Avon Foundation for Women and Avon Philanthropy Programs

When founder David H. McConnell established Avon in 1886, he said that the company should strive to meet fully the obligations of corporate citizenship by contributing to the well being of society and the environment in which it functions. We live by this principle every day, through our socially responsible business operations and our commitment to empower women through Avon's earnings opportunity and our philanthropic efforts in support of women's causes.

Avon is a leader in funding breast cancer access to care and research, and in supporting efforts to reduce domestic and gender violence. Avon and the Avon Foundation for Women have contributed more than $1 billion for causes most important to women in more than 50 countries.

Breast Cancer Crusade

The Avon Breast Cancer Crusade has placed Avon at the forefront of the fight against breast cancer. Today, Avon is the leading corporate supporter of the cause globally. Avon and the Avon Breast Cancer Crusade raise funds through the sale of Avon "Pink Ribbon" products and through fundraising events over 50 countries annually, including the U.S. AVON 39 The Walk to End Breast Cancer series and the Avon Walk Around the World to End Breast Cancer events.

Domestic Violence

Globally, Avon supports efforts to end violence against women in nearly 50 countries by educating women around the world through its army of nearly six million Avon Representatives.
