

An aerial photograph of a residential neighborhood in Medellín, Colombia. The map shows a grid-like street pattern. A major road, Avenida Adalberto Ovalle, runs diagonally from the bottom left towards the top right. To its left, there are several large rectangular plots, some labeled with numbers like 011, 012, 013, 014, and 015. A smaller street, Carrera 35A, branches off to the left from Avenida Adalberto Ovalle. To the right of Avenida Adalberto Ovalle, there are more plots, some labeled with numbers like 001 through 008. Further up, there's a cluster of plots labeled 'casa' followed by numbers like 2, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13, 15, 17, 20, 22, 24. At the top of the map, there's a row of plots labeled 19, 18, 17, 16, 15, 14, 13, 12, 11, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1. A green area on the right side of the map is labeled 'Bosque'. In the bottom left corner, there's a scale bar indicating 0 to 100 meters and a north arrow pointing upwards. In the bottom right corner, there's a QR code. The map also features several circular markers with black dots in the center, likely representing specific locations or points of interest.
