New to ANPD: Professional Development (PD) Associate Membership!

Professional Development (PD) Associate Membership

This membership is for "those individuals who contribute to the overall functioning of a continuing education/professional development department in a substantive, measurable way." Examples include, but are not limited to: NPD support personnel, simulation coordinators, continuing education coordinators, BLS educators and coordinators, and health care educators.

PD Associate members are granted full access to the members-only areas of the website, but do not have access to the Journal for Nurses in Professional Development. The annual dues are $125, $15 off the regular membership price of $140. An application must be submitted with payment to the address below. Those applying for the PD associate membership can also email completed applications to info@anpd.org to receive an invoice.

Professional Development (PD) Associate Products

ANPD products geared toward the professional development associate include the following:

Professional Development Associate: Role, Competencies, and Standards

- This 8-module, learner-paced, computer-based program aligns the competencies and standards required for the role and responsibilities of the PD associate who functions to support a continuing education/professional development department.

Human Resources Toolkit for the Professional Development Associate

- ANPD's Human Resources Toolkit for the Professional Development Associate is intended to provide guidance for using assistive personnel in professional development departments. The detailed kit includes an overview of the professional development associate role in relation to the Nursing Professional Development: Scope and Standards of Practice, the professional development associate position description, and the professional development associate evaluation plan.

To receive the discounted PD associate membership price, all PD associate applications must be signed and verified by applicant's supervisor (see below).
