 3:01 PM ·

Afghan women have come a long way since the Taliban were last in power. The Taliban now must deal with the reality of a much more informed and open Afghan society with a vibrant young generation who are committed to fight for their rights and freedom.

"We decided to protest to demand our basic rights: the right to education, to work, and political participation. We want the Taliban to know that they cannot eliminate us from society."

See More ... زنان افغان از زمان حاکمیت بار نخست طالبا...

HRW.ORG

Afghan Women Protest Against Taliban Restrictions

On September 4, around 100 women gathered in front of the pre...

822

People Reached

63

Engagements

Boost Post

42

1 Share

Edit Follow

Promote

The DPPC

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 14 at 12:03 PM

Former Defense Secretary Leon Panetta says the Taliban has not changed since they were last in charge, warning that the U.S. should be prepared for future attacks as the militant group is not reliable.

"It would be wise for the United States and the rest of the world not to trust the Taliban in terms of their work."

لئون پانیتا وزیر دفاع اسبق ایالات متحده امریکا می گوید که طالبان از زمان بار اول حاکمیت شان تغییری نکرده اند و هشدار داد که ایالات متحده باید برای حملات آینده آ...

See More

THEHILL.COM

Panetta: Taliban hasn't changed, will provide 'safe haven for terrorists'

1,700 People Reached

269 Engagements

Boost Post

Edit Follow

Promote

The DPPC

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 15 at 9:20 AM · 🌐

Defying the Taliban's newly introduced draconian dress code mandate for women in schools, Afghan women around the world are posting photos of themselves wearing colorful traditional clothing.

"In recent days the Taliban has mandated the segregation of genders in classrooms and said female students, lecturers and employees must wear hijabs in accordance with the group's interpretation of Sharia law."

در اعتراض به دستورالعمل لباس سختگیرانه و افراطی جدید طالبان برای زنان و
See More ...دخ

CNN.COM

Afghan women are sharing photos of dresses to protest the Taliban's black hijab mandate

1,565

People Reached

371

Engagements

Boost Post

Ferdous

Edit Follow

Promote

The DPPC

Published by Ferdous Dehqan Azami · September 15 at 4:52 PM

In Kandahar, widespread public protests are happening in the city center after the Taliban announced it is forcibly evicting thousands of residents who live in housing provided to them by the Afghan government. This follows ethnically motivated forced evacuations of residents in Panjshir and Daikundi.

پس از آنکه طالبان اعلام کردند که هزاران نفر از ساکنان خانه هایی را که توسط دولت سابقه در اختیار مردم قرار گرفته بود به زور بیرون می نمایند، اعتراضات عمومی گسترده ای در مرکز شهر... See More

CNN.COM

Taliban gives thousands of Kandahar residents three days to leave their homes, protesters say

1,444

People Reached

316

Engagements

Post Post

Edit Follow

Promote

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Bob Menendez harshly criticized the Biden administration's handling of the U.S. withdrawal from Afghanistan, calling it "clearly and fatally flawed." This came as Secretary of State Antony Blinken faced intense questioning from members of Congress during a two-day hearing over the chaotic exit from Afghanistan.

"This committee expects to receive a full explanation of the administration's decisions on Afghanistan since coming into office last January. There has to be accountability."

باب منندز (Bob Menendez) رئیس کمیته روابط خارجی سنای ایالات متحده روی عملکرد خروج امریکا از افغانستان شدیداً انتقاد نموده و آن را بطور "آشکار و کامل ناکام" خوانده است. این در حالی است که انتونی بلینکن وزیر امور خارجه ایالات متحده در جلسات استماعیه دو روزه درباره خروج آشفته از افغانستان با پرسش های جدی اعضای کانگرس این کشور روبرو گردید.

"این کمیته خواهان توضیحات کامل تصامیم حکومت بایدن در مورد افغانستان از زمان روی کار آمدن این حکومت در ماه جنوری میباشد تا در این زمینه حسابدهی لازم صورت گیرد."

USATODAY.COM

'Fatally flawed' Top Senate Democrat blasts Biden