

Politicians realising that more and more people are growing acceptance of dictators

Power hungry dictators

Their supporterers

People who love “ powerful ” leaders

People who feel powerless in their daily life

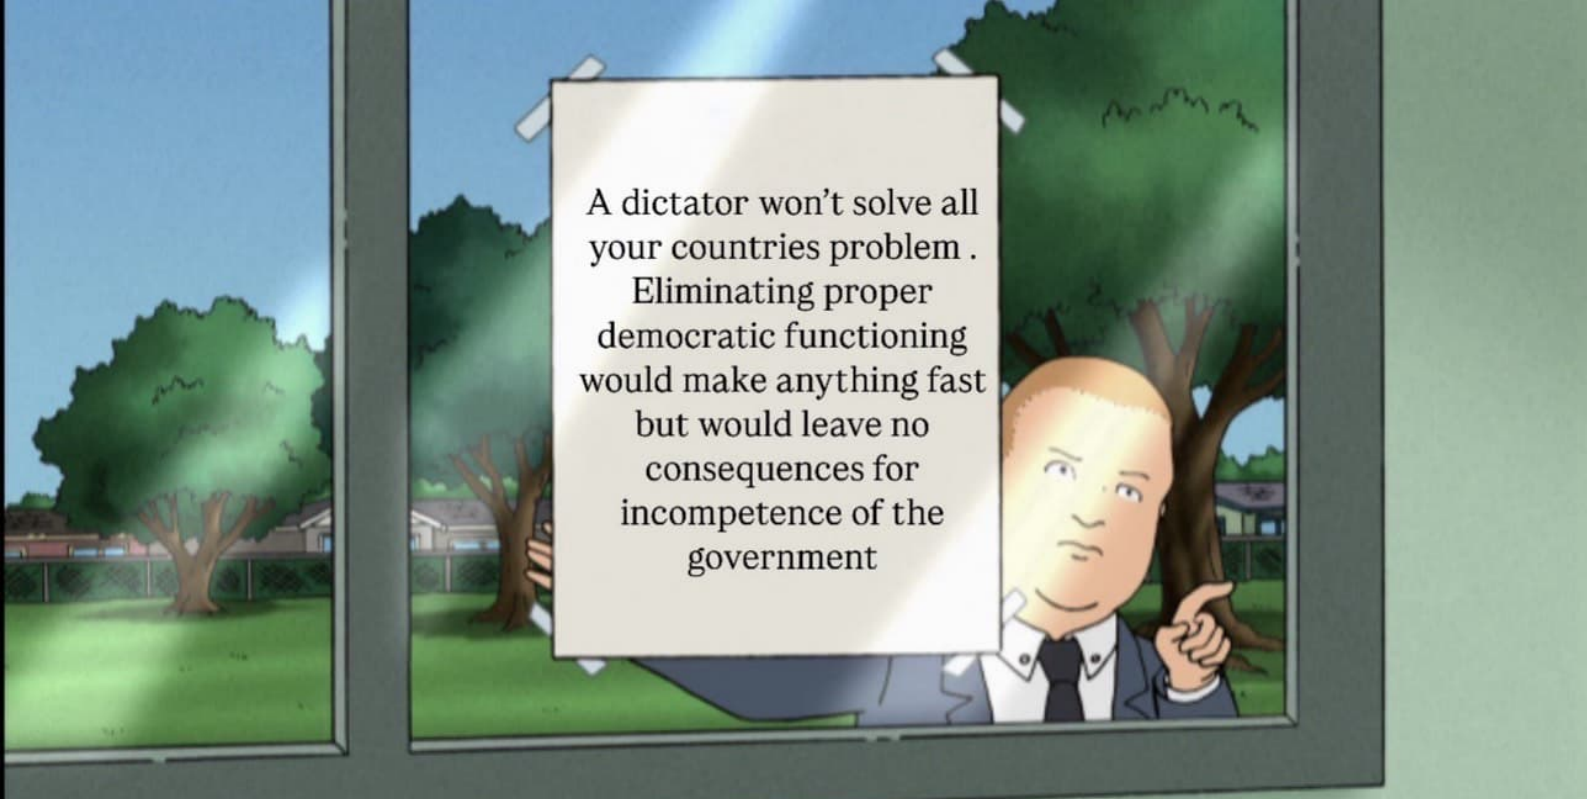

Left wing
dictatorships

Right wing
dictatorships

Corporate needs you to find the differences between this picture and this picture.

They're the same picture.

A man in a blue suit and tie is pointing his right index finger towards a white sign taped to a window. The sign contains text. The background shows a suburban neighborhood with green lawns and trees.

A dictator won't solve all your countries problem .
Eliminating proper democratic functioning would make anything fast but would leave no consequences for incompetence of the government

A man in a blue and white striped shirt and glasses stands outside holding a newspaper. He is talking to a group of children who are looking out of a window. The man in the suit from the top panel is also visible, looking towards the children.

If those kids could read they'd be very upset

European countries watching the world getting swayed by authoritarian leaders

I have played these games before!

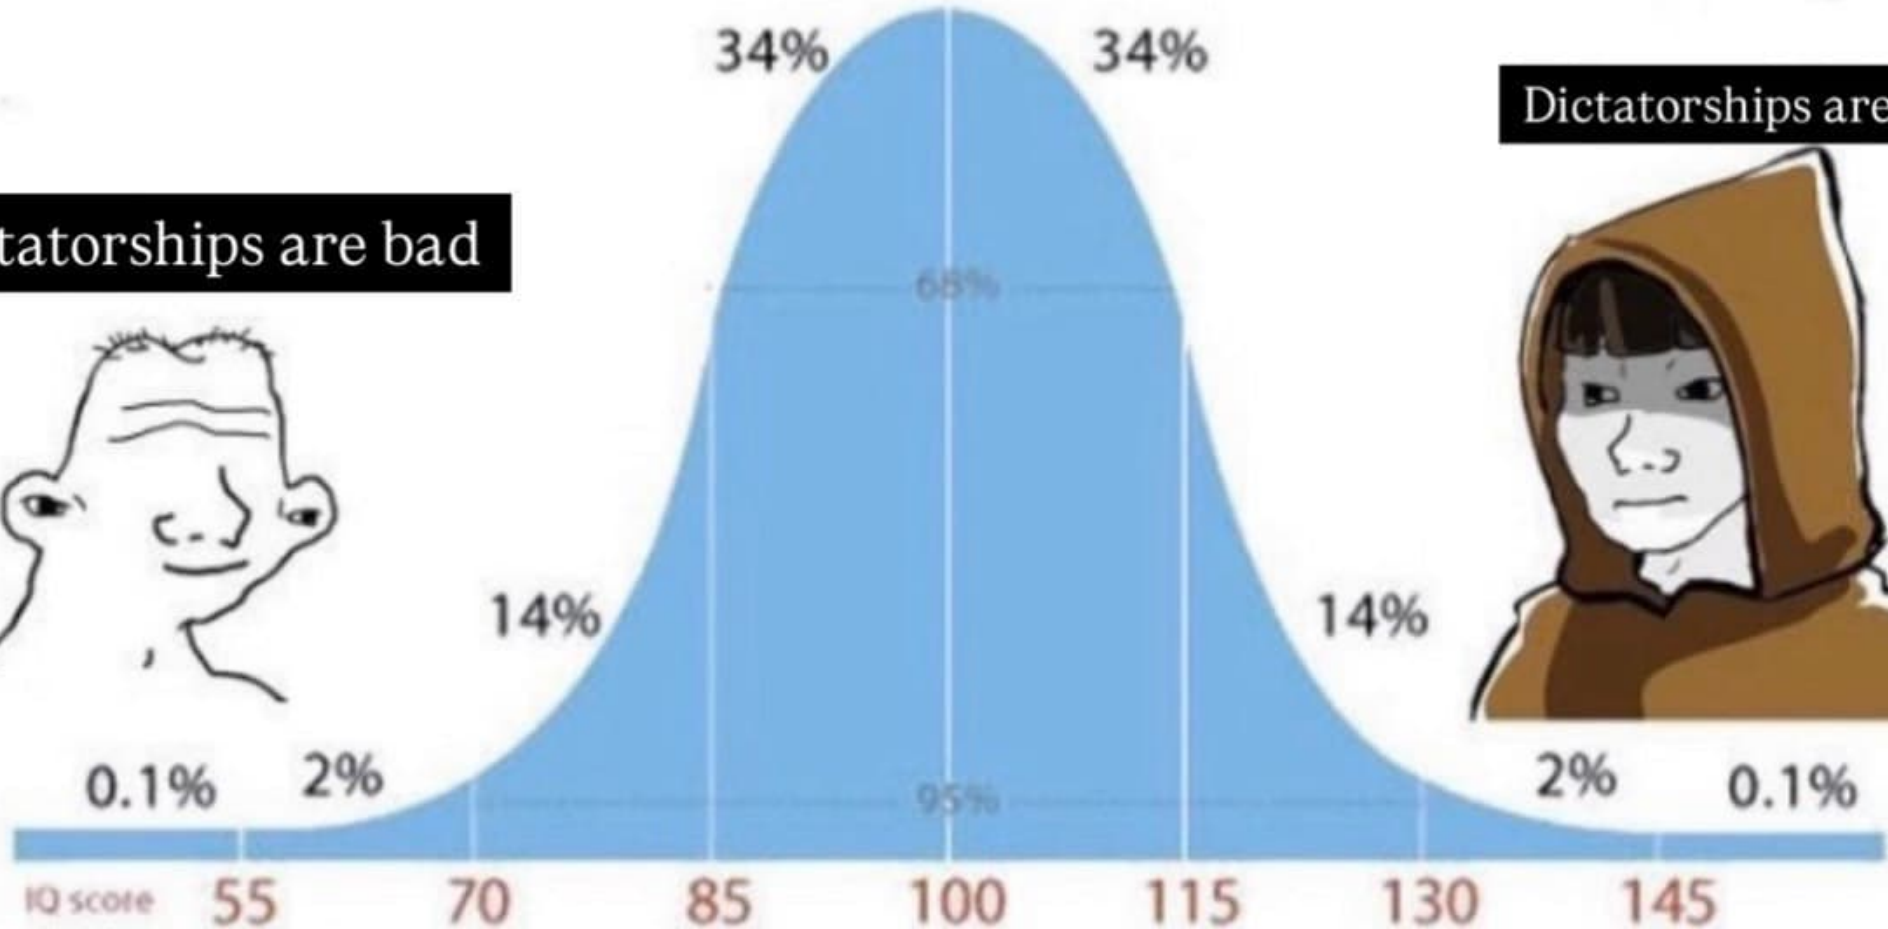

A good dictator with the right policies could develop the nation at rapid speed, leading to astonishing economic growth and crackdown of terrorism and other ill elements

34% 34%

Dictatorships are bad

Dictatorships are bad

Citizens after realising the all powerful leader they happily voted and advocated for will use his power against their interests

