Hear from Kim

Specifically regarding CPRS, remember that you, as a fellow professional, are part of a community of dedicated people united in service: to our own agencies and clients, to our own professional development, and to the development of our colleagues. Be an active participant in professional organizations such as CPRS and NRPA by attending meetings and conferences, joining committees, and helping plan and execute activities. You may find a mentor, and become a mentor, discover your true calling and further your fellows' careers, all the while creating a meaningful life. By giving, you will receive.

About Kim...

Kim's involvement with parks and recreation began as a client, visiting all the Ohio state parks on summer vacation with his family. He later entered the field as a professional tennis teacher for both Kent and Ravenna parks and rec departments. These experiences led him to teach tennis and other physical education courses at Kent State University, where he earned his PhD. He moved to San José to teach at the University from 2006 to 2011. During that time he was a member of CPRS, NRPA, OhioPRA, and earned his CPRP certificate.
