

6th anniversary on the road

Just a few statistics for you to ponder

The ninth of July came around again, six years on the road, and we have now completed 137,500 kilometres of travel with Dunmowin pulling along behind us quite happily. The Nissan Patrol is still serving us well. We made a great decision when we found that one back in 2010.

Fuel, total litres 26,736 total paid $39,245

Extreme Points:

Most northerly point – Darwin, Northern Territory (2014) (We have made the northern tip of Qld, but that was a few days late for this report)

Most southerly point – South Cape, Tasmania (2016)

Most easterly point – Byron Bay, NSW (2015)

Most westerly point – Steep Point, Western Australia (2014)

Lowest point – Lake Eyre, South Australia, 15 metres below sea level (2012)

Highest point – Ben Lomond, Tasmania 1570m above sea level (2016)

Saltiest point – Useless Loop Mine – Western Australia (2014)

Wettest place - Western Queensland, September 2016

Driest place – Flinders Ranges, South Australia (2012)

Coldest place – Jonah Bay, Tasmania (2016)

Hottest place – West River, Western Aust (48 degrees) (2013)

States visited: (in this order) Qld, SA, Qld, NSW, SA, Vic, SA, WA, NT, Qld, NSW, Vic, Tas, Vic, SA, NT, Qld, NSW, Qld

Countries visited: Indonesia

Longest time in any state: 15 months in WA

Next bit: The cape (we are there as I write)

Our plan is to find some work in 2018 to top up the coffers.

Next challenge: to do all the state corners.
