What's the problem?

Your absence of a clear statement whether Sam Rainsy was ordered to return, as claimed by Hun Sen, leaves room for ambiguity and speculation.

Today, I made a terrible typo in my career life by mistakenly using “horrific” instead of “honorific” to refer to the title of our new PM Hun Manet. I apologize to the PM for this. I request @asianewsnetwork members to help make correction. Thank you!

The screenshot shows a news article from 'The Phnom Penh Post' on 'Asia News Network'. The article title is 'NATION' and the text includes: 'power for nearly four decades. Hun Sen remains president of the ruling Cambodian People's Party out of the total 125 parliament seats in the July 23 general election.' Below that, it says: 'King Norodom Sihamoni has bestowed upon Manet the horrific "Kitti Tesaphibal Bindit", a knowledge and highest intelligence who will lead the country to greater prosperity.' A red circle highlights the word 'horrific'.

Letter to the Editor of CambojaNews

The Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries (MAFF) wishes to express its concerns regarding a recent article published by CambojaNews titled “Family of Violently Beaten Government Critic Sues Justice dated 14th September 2023”. Specifically, MAFF notes that:

1. The article is written in an author named Khann Nara, while it was Jack Brook who contacted the MAFF spokesperson and presented himself as a CambojaNews's journalist. Jack Brook's name is in no where to be found at the article, not even as a co-author. Why is Jack Brook not credited to this article?
  2. The article depicted Ny Nék as a credible critic of Government policies without examining the substance of his posts which are mostly baseless claims/allegations against Government officials followed by no action and no-remorsement.
  3. The article speculates that the attack on Ny Nék was politically motivated solely based on his recent headlines/articles criticizing Government officials and institutions, and speculations from so-called rights groups. However, there is no evidence to support his claim. A significant portion of the article is dedicated to create connections between Ny Nék's criticism on social media and the assault, raising a question why CambojaNews/Jack Brook and Khann Nara ignored any other possibilities.
  4. The article directly inserts the minister's name in the story, even though the minister has never been mentioned by name in any of Ny Nék's recent Facebook posts.
  5. Despite receiving comments and explanations from both MAFF and Government spokespersons, Jack Brook failed to substantially include them in the article; instead, he reached out to have MAFF retract the comment - when everything has been said by the spokespersons - only to highlight in the article that the minister “could not be reached for comment”. This is another attempt to link minister's name to the incident.
  6. The article quotes Author NGO's employees and includes speculation and defamatory comments with unproven names: “Sony Serkatat” and “Sankarum”. MAFF is considering taking legal action against the author of the defamatory comments if found not to be false.
- Following notes above, MAFF believes that the article contains unsubstantiated claims and allegations, which raises questions about the professionalism and intentions of CambojaNews especially its author either Jack Brook or Khann Nara. MAFF has consistently upheld press freedom and individual rights of expression but maintains a strong stance against results that fail to adhere to professional ethics by disseminating false information or intentionally misleading public opinion based on individuals' false claims and speculations.

MAFF promptly urges CambojaNews to rectify these serious breaches of journalistic ethics by removing unsubstantiated claims and speculation the said MAFF and their leaders reputation and especially by removing the minister's name from the article.
MAFF encourages CambojaNews to take steps to ensure that such malicious intentions and defamatory speculations do not occur in the future which would result in legal actions that could lead to the same outcome of the case V.O.D.
