Exclusive to the Lyn race, there are actually 2 skill trees in this new class, one that handles the power of the celestial body Galaxy, while the other controls the power of the Ure sky. Galaxy users are able to distort space and disappear for 3 seconds and summon a shooting star show to deal with AOE damage. Ure users are able to summon a wind vortex and move quickly, damaging using lightning and summoning clouds to increase the speed of the allies' movement. Definitely a unique class! Update July 31: The English name for this class is tentatively known as Astromancer. As reported by MMO Culture, NCSoft has revealed a new trailer in which the engine engine was discussed featuring Unreal Engine 4. The update will arrive in December to Korean servers first and receive a new name, Blade and Soul Complete. Features include better combat physics, improved graphics, improved framerates, and more. Other new content includes a new Path to Awakening for Force Master, nicknamed Yin Yang, an unsealed PvP or PvE battlefield, and a new chapter in history. A very opinionated avid pc player, Poorna panics blindly with his friends in various multiplayer games, to the detriment of his team. Constantly questioning industry practices and a passion for technological progress drive his love for the video game industry. He doesn't punch and says it as he sees it. He runs a podcast, Gaming The Industry, with fellow writer Joseph Bradford, discussing industry practices and their effects on consumers.
