

My Story

February 14th 2018 I dropped my 18 year old off at school and took a picture of him holding a 5 foot tall teddy bear and a dozen roses that he was about to give to his girlfriend. As I drove away I thought to myself what a lucky girl.

A few min later I got a text alert that there was a school shooting, my heart dropped and I pulled the car over to look at the message. It wasn't my sons school it was Parkland in Brower county in Florida.

I started to cry, I cried because I thought of the picture I had just taken and that 17 other mothers might have taken that same picture and it would have been the last time they ever saw their child. I felt hopeless, sad and determined. I was going to do something about it. I was no longer sending my children into school with nothing to protect themselves with.

"I am taking Politics out of school shootings and coming up with real solutions to protect our Children!"
