

Arrival of Colder Air Produces Virga

By Don Sutherland

After an unseasonably mild start to Sunday, a noticeably colder air mass pushed into the region. There were a few sprinkles and lots of virga. The air was sufficiently dry that most of the falling rain never reached the ground. Two photos are below.

