Appendix A

An Unusual Assortment of Images

Figure A1 New Museum Building. Designed by the architecture firm SANAA, the building is composed of several stacked rectangular volumes shifted in different directions.

Figure A2 The Shed. A cultural facility featuring a telescoping steel shell that can move along rails to expand the performance space.

Figure A6 Exterior of 5th Avenue Market & Gourmet Deli . A neighborhood deli located on Fifth Avenue in Brooklyn known for sandwiches, breakfast items, and convenience groceries. Delis such as this are common throughout New York City and serve as informal community gathering points as well as quick food stops
