Why Do I Need Protection?

More and more, retired people are spending time away from home. If you:

- stay at a secondary residence,
- plan on vacationing,
- travel for medical treatment, or
- visit long-distance relatives

then a travel protection plan is necessary for you!

If your family is faced with your sudden loss, the burden on them, both emotionally and financially, will greatly increase if you are away from home. The costs and details involved with transporting you to your final resting place can be complicated and especially difficult for those in mourning.

If you spend any amount of time traveling or away from home, you need travel protection as a part of your prearrangement package. Simply put, with travel protection, you can have the peace of mind to continue to live your life to the fullest without worry.
