I had to research the reason behind egg prices increases, I already knew that inflation took a big reason in why it increased, but I also needed to find out if it was the only reason and/or the main reason. I had to consider that it wasn't like an essay I'm not just telling you something I'm trying to push my audience into considering something, so I had to address the same audience but in a different manner. My standards were a concise and fact proof cover letter, and I think I have met it decently. Apart from my main research, I studied the impact these raises have and studied the structures to connect those impacts to. I'd give myself a 100, because It's clear and concise sticks to the point and the connections I made can be easily understood. A goal for next time is expanding the reasoning behind the price increases.
